SENATE.

THURSDAY, April 8, 1915.

The Senate met at 10.00 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. Charles H. Kline) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

Rev. M. D. Lichliter offered the following prayer:

O, Lord, we bow before Thy throne, praying that Thou wouldst lead us to a closer and better fellowship to each other. Direct us that in our every thought, word and deed we may make for a higher and a broader citizenship. Help us that being clean of heart and true to self we can be false to none. Bless this great country of ours, this State and all its institutions and grant to steady us in our purpose that our institutions may grow with the nation's growth, and our broader and higher destiny may be as a pillar of cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night to struggling mankind the world over. Bless this Senate, its officers, the members and employes, and preserve them in body, in mind and in heart, We ask in Jesus' name. Amen.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. FARLEY, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal was approved.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 608 (House No. 800), entitled:

An Act to repeal an act approved the first day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled 'An Act to tax traction engines and providing that the same shall be assessed by the several assessors of the counties of this Commonwealth in the same manner as other articles of personal estate liable for taxation are assessed"

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STEWART. Mr. President, when this bill was up a few days ago it was referred back to committee. It comes to us this morning in its original form and a little explanation may be necessary. This is a bill that places the traction engines that we farmers use in the fall of the year to do all our threshing upon an equality with any other vehicle that travels the road. As at present under the original bill it pays a double tax; it pays a property tax, and a license tax for the man who operates it, and that is wrong. I hope the bill will pass, repealing that original act and placing it upon an equality with any other vehicle that travels the road.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented communications in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which were laid upon the table.

RECONSIDERATION OF SENATE BILL NO. 662.

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which Senate Bill No. 622, on page 13, of yesterday's calendar, entitled:

An Act regulating the licensing of dealers in intoxicating liquors in the County of Schuylkill creating a Liquor License Commission for said county prescribing its powers and duties providing for the appointment of commissioners by the Governor and imposing certain duties upon the county commissioners and expenses upon said county was defeated on final passage.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President, I voted no.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I voted no.

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, I move that the question together with the further consideration of the bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

RECONSIDERATION OF SENATE BILL NO. 192.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which Senate Bill No. 192 (House Bill No. 10), on page 3, of the calendar of Wednesday, March 31, 1915, entitled:

An Act regulating the manner of payment of county employees in counties having a population over one million was defeated on final passage.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I voted no.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, I voted no.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. GRAFF. Mr President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, with pleasure.

Mr. GRAFF. Mr. President, has too long a time elapsed to bring up this question?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I understand I am within my rights, as five legislative days have not elapsed. This bill relates to the City of Philadelphia and the County of Philadelphia. It provides for the semi-monthly payment of employes of the respective county departments, and under some misapprehension, the bill failed of passage on March 31st, and I ask the members of the Senate to vote for a reconsideration.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, this bill conforms to a bill that was passed two years ago which provided for the payment of those employed by corporations by semi-monthly payments. This bill provides that the City of Philadelphia would pay its employes twice a month instead of once a month. It would not cost any more. The warrant clerks in the different departments would be required to draw two warrants a month instead of one, and it would help the employes to get through the month without going and borrowing money from the loan sharks when they get short of money. It seems to me a just bill and ought to be reconsidered and passed. There is not a feature in the bill that hurts anybody.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constituton, and were as follows, viz:

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. ROTHENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. ROTHENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, yesterday I called up resolution No. 15. I hope you all have read that resolution. The purpose of that resolution was to bring before this House the expenses of this Appropriation Committee. In the session of 1913 it was rumored and reported that some members of the Appropriation Committee received mileage books from the Appropriation Committee which they used in going home and returning. Now, the purpose of that resolution was to bring out whether this is true or not. The purpose of the resolution was that they shall file their expense account. That was all the resolution was introduced for. As the Appropriation Committee has referred it back to their own Committee and dug their own grave, and buried it in there, the House cannot find out what is going on. In a few weeks we shall vote on those appropriation bills which they have fixed up. They give no report to this House whatever. We, the 167 members do not know what they are about. Now, gentlemen, is it not proper that we ought to know something when we vote on those appropriation bills whether they are right or not. They say they are right. We don't know, but we shall vote on those bills. I say it was proper to call the resolution up. I hope you will try and get it back again to this House. They have a secretary, and it is not a hardship on the Chairman of the Appropriation Committee. They have a secretary for the whole year and he has the report of their expenses and where this money goes to.

The House met at 8:00 o'clock P. M.

The SPEAKER (Charles A. Ambler) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. F. W. Staley, offered the following prayer:

O God, Thou art our God, and besides Thee there is none other. Thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations; Thou art infinite in love. He that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and he that love not, knoweth not God, for God is love; a love that pities, seeks and saves; a love that makes a man a man of faith, to remove mountains and to overcome the world; that fills man with courage to master himself, his circumstances and his environments; a love that is inseparable for it throws out the challenge, "who shall separate us from the love of Christ? Shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or the sword, nay in all these things; we are more than conquerors through Him that loved us, for I am persuaded that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor heighth, nor depth, nor any other creature shall be able to separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus, our Lord." O God, endow every one of us with this power, we ask for Christ's sake. Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of the proceedings of April 8th, 1915.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the proceedings of April 8th, when on motion of Mr. Baker, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal was approved.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE GOVERNOR.

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 434.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 9, 1915.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I return herewith without my approval House Bill No. 434, entitled "An Act making an appropriation to refund Henry S. Reichard of South Bethlehem Pennsylvania money erroneously paid into the State Treasury."

This bill contemplates a refund of money erroneously paid into the State Treasury. The bill is carelessly drawn. Its merit is not in question. A new bill carefully drawn would meet my approval.

For these reasons this bill is not approved.

(Signed) MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

On the question,

Shall the bill become a law, the veto of the Governor to the contrary notwithstanding.

Mr. TRACH. Mr. Speaker, I move that the veto be laid upon the table.

Mr. GARNER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 295.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 9, 1915.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I return herewith without my approval House Bill No. 295, entitled "An Act to protect the public health in cities of the first class in this Commonwealth and for that purpose creating in the Department of Public Health and Charities four Bureaus to be called the Bureaus of Hospitals and Charities Health Sanitation and Housing said Bureaus to have the supervision and control in said cities of Hospitals and Charities Health Sanitation and Housing as herein set forth and other matters affecting the public welfare so far as regards the use and occupancy of public buildings and of all buildings and the appurtenances thereto occupied in whole or in part as places of residence by more than two families living separate and apart and providing for themselves also the licensing supervision and control and the use of lodging rooming apartment and tenement houses creating a sanitary board for the purpose of enforcing the provisions of this act fixing the responsibility for violations of any of the provisions of this act and also giving power to said Sanitary Board to make rules and regulations to govern certain conditions affecting health and sanitation and the licensing of certain trades industries and premises and providing for punishments and penalties for violations of any of the rules and regulations made by the Department of Public Health and Charities or by said Sanitary Board under the powers granted by this act also proivding for the filing of liens also providing for the inspection by the Bureau of building inspection and the fire marshal of said cities of the first class and repealing all laws inconsistent herewith" .

This bill contemplates the creation of a Sanitary Board in cities of the first class. It is intended as a repealer of the so-called Housing Code of 1913. The history of the latter act is well known to the people of Philadelphia.. The introduction and passage of this bill has occasioned much comment and has aroused considerable feeling among the parties in interest. The present bill has been presented because it is claimed by many that the Housing Code of 1913 is too drastic, that it is too costly, and that it is impracticable.

On the other hand it has been argued with great earnestness that this bill is a distinct step backwards and would prove of no definite service to the people affected by its provisions.

The fact to be kept in mind is that the act of 1913 has not been enforced. Just what its meaning may be is, so far as a practical test is concerned, as yet undefined.

To annul a statute of this Commonwealth without giving it the test of a trial is of doubtful wisdom. The present bill is not carefully drawn, nor are its provisions likely to secure the results so essential to the health of our people.

Much feeling has developed concerning this matter. The Legislature is now in session. If both the Act of 1913 and the present bill are, as claimed, so widely divergent in character as to divide the parties in interest into hostile camps, the Legislature is quite capable of dealing with the situation, provided the officials and the citizens of Philadelphia will get together at once, lay aside their extreme differences and agree frankly and fully upon a bill whose provisions are workable and reasonable. The health of the people should no longer be jeopardized by delay. There is, moreover, a repealer now in the Legislature which, if agreement cannot be reached, could do no other harm than to throw the whole city back upon the old law. The failure to enforce the present act and the conviction that the pending bill is not adequate to the conservation of the health of the people. alike impel me to urge instant conference and argeement upon a bill such as will be enforceable and will give the city a housing code of the most advanced practical character.

For these reasons and in the earnest hope that all parties may unite to give this matter prompt attention, this bill is not approved.

(Signed) MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

On the question,

Shall the bill become a law the veto of the Governor to the contrary notwithstanding?

Mr. GRANSBACH. Mr. Speaker, I move that the veto be laid upon the table.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Mr. McVICAR. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time from page 7 of today's calendar, House Bill No. 1008, File Folio 3533, Bills on Final Passage Postponed.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1008, entitled:

An Act dividing the counties of this Commonwealth into eight classes designating the mode of ascertaining and changing the classification and providing for the regulation of their affairs according to their respective class

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McVICAR. Mr. Speaker, I have been asked to make an explanation of this bill which is before you now for consideration. The bill divides the counties of this State into eight classes for the purpose of future legislation. It was prepared by the Law Library of Allegheny County and approved by the Bar Association of that county. Under the existing law every bill relating to counties fixes the minimum number and the maximum number of the population. The result is that any one who is interested in a law relating to a particular county must examine all the acts in the digest in order to know what acts apply to the county in which he is interested. If this bill becomes a law all future legislation will be classified under the proper classification as specified in this bill. It will not affect any of the existing laws relating to counties, and it follows the same general scheme as in the classification of cities and townships as on the statute books at the present time.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Ageeably to the provisions of the Constitutio,n the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 433, as follows:

An Act defining trading stamps as including stamps coupons tickets cards certificates and other similar devices given with a sale or bailment of merchandise regulating and licensing the sale furnishing and giving of trading stamps and providing penalties for the violation thereof

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the term "trading stamp" when used in this act includes any coupon stamp certificate ticket card or other device furnished free by a vendor of merchandise together with merchandise as an inducement for the sale thereof and which stamp certificate coupon card ticket or other device is redeemable in or accepted for personal property or money by the vendor or by any person or firm or corporation other than the vendor The term "trading stamp" does not apply to certificates or coupons or cards or stamps or tickets placed by the manufacturer in sealed containers of merchandise or printed or stamped on the container or wrapper enclosing the merchandise The word "person" includes individuals copartnerships corporations and associations The word "sale" includes a conditional sale and a bailment

Section 2 No person shall sell give or furnish trading stamps intended for use in or with the sale of merchandise to a merchant or vendor of merchandise unless the person selling giving or furnishing trading stamps shall have obtained a license therefor from the county treasurer for which the persons shall have paid the sum of one thousand dollars And no merchant or vendor of merchandise shall sell give or furnish trading stamps for use in or with the sale of merchandise unless the merchant or vendor of merchandise selling giving or furnishing trading stamps shall have obtained a license therefor from the county treasurer for which the merchant or vendor shall have paid the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars And no merchant or vendor of merchandise shall sell give or furnish trading stamps for use in or with the sale of merchandise where such trading stamps have been manufactured or prepared by such merchant or vendor or manufactured or prepared at his instance unless the merchant or vendor selling giving or furnishing such stamps shall have obtained a license therefor from the county treasurer for which he shall have paid the sum of one thousand dollars

Section 3 The license herein provided for shall be valid only for the calendar year for which issued No license shall be issued except upon a written application which shall set forth the name and business address of the applicant The application shall be accompanied by the proper license fee One-fourth of the money received from such license shall be paid monthly into the State Treasury The remaining three-fourths shall be retained by the county and devoted to the construction maintenance and repair of roads and county bridges in the county

Section 4 The license shall permit the selling or furnishing of trading stamps only at one place of business in the county If the applicant for a license has more than one place of business in the county a separate license shall be required for each place Every building or part of a building shall be deemed a separate place of business where trading stamps are sold or furnished or where the personal property to be exchanged for the trading stamps is exhibited

Section 5 Any person violating any of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof the person if an individual or the members of a co-partnership or association or the officers and directors of a corporation as the case may be with guilty knowledge of the fact shall each be sentenced to pay a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars or to undergo an imprisonment not exceeding six months or both in the discretion of the court

Section 6 This act shall become effective ou the first day of January one thousand nine hundred and sixteen

Section 7 All acts or parts of acts supplied herewith or inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. PALMER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, before this House passes this bill, they should go carefully and think what they are about to do. There seems to be no reason to put a tax upon the trading stamp firm, unless it be for the benefit of the shopkeepers of Pennsylvania, wholly disregarding the premium which the purchaser gets when she goes to the store. In each one of these places where a trading stamp firm has been established, they are employing four to five persons, and by this act you are going to put out of work these people. Now this may mean a revenue to the State of Pennsylvania, but if the sponsor of this bill has in mind the collection of revenue for the State of Pennsylvania he starts too large in his amounts, because a thousand dollars means prohibition, and consequently the going out of the trading stamp business. Now, we are not here as the guardians of the people, we are not here to say whether they shall purchase these things and shall not purchase more than is necessary to get a premium. That is up to the people of Pennsylvania and not for us to decide. For I say that the trading stamp firms pay their mercantile license the same as anybody else. They say that they take all the wealth out of Pennsylvania and put none of it back. Why, there is nothing to prevent the citizens of Pennsylvania to establish the same thing, and further, gentlemen, will you let your earnestness for the welfare of labor extend only to Pennsylvania? If these chairs and these desks are manufactured outside have some consideration for them, because you are not doing the workingmen of Pennsylvania any good. We have many of these little stores. Now, I am not excited abou this affair, but I do not think it is proper. There have been many things passed for the benefit of the shopkeeper. I am not against the shopkeeper. They do not have to sell their stamps if they dont want to—it is a matter of option. Some of the greatest things in history have been passed for the benefit of the shopkeepers. The burning of Mary Burns was done for the benefit of the shopkeepers of Ludgate. Now, we are not going to burn any one but we are going to put a lot of people out of business, and I only want to make my declaration on this floor before that thing happens.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I wish to say that a great many of my constituents, and most of them small merchants, have vigorously assailed the trading stamp proposition. It has reached such proportions of late that it has become a burden upon the small merchant who is unable to check it, and he, to a great extent, must bear the burden in order that the men who are at the head of this business may fill their coffers to repletion. In Winchester, Virginia, there is one man who has made millions upon millions of dollars out of this trading stamp business, and where has it come from? It has come out of the pockets of the people and out of the small merchants of Pennsylvania and of other states. As I understand, these men now do a great business in Pennsylvania, and practically pay no license. If they do the business that we all know that they do do in the State of Pennsylvania, why should not they be compelled to pay a heavy license for the business they do, as other businesses have to do for the business that they do. As I have already remarked, if the small merchant should be relieved of this burden, if it were a matter of volition, there would be no purpose in placing a high license upon this business, but as I have already stated, this business has simply taken a stranglehold upon the small merchant and has practically compelled him to accept a proposition that he does not want. And what does it mean? We all know what a struggle the small merchant has at present to get along. Why should we saddle upon him additional burdens? I say to you, gentlemen of the House, that this is a fair proposition both from the standpoint of the manufacturer and in so far as the small merchant of Pennsylvania is concerned, in behalf of whom this proposition should be considered by the legislature of this great State.

Mr. PALMER. Mr. Speaker, if we go along the line of the gentleman from York's argument, Mr. Spangler, then this Assembly should pass a bill providing that a manufacturer shall sell all his goods at the same price, whether a man buys in carloads or whether he buys in fives. That is precisely the same argument for the benefit of the small storekeeper of Pennsylvania. There is another thing in this. In the large communities the trading stamp firms will be able to stand this proposition because they have a wider field. They will be able to stand this one thousand dollar tax, but in small communities, in communities which are not particuarly large, such as I reside in, we are going to be cut out by this bill. Now, I ask you to consider it fairly and then render your judgment.

Mr. WALTON. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, I feel sorry indeed that my friend from Schuylkill feels called upon to oppose this bill, but knowing as I do, that he has a particular friend interested in the trading stamp business, I am not surprised at his opposition. I want to say to the members of the House, that I am not the author of this bill, but that I have presented it at the instance of The Retail Merchants' Association of Pennsylvania—an association comprised of ten thousand members. When the gentleman from Schuylkill talks about imposing a hardship upon the small dealer, it seems to me that he has not read the bill properly. To begin with, the bill provides that a trading stamp concern shall, to do business in a county, go to the county treasurer of that particular county and pay a license of one thousand dollars. That license is paid by the wholesale stamp concern giving them a license to sell stamps to retail merchants. We do not ask that the retail merchant pay one thousand dollars. We come to that later. In another section it provides that the merchant who produces or develops his own samps, such as the United Cigar Stores Companies and as large concerns are doing, shall be considered as manufacturing, and they, too, shall pay one thousand dollars for each place of business. When it comes to the retail merchant, he is asked to pay one hundred and fifty dollars. That will show you that Mr. Palmer's position is entirely wrong. He says that it will practically prohibit the stamp business in many counties of the State. I will say to the members of this House candidly, that that is just what we want. As a merchant, I can truthfully say, as one who has handled trading stamps, not because of his own desire, but because of coercion and because of sharp competition and as representing an association of ten thousand people, I ask the members of this House to pass this bill in order that the small merchant may be relieved of this burden. Do you ask why he handles the stamps. I will tell you. Among merchants as among other men, you always find a weak brother; an agent comes along and offers him a proposition. He says I will sell you this stamp, and I will give you the exclusive right to it. I will not sell to your neighbor. This gives that retail grocer getting the stamp, an unfair advantage. His neighbor must scout around to find another trading stamp concern in order that he can get a stamp and save his business. He is compelled to do this because of the fact of sharp competition. I hope that the members of this House will vote for the passage of this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Upon receipt of said certificate from the Insurance Commissioner said society may solicit members for the purpose of completing its organization and shall collect from each applicant the amount of not less than one regular monthly payment in accordance with its table of rates as provided by its constitution and laws and shall issue to each such applicant a receipt for the amount so collected But no such society shall incur any liability other than for such advanced payments nor issue any benefit certificate nor pay or allow or promise to pay or allow to any person any death or disability benefit until actual bona fida applications for death benefit certificates have been secured upon at least five hundred lives for at least one thousand dollars each and all such applicants for death benefits shall have been regularly examined by legally qualified practicing physicians and certificates of such examinations have been duly filed and approved by the chief medical examiner of such society nor until there shall be established ten subordinate lodges or branches into which said five hundred applicants have been initiated nor until there has been submitted to the Insurance Commissioner under oath of the president and secretary or corresponding officers of such society a list of such applicants giving their names addresses date examined date approved date initiated name and number of the subordinate branch of which each applicant is a member amount of benefits to be granted rate of stated periodical contributions which shall be sufficient to provide for meeting the mortuary obligations contracted when valued for death benefits upon the basis of the National Fraternal Congress Table of Mortality as adopted by the National Fraternal Congress August twenty-three one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine or any higher standard at the option of the society and for disability benefits by tables based upon reliable experience and for combined death and permanent total disability benefits by tables based upon reliable experience with an interest assumption not higher than four per cent per annum nor until it shall be shown to the Insurance Commissioner by the sworn statement of the treasurer or corresponding officer of such society that at least five hundred applicants have each paid in cash at least one regular monthly payment as herein provided per one thousand dollars of indemnity to be effected which payments in the aggregate shall amount to at least twenty-five hundred dollars all of which shall be credited to the mortuary or disability fund on account of such applicants and no part of which may be used for expenses

Said advanced payment shall during the period of organization be held in trust and if the organization is not completed within one year as hereinafter provided returned to said applicants

The Insurance Commissioner may make such examination and require such further information as he deems advisable and upon presentation of satisfactory evidence that the society has complied with all the provisions of law he shall issue to such society a certificate to that effect Such certificate shall be prima facie evidence of the existence of such society at the date of such certificate The Insurance Commissioner shall cause a record of such certificate to be made and a certified copy of such record may be given in evidence with like effect as the original certificate

No preliminary certificate granted under the provisions of this section shall be valid after one year from its date or after such further period not exceeding one year as may be authorized by the Insurance Commissioner upon cause shown unless the five hundred applicants herein required have been secured and the organization has been completed as herein provided and the articles of incorporation and all proceedings thereunder shall become null and void in one year from the date of said preliminary certificate or at the expiration of said extended period unless such society shall have completed its organization and commenced business as herein provided When any domestic society shall have discontinued business for the period of one year or has less than 400 members its charter shall become null and void

Section 13 Any society heretofore organized or incorporated under any act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and which is now engaged in transacting business in this Commonwealth may exercise after the passage of this act all of the rights conferred thereby and all of the rights powers privileges and exemptions now exercised or possessed by it under its charter or articles of incorporation or if it be a voluntary association it may incorporate hereunder But no society already organized shall be required to re-incorporate hereunder Nor shall its existence as a corporation nor its right to exercise any corporate rights vested in it by virtue of its past incorporation be effected by anything herein contained

Section 14 No domestic society shall merge with or accept the transfer of the membership or funds of any other society unless such merger or transfer is evidenced by a contract in writing setting out in full the terms and conditions of such merger or transfer and filed with the Insurance Commissioner of this Commonwealth together with a sworn statement of the financial condition of each of said societies by its president and secretary or corresponding officers and a certificate or such officers duly verified under oath of said officers of each of the contracting societies that such merger or transfer has been approved by a vote of two-thirds of the members of the supreme legislative or governing body of each of said societies

Upon the submission of the said contract financial statements and certificates the Insurance Commissioner shall examine the same and if he shall find such financial statements to be correct and the said contract to be in conformity with the provisions of this section and that such merger or transfer is just and equitable to the members of each of said societies he shall approve said merger or transfer issue his certificate to that effect and thereupon the said contract of merger or transfer shall be of full force and effect

In case such contract is not approved the fact of its submission and its contents shall not be disclosed by the Insurance Commissioner

Section 15 Foreign societies which are now authorized to transact business in this Commonwealth may continue such business until the first day of April next succeeding the passage of this act and the authority of such societies may thereafter be renewed annually but in all cases to terminate on the first day of the succeeding April Provided however the license shall continue in full force and effect until the new license be issued or specifically refused For each such license or renewal the society shall pay the Insurance Commissioner twenty dollars A duly certified copy or duplicate of such license shall be prima facie evidence that the license is a fraternal benefit society within the meaning of this act

Section 16 No foreign society which is not now authorized to transact business in this Commonwealth shall transact any business without a license from the Insurance Commissioner Any such society shall be entitled to a license to transact business within this Commonwealth upon filing with the Insurance Commissioner a duly certified copy of its charter or articles of association a copy of its constitution and laws and certificates certified by its secretary or corresponding officer a power of attorney to the Insurance Commissioner as hereinafter provided a statement of its business under oath of its president and secretary or corresponding officers in the form required by the Commissioner duly verified by an examination made by the supervising insurance official of its home state or other state satisfactory to the Insurance Commissioner of this Commonwealth a certificate from the proper official in its home state province or country that the society is legally organized all of which must show that its benefits are provided for by periodical or other payments by its members and upon furnishing the Commissioner such other information as he may deem necessary to a proper exhibit of its business and plan of working and upon showing that its assets are invested in accordance with the laws of the state territory district province or country where it is organized he shall issue a license to such society to do business in this Commonwealth until the first day of the succeeding April and such license shall upon compliance with the provisions of this act be renewed annually but in all cases to terminate on the first day of the succeeding April Provided however That license shall continue in full force and effect until the new license be issued or specifically refused Any foreign society desiring admission to this Commonwealth shall have the qualifications required of domestic societies organized under this act and have its assets invested as required by the laws of the State territory district country or province where it is organized For each such license or renewal the society shall pay to the Commissioner twenty dollars Provided however That nothing contained in this or the preceding section shall be taken or construed as preventing any such society from continuing in good faith all contracts made in this Commonwealth during the time such society was legally authorized to transact business herein

Section 17 Every foreign society applying for admission to this Commonwealth shall by a duly executed instrument filed in the office of the Insurance Commissioner constitute and appoint the Insurance Commissioner or his successors its true and lawful attorney upon whom all lawful processes in any action or legal proceeding against it may be served and therein shall agree that any lawful process against it which may be served upon him as its said attorney shall be of the same force and vitality as if served on the society and that the authority thereof shall continue in force irrevocable so long as any liability of the society remains outstanding in this Commonwealth The service of such process shall be made by leaving copies of the same in duplicate in the hands or office of the Commissioner One copy of such instrument certified by the Commissioner or his deputy as having been served upon him shall be deemed valid service upon the society Provided however That no such service shall be valid or binding against any such society when it is required thereunder to file its answer pleading or defense in less than thirty days from the date of mailing the copy of such service to such society

When legal procedure is served upon the Commissioner as attorney for a foreign society he shall forthwith forward one of the duplicate copies of process served on him to its secretary or corresponding officer or to such other person as may have been previously designated by the society by written notice filed in the office of the Commissioner As a condition of valid and effective service and of the duty of the Commissioner in the premises the plaintiff in each such process shall pay to the Commissioner at the time of the service thereof the sum of two dollars which the said plaintiff shall recover as taxable costs if he prevails in the suit The Commissioner shall keep a record of all such processes which shall show the day and hour of service Legal process shall not be served upon any such society except in the manner provided herein

Section 18 Any domestic society may provide that the meetings of its legislative or governing body may be held in any state district province or territory wherein such society has subordinate branches and all business transacted at such meetings shall be as valid in all respects as if such meetings were held in this Commonwealth but its principal office shall be located in this Commonwealth

Section 19 Officers and members of the supreme grand or any subordinate body of any such incorporated society shall not be individually liable for the payment of any disability or death benefit provided for in the laws and agreements of such society but the same shall be payable only out of the funds of such society and in the manner provided by its laws

Section 20 Unless authorized by express provisions in the constitution and laws of the society no subordinate body nor any of its subordinate officers or members shall have the power or authority to waive any of the provisions of the constitution and laws of the society and the same shall be binding on the society and each and every member thereof and on all beneficiaries of members

Section 21 No money or other benefit charity or relief or aid to be paid provided or rendered by any such society shall be liable to attachment garnishment or other process or be seized taken appropriated or applied by any legal or equitable process or operation of law to pay any debt or liability of a member or beneficiary or any other person who may have a right thereunder either before or after payment

Section 22 Every such society by its supreme governing or legislative body shall have power to make alter and amend a constitution and laws for the government of the society the management of its affairs the admission and clasification of its members the control and regulation of the terms and conditions governing the issue of its benefit certificates and the character or kind of benefits or privileges payable or allowable thereunder Every such constitution and laws when made and as altered and amended shall be the law governing the said society and its officers board of directors or managers subordinate or constituent lodges councils or branches and all members and beneficaries in their relation to such society Each society shall file with the Insurance Commissioner a duly certified copy of all amendments of or additions to its constitution and laws within ninety days after the enactment of the same Printed copies of the constitution and laws as amended changed or added to certified by the secretary or corresponding officer thereof shall be prima facie evidence of the legal adoption thereof

Section 23 Every society transacting business in this Commonwealth shall annually on or before the first day of March file with the Insurance Commissioner in such form as he may require a statement under oath of its president and secretary or corresponding officer of its condition and standing on the thirty-first day of December next preceding and of its transactions for the year ending on that date and also shall furnish such other information as the Insurance Commissioner may deem necessary to a proper exhibit of its business and plan of working The Commissioner may at other times require any further statement he may deem necessary to be made relating to such society

In addition to the annual report herein required each society shall annually report to the Commissioner a valuation of its certificates in force on December thirty-first last preceding excluding those issued within the year for which the report is filed in cases where the contributions for the first year in whole or in part are used for current expenses provided the first report of valuation shall be made as of December thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and fifteen Such report of valuation shall show as contingent liabilities the present mid-year value of the promised benefits provided in the constitution and laws of such society under certificates then subject to valuation less such portion thereof as may have been assumed by other associations or companies and as contingent assets the present mid-year value of the future net contributions provided in the constitution and laws as the same are in practice actually collected At the option of any society in lieu of the above valuation may show the net value of the certificates subject to valuation hereinbefore provided less such portion thereof as may have been assumed by other associations or companies and said net value when computed in case of monthly contributions may be the mean of the terminal values for the end of the preceding and of the current insurance years

Such valuation shall be certified by a competent accountant or actuary or at the request and expense of the society verified by the actuary of the department of insurance of the home state of the society and shall be filed with the Insurance Commissioner within ninety days after the submission of the last preceding annual report The legal minimum standard of valuation for all certificates except for disability benefits shall be the National Fraternal Congress Table of Mortality as adopted by the National Fraternal Congress August twenty-third one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine or at the option of the society any higher table or at its option it may use a table based upon the society's own experience of at least twenty years and covering not less than one hundred thousand lives with interest assumption not more than four per centum per annum Each such valuation report shall set forth clearly and fully the mortality and interest basis and the method of valuation Any society providing for disability benefits shall keep the net contributions for such benefits in a fund separate and apart from all other benefit and expense funds Provided That where a combined contribution table is used by a society for both death and permanent total disability benefits the valuation shall be according to tables of reliable experience and in such case a separation of the funds shall not be required

The valuation herein provided for shall not be considered or regarded as a test of the financial solvency of the society but each society shall be held to be legally solvent so long as the funds in its possession are equal to or in excess of its matured liabilities

Beginning with the year one thousand nine hundred and fifteen a report of such valuaton shall be printed and mailed to each beneficiary member of the society not later than June first of each year or in lieu thereof may be published in the society's official paper and the issue containing the same mailed to each beneficiary member of the society The laws of such society shall provide that if the stated periodical contributions of the members are insufficient to pay all matured death and disability claims in full and to provide for the creation and maintenance of the funds required by its laws additional or increased rates of contribution shall be collected from the members to meet such deficiency and such laws may provide that upon the written application or consent of the member his certificate may be charged with its proportion of any deficiency disclosed by the valuation with interest not exceeding six per centum per annum

Section 23b In lieu of the requirements of section twenty-three any society may value its certificates on a basis herein designated "accumulation basis" by crediting each member with the net amount contributed for each year and with interest at approximately the net rate earned and by charging him with his share of the losses for each year herein designated "cost of insurance" and carrying the balance if any to his credit The charge for the cost of insurance may be according to the actual experience of the society applied to a table of mortality recognized by the law of this Commonwealth and shall take into consideration the amount at risk during each year which shall be the amount payable at death less the credit to the member Except as specifically provided in its articles or laws or contracts no charge shall be carried forward from the first valuation hereunder against any member for any past share of losses exceeding the contributions and credit If after the first valuation any member's share of losses for any year exceeds his credit including the contribution for the year the contribution shall be increased to cover his share of the losses and if the credit at the time any benefit becomes payable during the lifetime of the member including any available funds does not equal such benefit the contribution to be made by him or on his behalf shall be increased by the difference Any such excess shares of losses chargeable to any member may be paid out of a fund or contributions especially created or required for such purpose

Any member may transfer to any plan adopted by the society with net rates on which tabular reserves are maintained and on such transfer shall be entitled to make such application of his credit as provided in the laws of the society

Certificates issued rerated or readjusted on a basis providing for adequate rates with adequate reserve to mature such certificates upon assumptions for mortality and interest recognized by the law of this Commonwealth shall be valued on such basis herein designated the "Tabular Basis" provided that if on the first valuation under this section a deficiency in reserve shall be shown for any such certificates the same shall be valued on the accumulation basis

Whenever in any society having members upon the tabular basis and upon the accumulation basis the total of all costs of insurance provided for any year shall be insufficient to meet the actual death and disability losses for the year the deficiency shall be met for the year from the available funds after setting aside all credits in the reserve or from increased contributions or by an increase in the number of assessments applied to the society as a whole or to classes of members as may be specified in its laws Savings from a lower amount of death losses may be returned in like manner as may be specified in its laws

If the laws of the society so provide the assets representing the reserves of any separate class of members may be carried separately for such class as if in an independent society and the required reserve accumulation of such class so set apart shall not thereafter be mingled with the assets of other classes of the society

A table showing the rates being paid by and the credits to individual members at each age and year of entry and showing opposite each credit the tabular reserve required on the whole life or other plan of insurance specified in the contract according to assumptions for mortality and interest recognized by the law of this Commonwealth and adopted by the society shall be filed by the society with each annual report and also be furnished to each member before July first of each year

In lieu of the aforesaid statement there may be furnished to each member within the same time a statement giving the data aforesaid for such member and giving the tabular rates and tabular reserve and level rate required for a transfer carrying out the plan of insurance specified in the contract No table or statement need be made or furnished where the reserves are maintained on the tabular basis

For this purpose individual bookkeeping accounts for each member shall not be required and all calculations may be made by actuarial methods

Nothing herein contained shall prevent the maintenance of such surplus over and above the credits on the accumulation basis and the reserves on the tabular basis as any society may provide by or pursuant to its laws nor be construed as giving to the individual member any right or claim to any such reserve or credit other than in manner as expressed in the contract and its laws nor as making any such reserve or credits a liability in determining the legal solvency of the society

Section 24 The Insurance Commissioner or any person or persons he may appoint shall have the power of visitation and examination into the affairs of any domestic society He may employ assistants for the purpose of such examination and he or any person he may appoint shall have free access to all the books papers and documents that relate to the business of the society and may summon and qualify as witness under oath and examine its officers agents and employes or other persons in relation to the affairs transactions and conditions of the society

Whenever after examination the Insurance Commissioner is satisfied that any domestic society has failed to comply with any provisions of this act or is exceeding its powers or is not carrying out its contracts in good faith or is transacting business fraudulently or whenever any domestic society after the existence of one year or more shall have a membership of less than four hundred (or shall determine to discontinue business) he may present the facts relating thereto to the Attorney General who shall if he deem the circumstances warrant proceed in the manner prescribed by the act of June first nineteen hundred and eleven for the liquidation of insolvent or delinquent companies orders or associations transacting any class of insurance

No such proceedings shall be commenced by the Attorney General against any such society until after notice has been duly served on the chief executive officers of the society and a reasonable opportunity given to it on a date to be named in said notice to show cause why such proceedings should not be commenced

Section 25 No application for injunction against or proceedings for the dissolution of or the appointment of a receiver for any domestic society or branch thereof shall be entertained by any court of this Commonwealth unless the same is made by the Attorney General

Section 26 The Insurance Commissioner or any person or persons whom he may appoint may examine any foreign society transacting or applying for admission to transact business in this Commonwealth The said Insurance Commissioner may employ assistants and he or any person he may appoint shall have free access to all the books papers and documents that relate to the business of the society and may summon and qualify as witness under oath and examine its officers agents and employes and other persons in relation to the affairs transactions and condition of the society He may in his discretion accept in lieu of such examination the examination of the Insurance Department of the state territory district province or country where such society is organized The actual expenses of examiners making any such examination shall be paid by the society upon statement furnished by the Insurance Commissioner

If any such society or its officers refuse to submit to such examination or to comply with the provisions of the section relative thereto the authority of such society to write new business in this Commonwealth shall be suspended or license refused until satisfactory evidence is furnished the Insurance Commissioner relating to the condition and affairs of the society and during such suspension the society shall not write new business in this Commonwealth

Section 27 Pending during or after an examination or investigation of any such society either domestic or foreign the Insurance Commissioner shall make public no financial statement report or finding nor shall he permit to become public any financial statement report or finding effecting the status standing or rights of any such society until a copy thereof shall have been served upon such society at its home office nor until such society shall have been afforded a reasonable opportunity to answer any such financial statement report or finding and to make such showing in connection therewith as it may desire

Section 28 When the Insurance Commissioner on investigation is satisfied that any foreign society transacting business under this act has exceeded its powers or has failed to comply with any provisions of this act or is conducting business fraudulently or is not carrying out its contracts in good faith he shall notify the society of his findings and state in writing the grounds of his dissatisfaction and after reasonable notice require said society on a date named to show cause why its license should not be revoked If on the date named in said notice such objections have not been removed to the satisfaction of the said Insurance Commissioner or the society does not present good and sufficient reasons why its authority to transact business in this Commonwealth should not at that time be revoked he may revoke the authority of the society to continue business in this Commonwealth

Section 29 Every decision order or ruling of the Insurance Commissioner under the provisions of this act shall be reduced to writing and filed in his office and a copy thereof together with a statement of his reasons therefor furnished to the officers of each society interested therein Every such decision order or ruling shall be reviewable by any court of competent jurisdiction by appeal or other proceeding for review and such appeal or other proceeding for review shall be a supersedeas and in every such case the said decision order or ruling of the Insurance Commissioner shall be suspended and abide the final determination of the appeal or other proceeding for review

Section 30 Nothing contained in this act shall be construed to affect or apply to grand or subordinate lodges of Masons Odd Fellows or Knights of Pythias exclusive of the Insurance Department of the Supreme Lodge Knights of Pythias and the Junior Order of United American Mechanics (exclusive of the Beneficiary Degree of Insurance Branch of the National Council Junior Order United American Mechanics) or societies which limit their membership to any one hazardous occupation nor to similar societies which do not issue insurance certificates nor any domestic order or association now doing business in this Commonwealth which reinsures all of its Pennsylvania risks in a domestic life insurance company authorized to do business in this Commonwealth nor to an association of local lodges of a society now doing business in this Commonwealth which provide death benefits not exceeding five hundred dollars to any one person or disability benefits not exceeding three hundred dollars in any one year to any one person or both nor to any contracts of reinsurance business on such plan in this Commonwealth nor to domestic societies which limit their membership to the employes of a particular city or town designated firm business house or corporation nor to domestic lodges orders or associations of a purely religious charitable and benevolent description which do not provide for a death benefit of more than one hundred dollars or for disability benefits of more than one hundred and fifty dollars to any one person in any one year Provided however that nothing in that part of section twenty-three beginning with the words "In addition to the annual report" and ending with the words "Not exceeding six per centum per annum" at the end of said section twenty-three and none of section twenty-three shall affect or apply to any corporation society order or voluntary association which was prior to January one one thousand nine hundred and fifteen organized and doing business in this Commonwealth on the lodge system as provided for in section two of this article and which does not issue death or disability benefit certificates in a sum exceeding five hundred dollars or both to any one member and whose membership is confined and limited exclusively to persons of one particular faith The Insurance Commissioner may require from any society such information as will enable him to determine whether such society is exempt from the provisions of this act

Any fraternal benefit society heretofore organized and incorporated and operating within the definition set forth in sections one two and three of this act providing for benefits in case of death or disability resulting solely from accidents but which does not obligate itself to pay death or sick benefits may be licensed under the provisions of this act and shall have all the privileges and shall be subject to all the provisions and regulations of this act except that the provisions of this act requiring medical examinations valuations of benefit certificates and that the certificate shall specify the amount of benefits shall not apply to such society

Beneficial societies other than those specifically exempted herein without ritualistic work or a representative form of government transacting any class of insurance shall not be required to comply with this act but all such societies or associations shall on and after the passage of this act file with the Insurance Commissioner copies of their charter constitution and laws and annually thereafter make a report in such form as the Commissioner may require showing their condition and standing on the thirty-first day of December preceding and of their transactions for the year and the Commissioner may at any time make an examination of the books and accounts of any such society

And whenever he is satisfied that any such association has not on hand sufficient funds to meet its outstanding obligations to take the necessary proceedings to liquidate its affairs

Section 31 Every fraternal society organized or operating under this act is hereby declared to be a charitable and benevolent institution and all of its funds shall be exempt from all and every state county district municipal and school tax other than taxes on real estate and office equipment

Section 32 Any person officer member or examining physician of any society authorized to do business under this act who shall knowingly or wilfully make any false or fraudulent statement or representation in or with reference to any application for membership or for the purpose of obtaining money from or benefit in any society transacting business under this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars or imprisonment in the county jail for not less than thirty days nor more than one year or both in the discretion of the court and any person who shall wilfully make a false statement of any material fact or thing in a sworn statement as to the death or disability of a certificate holder in any such society for the purpose of procuring payment of a benefit named in the certificate of such holder and any person who shall wilfully make any false statement in any verified report or declaration under oath required or authorized by this act shall be guilty of perjury and shall be proceeded against and punished as provided by the statutes of this Commonwealth in relation to the crime of perjury

Any person who shall solicit membership for or in any manner assist in procuring membership in any fraternal benefit society not licensed to do business in this Commonwealth or who shall solicit membership for or in any manner assist in procuring membership in any such society not authorized as herein provided to do business as herein defined in this Commonwealth shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty nor more than two hundred dollars

Any society or any officer agent or employe thereof neglecting or refusing to comply with or violating any of the provisions of this act the penalty for which neglect refusal or violation is not specified in this section shall be fined not exceeding two hundred dollars upon conviction thereof

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WOBENSMITH. Mr. Speaker, I would like the sponsor of this bill to explain the purpose of it.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia desires to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOBENSMITH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the purpose of this bill explained.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, this bill is before the House as the result of a careful consideration of the subject by all the insurance commissioners of the United States at their annual convention. Added to that is the thought of the Insurance Commissioner of the State of Pennsylvania. The bill affects fraternal and beneficial societies. The resaon that this bill is here is because in the past there have been organizations of that character doing business in the State of Pennsylvania under methods that were questionable,—against the interests of the public. The purpose of the bill is to give the Insurance Department of the State of Pennsylvania what is believed to be a reasonable supervision of that class of beneficial and fraternal insurance companies or fraternal insurance associations. I think I can say that it meets the approval of nearly all the beneficial and fraternal associations of the State of Pennsylvania. At the time the bill was before the committee there were before us what we were led to believe, the representatives of institutions of this character from all over the United States; and the bill as now amended, appearing considerably different from what it was in the pink print, I believe now meets the approval of practically all those societies and has the backing of the Insurance Commissioner and the best judgment of the Insurance Committee.

Mr. WOBENSMITH. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. BALDWIN. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOBENSMITH. Mr Speaker, I would like to know why it is that in Section 30 of the bill, page 58, there is a specific exception of certain named societies

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I think if the gentleman will read the title of the bill, that it specifically sets out that certain organizations of this character with a ritual, which come under the names of such societies as the Masons, who have no insurance feature or beneficial feature, and, also, we might say the Odd Fellows and the Red Men,—that is a class of fraternal societies that have ritualistic work connected with them; and the thought was that those having that character of work were so well conducted that with the provisions as embraced in the bill it would be all that the State would require, in the judgment of those who had given the subject thought.

Mr. BEYER. I desire to state, Mr. Speaker, that the gentleman has just answered the thought I had in mind.

Mr. GARNER. Mr. Speaker, I belong to eight organizations. We are getting along very fine under the present law. We are paying our bills. We don't need any more laws at all, sir.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1155, as follows:

An Act to amend further an act approved the eighth day of April one thousand eight hundred thirty-three entitled "An Act relating to the descent and distribution of the estates of intestates"

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That article two of section one of an act approved the eighth day of April one thousand eight hundred and thirty-three entitled "An Act relating to the descent and distribution of the estates of intestates" and which as last amended by an act approved the twenty-first day of July one thousand nine hundred thirteen entitled "An Act amending article two of section one of an act entitled 'An Act relating to the descent and distribution of the estates of intestates' approved the eighth day of April one thousand eight hundred thirty-three as amended by further regulating the appointment and number of appraisers" reads as follows

"Article 2 Where such intestate shall leave a widow and collateral heirs or other kindred but no issue such widow shall be entitled to the real or personal estate or both to the aggregate value of five thousand dollars in addition to the widows' exemption as allowed by law and if such estate shall exceed in value the sum of five thousand dollars the widow shall be entitled to such sum of five thousand dollars absolutely to be chosen by her from the real or personal estate or both and in addition thereto shall be entitled to one-half part of the remaining real estate for the term of her life and to one-half part of the remaining personal estate absolutely Provided That the procedure for appraising and setting apart the said five thousand dollars in value of property shall be the same as provided in section five of the act of Assembly approved April fourteenth one thousand eight hundred and fifty-one 'An Act relating to the commencement of actions to judgments and decrees for the payment of money to the widows and children of decedents to partitions in the common pleas relative to penalties on telegraph operators to pleadings in certain actions of debt to actions of ejectments to the protection of fences to partnerships to limitations of writs of entry in manors lands and tenements to the exemption laws to reports of the Supreme Court to appeals relating to wards boroughs and township officers to the acknowledgments of deeds and sequestration of life estates' but the appraisement and setting apart shall be made by the appraisers appointed to appraise the other personal estate of the decedent

Provided however That should any of such appraisers be unable to make the appraisement provided for by this act the orphans' court of the proper county may appoint a properly qualified appraiser to act in the place of said appraiser of the other personal estate of the decedent" is further amended to read as follows

Article 2 Where such intestate shall leave a widow or husband and collateral heirs or other kindred but no issue such widow or surviving husband shall be entitled to the real or personal estate or both to the aggregate value of five thousand dollars in addition to any exemption now allowed by law If such estate shall exceed in value the sum of five thousand dollars the widow or surviving husband shall be entitled to such sum of five thousand dollars absolutely to be chosen by him or her from the real or personal estate or both in addition thereto the widow or surviving husband shall be entitled to one-half part of the remaining real estate for the term of her or his life and to one-half of the remaining personal estate absolutely The procedure for appraising and setting apart the said five thousand dollars in value of property shall be the same as provided in section five of the Act of Assembly approved April fourteenth one thousand eight hundred and fifty-one entitled "An Act relating to the commencement of actions to judgments and decrees for the payment of money to the widows and children of decedents to partitions in the common pleas relative to penalties on telegraph operators to pleadings in certain actions of debt to actions of ejectments to the protection of fences to partnerships to limitations of writs of entry in manors lands and tenements to the exemption laws to reports of the Supreme Court to appeals relating to wards boroughs and township officers to the acknowledgments of deeds and sequestration of life estates" but the appraisement and setting apart shall be made by the appraisers appointed to appraise the other personal estate of the decedent

Provided however That should any one or both of such appraisers be unable to make the appraisement provided for by this act the orphans' court of the proper county may appoint a properly qualified appraiser or appraisers to act in the place of said appraiser or appraisers of the other personal estate of the decedent and if no appraisers have been appointed thereof the orphans' court may appoint two properly qualified persons to make the appraisement provided for by this act

ARTICLE III

Elective Compensation

Section 301 When employer and employe shall by agreement either express or implied as hereinafter provided accept the provisions of article three of this act compensation for personal injury to or for the death of such employe by an accident in the course of his employment shall be made in all cases by the employer without regard to negligence according to the schedule contained in section three hundred and six and three hundred and seven of this article provided that no compensation shall be made when the injury or death be intentionally self-inflicted but the burden of proof of such fact shall be upon the employer

The terms "injury" and "personal injury" as used in this act shall be construed to mean only violence to the physical structure of the body and such disease or infection as naturally results therefrom and wherever death is mentioned as a cause for compensation under this act it shall mean only death resulting from such violence and its resultant effects and occurring within three hundred weeks after the accident The term "injury" by an accident in the course of his employment" as used in this article shall include an injury caused by an act of a third person intended to injure the employe because of reasons personal to him and not directed against him as an employe or because of his employment but shall include all other injuries sustained while the employe is actually engaged in the furtherance of the business or affairs of the employer whether upon the employer's premises or elsewhere and shall include all injuries caused by the condition of the premises or by the operation of the employer's business or affairs thereon sustained by the employe who though not so engaged is injured upon the premises occupied by or under the control of the employer or upon which the employer's business or affairs are being carried on the employes presence thereon being required by the nature of his employment.

Section 302 (a) In every contract of hiring made after December thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and fifteen and in every contract of hiring renewed or extended by mutual consent expressed or implied after said date it shall be conclusively presumed that the parties have accepted the provisions of article three of this act and have agreed to be bound thereby unless there be at the time of the making renewal or extension of such contract an express statement in writing from either party to the other that the provisions of article three of this act are not intended to supply and unless a true copy of such written statement accompanied by proof of service thereof upon the other party setting forth under oath or affirmation the time place and manner of such service be filed with the Bureau within ten days after such service and before any accident has occurred Every contract of hiring oral written or implied from circumstances now in operation or made or implied on or before December thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and fifteen shall be conclusively presumed to continue subject to the provisions of article three hereof unless either party shall on or before said date in writing have notified the other party to such contract that the provisions of article three hereof are not intended to apply and unless there shall be filed with the Bureau a true copy of such notice together with proof of service within the time and in the manner hereinabove prescribed provided however that the provisions of this section shall not be so construed as to impair the obligation of any contract now in force In the employment of minors article three shall be presumed to apply unless the said written notice be given by or to the parent or guardian of the minor It shall not be lawful for any officer or agent of this Commonwealth or for any county city borough or township therein or for any officer or agent thereof or for any other governmental authority created by the laws of this Commonwealth to give such notice of rejection of the provisions of this article to any employe of the State or of such governmental agency

(b) After December thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and fifteen an employer who permits the entry upon premises occupied by him or under his control of a laborer or an assistant hired by an employe or contractor for the performance upon such premises of a part of the employer's regular business entrusted to that employe or contractor shall be conclusively presumed to have agreed to pay to such laborer or assistant compensation in accordance with the provisions of article three unless the employer shall post in a conspicuous place upon the premises where the laborer's or assistant's work is done a notice of his intention not to pay such compensation and unless there be filed with the Bureau within ten days thereafter and before any accident has occurred a true copy of such notice together with proof of the posting of the same setting forth upon oath or affirmation the time place and manner of such posting and after December thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and fifteen any such laborer or assistant who shall enter upon premises occupied by or under the control of such employer for the purpose of doing such work shall be conclusively presumed to have agreed to accept the compensation provided in article three in lieu of his right of action under article two unless he shall have given notice in writing to the employer at the time of entering upon such employer's premises for the purpose of doing his work of his intention not to accept such compensation and unless within ten days thereafter and before any accident has occurred there shall have been filed with the Bureau a true copy of such notice accompanied by proof of service thereof upon such employer setting forth under oath or affirmation the time place and manner of such service And in such cases where article three binds such employer and such laborer or assistant it shall not be in effect between the intermediate employer or contractor and such laborer or assistant unless otherwise expressly agreed

Section 303 Such agreement shall constitute an acceptance of all the provisions of article three of this act and shall operate as a surrender by the parties thereto of their rights to any form or amount of compensation or damages for any injury or death occurring in the course of the employment or to any method of determination thereof other than as provided in article three of this act Such agreement shall bind the employer and his personal representatives and the employe his or her wife or husband widow or widower next of kin and other dependents

Section 304 Any agreement between employer and employe for the operation or non-operation of the provisions of article three of this act may be terminated prior to any accident by either party upon sixty days' notice to the other in writing if a copy of such notice with proof of service be filed in the Bureau as provided in section three hundred and two of this article

Section 305 Every employer liable under this act to pay compensation shall insure the payment of compensation in the State Workmen's Insurance Fund or in any insurance company or mutual association or company authorized to insure such liability in this Commonwealth unless such employer shall be exempted by the Bureau from such insurance An employer desiring to be exempt from insuring the whole or any part of his liability for compensation shall make application to the Bureau showing his financial ability to pay such compensation whereupon the Bureau if satisfied of the applicant's financial ability shall by written order make such exemption The Bureau may from time to time require further statements of the financial ability of such employer and if at any time such employer appear no longer able to pay compensation shall revoke its order granting exemption in which case the employer shall immediately subscribe to the State fund or insure his liability in a mutual association or company as aforesaid

If an employer shall fail to comply with the provisions of this section the Bureau shall by registered mail or in such other manner as the rules and regulations of the Bureau shall provide serve upon such employer a notice to forthwith comply with such provisions and if such employer does not within thirty days thereafter insure his liability as aforesaid or satisfy the Bureau of his financial ability to pay compensation as aforesaid or does not terminate his acceptance of article three of this act in the manner provided in section three hundred four of the said article such employer shall be liable for compensation under article three of this act to any employe injured thereafter or to his personal representative or for damages under article two of this act at the option of such employe or his personal representatives Provided That such option be exercised by the employe and written notice given to the employer within thirty days after the accident and provided further that until the expiration of the said thirty days from the giving of the notice by the Bureau the employer shall be liable only for compensation under article three of this act and that if he shall terminate his acceptance under section three hundred four of article three of this act he shall be liable only for compensation under article three of this act until such termination of acceptance shall become effective

Section 306 The following schedule of compensation is hereby established for injuries resulting in total disability

(a) For the first five hundred weeks after the fourteenth day of total disability fifty per centum of the wages of the injured employe as defined in section three hundred and nine but the compensation shall not be more than ten dollars per week nor less than five dollars per week and shall not exceed in aggregate the sum of four thousand dollars provided that if at the time of injury the employe receives wages of less than five dollars per week then he shall receive the full amount of such wages per week as compensation Nothing in this clause shall require the payment of compensation after disability shall cease Should partial disability be followed by total disability the period of five hundred weeks mentioned in this clause of this section shall be reduced by the number of weeks during which compensation was paid for such partial disability

(b) For disability partial in character (except the particular cases mentioned in clause (c)) fifty per centum of the difference between the wages of the injured employe as defined in section three hundred and nine and the earning power of the employe thereafter but such compensation shall not be more than ten dollars per week This compensation shall be paid during the period of such partial disability not however beyond three hundred weeks after the fourteenth day of such total disability Should total disability be followed by partial disability the period of three hundred weeks mentioned in this clause shall be reduced by the number of weeks during which compensation was paid for such total disability

(c) For all disability resulting from permanent injuries of the following classes the compensation shall be exclusively as follows

For the loss of a hand fifty per centum of wages during one hundred and seventy-five weeks

For the loss of an arm fifty per centum of wages during two hundred and fifteen weeks

For the loss of a foot fifty per centum of wages during one hundred and fifty weeks

For the loss of a leg fifty per centum of wages during two hundred and fifteen weeks

For the loss of an eye fifty per centum of wages during one hundred and twenty-five weeks

For the loss of any two or more of such members not constituting total disability fifty per centum of wages during the aggregate of the periods specified for each

Unless the Board shall otherwise determine the loss of both hands or both arms or both feet or both legs or both eyes shall constitute total disability to be compensated according to the provisions of clause ([illegible])

Amputation between the elbow and the wrist shall be considered as the equivalent of the loss of a hand and amputation between the knee and ankle shall be considered as the equivalent of the loss of a foot Amputation at or above the elbow shall be considered as the loss of an arm and amputation at or above the knee shall be considered as the loss of a leg Permanent loss of the use of a hand arm foot leg or eye shall be considered as the equivalent of the loss of such hand arm foot leg or eye

This compensation shall not be more than ten dollars per week nor less than five dollars per week provided that if at the time of injury the employe receives wages of less than five dollars per week then he shall receive the full amount of such wages per week as compensation

(d) No compensation shall be allowed for the first fourteen days after disability begins except as hereinafter provided in clause (e) of this section

(e) During the first fourteen days after disability begins the employer shall furnish reasonable surgical medical and hospital services medicines and supplies as and when needed unless the employe refuses to allow them to be furnished by the employer The cost of such services medicines and supplies shall not exceed twenty-five dollars unless a major surgical operation shall be necessary in which case the cost shall not exceed seventy-five dollars If the employer shall upon application made to him refuse to furnish such services medicines and supplies the employe may procure the same and shall receive from the employer the reasonable cost thereof within the above limitations If the employe shall refuse reasonable surgical medical and hospital services medicines and supplies tendered to him by his employer he shall forfeit all right to compensation for any injury or any increase in his incapacity shown to have resulted from such refusal

(f) Should the employe die as a result of the injury the period during which compensation shall be payable to his dependents under section three hundred and six of this article shall be reduced by the period during which compensation was paid to him in his lifetime under this section of this article No reduction shall be made for the amount which may have been paid for medical and hospital services and medicines nor for the expenses of the last sickness and burial Should the employe die from some other cause than the injury the liability for compensation shall cease

Section 307 In case of death compensation shall be computed on the following basis and distributed to the following persons

1 To the child or children if there be no widow nor widower entitled to compensation twenty-five per centum of wages of deceased with ten per centum additional for each child in excess of two with a maximum of sixty per centum to be paid to their guardian

2 To the widow or widower if there be no children forty per centum of wages

3 To the widow or widower if there be one child forty-five per centum of wages

4 To the widow or widower if there be two children fifty per centum of wages

5 To the widow or widower if there be three children fifty-five per centum of wages

6 To the widow or widower if there be four or more children sixty per centum of wages

7 If there be neither widow widower nor children then to the father and mother or the survivor of them if dependent to any extent upon the employe for support at the time of his death twenty per centum of wages

8 If there be neither widow widower children nor dependent parent then to the brothers and sisters if actually dependent to any extent upon the decedent for support at the time of his death fifeen per centum of wages for one brother or sister and five per centum additional for each brother or sister with a maximum of twenty-five per centum such compensation to be paid to their guardian

9 Whether or not there be dependents as aforesaid the reasonable expenses of the last sickness and burial not exceeding one hundred dollars (without deduction of any amounts theretofore paid for compensation or for medical expenses) payable to the dependents or if there be no dependents then to the personal representatives of the deceasd

Compensation shall be payable under this section to or on account of any child brother or sister only if and while such child brother and sister is under the age of sixteen No compensation shall be payable under this section to a widow unless she was living with her deceased husband at the time of his death or was then actually dependent upon him for support No compensation shall be payable under this section to a widower unless he be incapable of self-support at the time of his wife's death and be at such time dependent upon her for support The terms "child" and 'children" shall include step-children and adopted children and children to whom he stood in loco parentis if members of decedent's household at the time of his death and shall include posthumous children should any dependent of a deceased employe die or should the widow or widower remarry or should the widower become capable of self-support the right of such dependent or such widow or widower to compensation under this section shall cease If the compensation payable under this section to any person shall for any cause cease the compensation to the remaining persons entitled thereunder shall thereafter be the same as would have been payable to them had they been the only persons entitled to compensation at the time of the death of the deceased

The wages upon which death compensation shall be based shall not in any case be taken to exceed twenty dollars per week nor be less than ten dollars per week

This compensation shall be paid during three hundred weeks and in the case of children entitled to compensation under this section the compensation of each child shall continue after said period of three hundred weeks until such child reach the age of sixteen at the rate of fifteen per centum of wages if there be but one child with ten per centum additional for each additional child with a maximum of fifty per centum

Section 308 Except as hereinafter provided all compensation payable under this article shall be payable in periodical installments as the wages of the employe were payable before the accident

Section 309 Wherever in this article the term "wages" is used it shall be construed to mean the money rate at which the service rendered is recompensed under the contract of hiring in force at the time of the accident and shall not include gratuities received from the employer or others nor shall it include board lodging or similar advantages received from the employer unless the money value of such advantages shall have been fixed by the parties at the time of hiring In occupations involving seasonable employment or employment dependent upon the weather the employe's weekly wages shall be taken to be one-fiftieth of the total wages which he has earned from all occupations during the year immediately preceding the accident unless it be shown that during such year by reason of exceptional causes such period of computation does not ascertain fairly the earnings of the employe in which case the period for calculation shall be extended so far as to give a basis for the fair ascertainment of his average weekly earnings In continuous employments if immediately prior to the accident the rate of wages was fixed by the day or hour or by the output of the employe his weekly wages shall be taken to be five and one-half times his average earnings at such rate for a working day of ordinary length excluding earnings from overtime and using as a basis of calculation his earnings during so much of the preceding six months as he worked for the same employer Where the employe is working under concurrent contracts with two or more employers his wages from all employers shall be considered as if earned from the employer liable for compensation

Section 310 Compensation under this article to alien dependent widows and children not residents of the United States shall be two-thirds of the amount provided in each case for residents and the employer may at any time commute all future installments of compensation payable to alien dependents not residents of the United States by paying to such alien dependents the then value thereof calculated in accordance with the provisions of section three hundred and sixteen of this article Alien widowers parents brothers and sisters not residents of the United States shall not be entitled to any compensaion

Non-resident alien dependents may be officially represented by the Consular officers of the nation of which such alien or aliens may be citizens or subjects and in such cases the Consular officers shall have the right to receive for distribution to such non-residents alien dependents all compensation awarded hereunder and the receipt of such Consular officers shall be a full discharge of all sums paid to and received by them

Section 311 Unless the employer shall have actual knowledge of the occurrence of the injury or unless the employe or some one in his behalf or some of the dependents or some one in their behalf shall give notice thereof to the employer within fourteen days after the accident no compensation shall be due until such notice be given or knowledge obtained but if the employe or other beneficiary shall show that his delay in giving notice was due to his mistake or ignorance of fact or of law or to his physical or mental inability or to fraud misrepresentation or deceit or to any other reasonable cause or excuse then compensation shall be allowed unless the employer shall show that he did not know and by reasonable diligence could not have learned of the accident and that he was prejudiced by the delay in which case he shall be relieved to the extent of such prejudice

Section 312 The notice referred to in section three hundred and eleven hereof shall be substantially in the following form to (name of employer)

You are hereby notified that an injury of the following character ( ) was suffered by (name of employe injured) who was in your employment at (place) while engaged as (kind of employment) on or about the ( ) day of ( ) Anno Domini ( ) and that compensation will be claimed therefor
Signed ( ) but no variation from this form shall be material if the notice be sufficient to inform the employer that a certain employe by name received an injury the character of which is described in ordinary language in the course of his employment on or about a time specified and at or near a place specified

Section 313 The notices referred to in section three hundred and two and section three hundred and eleven hereof may be served personally upon the employer or upon the manager or superintendent in charge of the works or business in which the accident occured or by sending them through the registered mail to the employer at his or its last known residence or place of business or if the employer be a corporation either foreign or domestic then upon the president vice-president secretary or treasurer thereof knowledge of the occurence of the injury on the part of any of said agents shall be the knowledge of the employer

Section 314 At any time after an injury the employe if so requested by his employer must submit himself for examination at some reasonable time and place to a physician or physicians legally authorized to practice under the laws of such place who shall be selected and paid by the employer If the employe shall refuse upon the request of the employer to submit to the examination by the physician or physicians selected by the employer the Board may upon petition of the employer order the employe to submit to an examination at a time and place set by it and by the physician or physicians selected and paid by the employer or by a physician or physicians designated by it and paid by the employer and if the employe shall without reasonable cause or excuse disobey or disregard such order he shall be deprived of his right to compensation under this article The Board may at any time after such first examination upon petition of the employer order the employe to submit himself to such further examinations as it shall deem reasonable and necessary at such times and places and by such physicians as it may designate and in such case the employer shall pay the fees and expenses of the examining physician or physicians and the reasonable traveling expenses and loss of wages incurred by the employe in order to submit himself to such examination The refusal or neglect without reasonable cause or excuse of the employe to submit to such examination ordered by the Board either before or after an agreement or award shall deprive him of the right to compensation under this article during the continuance of such refusal or neglect and the period of such neglect or refusal shall be deducted from the period during which compensation would otherwise be payable

The employe shall be entitled to have a physician or physicians of his own selection to be paid by him participate in any examination requested by his employer or ordered by the Board

Section 315 In cases of personal injury all claims for compensation shall be forever barred unless within one year after the accident the parties shall have agreed upon the compensation payable under this article or unless within one year after the accident one of the parties shall have filed a petition as provided in article four hereof In cases of death all claims for compensation shall be forever barred unless within one year after the death the parties shall have agreed upon the compensation under this article or unless within one year after the death one of the parties shall have filed a petition as provided in article four hereof Where however payments of compensation have been made in any case said limitations shall not take effect until the expiration of one year from the time of the making of the last payment

Section 316 The compensation contemplated by this article may at any time be commuted by the Board at its then value when discounted at five per centum interest with annual rests disregarding the probability of the beneficiary's death upon applciation of either party with due notice to the other if it appear that such commutation will be for the best interest of the employe or the dependents of the deceased employe and that it will avoid undue expense or undue hardship to either party or that such employe or dependent has removed or is about to remove from the United States or that the employer has sold or otherwise disposed of the whole or the greater part of his business or assets Except as provided in section three hundred and ten hereof and in this section no commutation of compensation shall be made

Section 317 At any time after the approval of an agreement or after the entry of the award a sum equal to all future installments of compensation may (where death or the nature of the injury renders the amount of future payments certain) with the approval of the Bureau be paid by the employer to any savings bank trust company or life insurance company in good standing and authorized to do business in this State and such sum together with all interest thereon shall thereafter be held in trust for the employe or the dependents of the employe who shall have no further recourse against the employer The payment of such sum by the employer evidenced by the receipt of the trustee noted upon the prothonotary's docket shall operate as a satisfaction of said award as to the employer Payments from said fund shall be made by the trustee in the same amounts and at the same periods as are herein required of the employer until said fund and interest shall be exhausted In the appointment of the trustee preference shall be given in the discretion of the court to the choice of the employe or the dependents of the deceased employe Should however there remain any unexpended balance of any fund after the payment of all sums due under this act such balance shall be repaid to the employer who made the original payment or to his legal representatives

Section 318 The right of compensation granted by this article of this act shall have the same preference (without limit of amount) against the assets of an employer liable for such compensation as is now or may hereafter be allowed by law for a claim for unpaid wages for labor Provided however that no claim for compensation shall have priority over any judgment mortgage or conveyance of land recorded prior to the filing of the petition award or agreement as to compensation in the office of the prothonotary of the county in which the land is situated Claims for payments due under this article of this act shall not be assignable and (except as provided in section five hundred and one of article five hereof) shall be exempt from all claims of creditors and from levy execution or attachment which exemption may not be waived

Section 319 Where a third person is liable to the employe or the dependents for the injury or death the employer shall be subrogated to the right of the employe or the dependents against such third person but only to the extent of the compensation payable under this article by the employer Any recovery against such third person in excess of the compensation theretofore paid by the employer shall be paid forthwith to the employe or to the dependents and shall be treated as an advance payment by the employer on account of any future installments of compensation

ARTICLE IV

Procedure

Section 401 The term "Referee" when used in this article shall mean Workmen's Compensation Referee

The term "Fund" when used in this article shall mean the State Insurance Fund of this Commonwealth

Section 411 Whenever an agreement shall be executed beteween an employer and an employe or his dependent as provided by this act a certified copy of the same signed by all parties in interest shall be mailed or delivered to the Board It shall be the duty of the Board to examine the agreement and to determine whether it conforms to the provisions of section four hundred and ten and within thirty days after the copy of the agreement has been mailed or delivered to it to notify the parties thereto of its validity or invalidity under the aforesaid section Provided however that any payment made in accordance with any agreement prior to the receipt of notice of invalidity shall discharge pro tanto the liability under article three of this act of the employer making such payments

Section 412 If after any accident the employer and the employe or his dependent concerned in any accident shall fail to agree upon the facts thereof and the compensation due under this act the employe or his dependent may present a claim for compensation to the Board

Section 413 Whenever a claim-petition shall be presented to the Board the Bureau shall promptly assign it to a referee for hearing and determination The Bureau shall forthwith notify such referee that the petition has been assigned to him and shall serve upon each adverse party in interest a certified copy of the petition and a notice that unless an answer shall within seven days be filed with the referee to whom the petition has been assigned (giving his name and address) the allegations of the petition shall be deemed admitted

Section 414 Within seven days after a certified copy of the petition and a notice as herein required shall have been served upon any adverse party he may file with the referee designated in the notice an answer in the form prescribed by the rules and regulations of the board

Section 415 Seven days after notice of a claim-petition shall have been served upon the adverse parties thereto the referee shall fix a time and place for hearing the claim and shall notify all the parties in interest The time of hearing shall not be less than twelve days nor more than twenty-one days after notice of the filing of the petition shall have been mailed or delivered to all adverse parties thereto Together with the notice of the time and place of hearing a copy of any answer filed by any adverse party shall be mailed or delivered to the petitioner or petitioners

Whenever all adverse parties in interest have concurred in the answer all facts not denied therein shall be deemed admitted and no testimony shall be required from the petitioner or petitioners or heard on behalf of the adverse parties upon any fact not controverted in such answer

Section 416 The Referee designated by the Bureau or such other referee as the Board shall substitute for him shall hear evidence relating to the claim at the time and place stated in the notice of the parties

Section 417 The referee if he shall deem it necessary shall either before or after any hearing make an investigation of the facts set forth in the petition or cause the same to be made With the consent of the Board he may appoint one or more impartial physicians or surgeons to examine the injuries of the plaintiff and report thereon or he may employ the services of such other experts as shall appear necessary to ascertain the facts The Board shall fix the compensation of such physicians surgeons and experts and the referee shall tax the same as a part of the cost of the proceedings to be paid by either party or both as the board may direct The report of any physician surgeon or expert appointed by the referee shall be filed with him and shall be a part of the record and open to inspection by any party to the same

Section 418. Within seven days after the conclusion of any hearing the referee shall in writing state his findings of fact his award or disallowance of compensation in accordance with the provisions of this act and such other matters as the rules of the Board shall require

Section 419 Any party in interest may within ten days after notice of a referee's award or disallowance of compensation shall have been served on him take an appeal to the Board on the ground (1) that the award or disallowance of compensation is not in conformity with the terms of this act or that the referee committed any other error of law or (2) that the findings of fact and award or disallowance of compensation was unwarranted by the evidence or because of fraud coercion or other improper conduct by any party in interest

Section 420 Whenever an appeal shall be based upon an alleged error of law it shall be the duty of the Board to grant a hearing thereon The Board shall fix a time and place for such hearing and shall serve notice thereof on all parties in interest

As soon as maybe after any such hearing the Board shall either sustain or reverse the referee's award or disallowance of compensation or make such modification thereof as it shall seem proper

Section 421 Whenever an appeal shall be taken on the ground that the referee's award or disallowance of compensation was unwarranted by the evidence or because of fraud coercion or other improper conduct by any party in interest the Board may in its discretion grant a hearing de novo or sustain the referee's award or disallowance of compensation If the Board shall grant a hearing de novo it shall fix a time and place for the same and shall notify all parties in interest

The Board shall at all times have the power to make any investigation which it shall deem necessary to ascertain the facts It may employ physicians surgeons or other experts to aid in its investigation and shall in all cases fix the compensation of such physicians surgeons or experts and tax the same as a part of the costs of the proceedings to be paid by either party or both as the Board may direct

As soon as may be after any hearing de novo by the Board it shall in writing state its findings of fact and award or disallow compensation in accordance with the provisions of this act

Section 422 Whenever the employer and the employe or his dependent shall on or after the fourteenth day after any accident agree on the facts on which a claim for compensation depends but shall fail to agree on the compensation payable thereunder they may by petition request the Board to determine the compensation payable Such petition shall contain the agreed facts and shall be signed by all parties in interest The Board shall fix a time and place for hearing the petition and shall notify all parties in interest As soon as may be after such hearing the Board shall award or disallow compensation in accordance with the provisions of this act

Section 423 All agreements for compensation shall be subject to review by the Board at any time upon presentation of a petition alleging fraud mistake coercion or other proper cause The Board shall fix a time and place for hearing the petition and shall notify all parties in interest

As soon as may be after such hearing the Board shall either ratify or disapprove the agreement

Section 424 If any patry shall desire the commutation of future installments of compensation he shall present a petition therefor to the Board The Board shall appoint a time and place for hearing the petition and shall notify all parties in interest

Every such petition shall be heard by the Board but the Board may refer any question of fact arising out of such petition to a referee whose findings shall be final unless upon petition the Board shall for cause shown grant a hearing on the facts

The Board shall fix a time and place for the hearing and shall notify all parties in interest

Section 425 If any party in interest shall desire to appeal from the decision of the Board on matters of law he shall within ten days after notice of its decision shall have been served on him file a notice of appeal with the prothonotary of the Court of Common Pleas of the county in which the accident occurred or of the county in which the adverse party resides or has a permanent place of business or by agreement of the parties to the Court of Common Pleas of any other county in such case it shall be the duty of the Bureau within ten days to prepare and mail or deliver to the prothonotary of the proper county a transcript of the agreement or finding of fact and award or disallowance of compensation or modification thereof involved in the appeal

Any appeal from a decision of the Board to the Courts of Common Pleas and from them to the Supreme Court shall take precedence over all other civil cases

Section 426 Any agreement or award of compensation may be modified or terminated at any time by a subsequent agreement approved by the Board and may be modified or terminated by the Board or a referee designated by the Board on the petition of either party on the ground that the incapacity of the injured employe has subsequently increased decreased or terminated or that the status of any dependent has changed In such case the procedure shall be the same as that provided in the case of an original agreement or petition

Section 427 All hearings before the Board or before a referee shall be public

Section 428 Neither the Board nor any referee shall be bound by the technical rules of evidence in conducting any hearing or investigation

Section 429 Wherever after an accident any employe or his dependents shall have entered into a compensation agreement with his employer or shall file a claim-petition with the Board he may file a certified copy thereof with the prothonotary of the Court of Common Pleas of any county The prothonotary shall enter the amount stipulated in any such agreement or claimed in any such petition as a judgment against the employer If the agreement be approved by the Board or compensation awarded as claimed in the petition the amount of compensation stipulated in the agreement or claimed in the petition shall be a lien as of the date when the agreement or petition was filed with the prothonotary Pending the approval of the agreement or the award of compensation no other lien which may be attached to the employer's property during such time shall gain priority over the lien of such agreement or award but no execution shall issue on any compensation judgment before the approval of the agreement or the award of compensation on the said petition

If the agreement be disapproved or after hearing compensation shall be disallowed the employer may file with the prothonotary of any county in which the petition or agreement is on record as a judgment a certified copy of the disapproval of the agreement or disallowance of compensation and it shall be the duty of such prothonotary to strike off the judgement

If the amount of compensation claimed be disallowed but another amount awarded the compensation judgment shall be a lien to the extent of the award as of the date of filing the petition with the prothonotary with the same effect as to other liens and the same disability to issue execution thereon as if the compensation claimed had been allowed In such cases the prothonotary shall make such modification of the record as shall be appropriate

If after approval of the agreement or award the agreement or award be subsequently modified either party may file with the prothonotary a certified copy of the modified award or agreement and it shall be the duty of the prothonotary to make such modification of the record as shall be appropriate and the lien of the judgment shall be modified accordingly

Section 430 If any party against whom a compensation agreement or award is on record in any county of this Commonwealth shall at any time present to the Board receipts or copies thereof certified by any referee showing the payment of compensation as required by the agreement or award in full to the date of presentation to the referee the Board shall issue a certificate to such party in the form prescribed stating the extent to which the judgment of the agreement or award has been reduced Upon presentation of such certificate to the prothonotary of any county in which the agreement or award is on record it shall be the prothonotary's duty to mark the judgment satisfied to the extent of the payments so certified

Section 431 The lien of any judgment entered upon any award shall not be divested by any appeal If however the the party appealing from the award shall file with the Board a bond in such amount and in such form as the rules and regulations of the Board shall direct the appeal shall pending its decision excuse the payment of so much of the compensation as is contested therein but if the final decision on appeal shall sustain the award it shall be the duty of the employer by whom such award is payable to make payments of compensation as from the date of the original award If on appeal the award is sustained as to a part it shall be the duty of the employer by whom such part is payable to make payments as from the date of the original award In case the award is annulled on appeal it shall be the duty of the prothonotary of any county in which such award has been entered as a judgment to mark it satisfied

Section 432 The cost of the prothonotary for entering the amount of compensation as provided in this act or making a modification of the record or marking the judgment satisfied shall be allowed taxed and collected as upon a confession of judgment

Section 433 It shall be the duty of the prothonotary of each Court of Common Pleas and of the Supreme Court of the Commonwealth to make a monthly report to the Board of the disposition of all appeals taken to such court under the provisions of this article

ARTICLE V

General Provisions

Section 501 No claim or agreement for legal services or disbursements in support of any demand made or suit brought under the provisions of article two of this act shall be an enforceable lien against the amount to be paid as damages or be valid or binding in any other respect unless the same be approved in writing by the judge presiding at the trial or in case of settlement without trial by a judge of the Common Pleas Court of the county in which the accident occurred

No claim or agreement for legal services or disbursements in support of any claim for compensation or in preparing any agreement for compensation under article three of this act shall be an enforceable lien against the amount to be paid as compensation or be valid or binding in any other respect unless the same be approved by the Board Any such claim or agreement shall be filed with the Bureau which shall as soon as may be notify the person by whom the same was filed of the Board's approval or disapproval thereof as the case may be

After the approval as herein required if the employer be notified in writing of such claim or agreement for legal services and disbursements the same shall be a lien against any amount thereafter to be paid as damages or compensation Provided however That where the employe's compensation is payable by the employer in periodical installments the Board shall fix at the time of approval the proportion of each installment to be paid on account of legal services and disbursements

Section 502 If any provision of this act shall be held by any court to be unconstitutional such judgment shall not affect any other section or provision of this act except that articles two and three are hereby declared to be inseperable and as one legislative thought and if either article be declared by such court void or inoperative in an essential part so that the whole of such article must fall the other article shall fall with it and not stand alone

Section 503 Nothing in this act shall affect or impair any right of action which shall have acrued before this act shall take effect

Section 504 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed

Section 505 This act shall not apply in the case of an accident occurring prior to the first day of January next succeeding its passage and approval

And said bill having been read at length the third time considered and agreed to.

NAYS—3.

Baldwin,
Heyburn,
Rothenberger,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

PRESENTATION TO MR. SHAABER.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The getleman from Erie, Mr. Kitts.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to interrupt the proceedings of this House and desire to interrogate the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Shaaber. I should like to ask the gentleman from Berks if he ever had a birthday?

Mr. SHAABER. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir, I have had a birthday.

Mr. KITTS. Mr Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman how many birthdays he has had?

Mr. SHAABER. Mr. Speaker, this is my seventy-first birthday.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I take great pleasure in announcing to this House that we have the honor of having associated with us in the 1915 session of the Legislature a veteran of the Civil War, who happens to have the happiness and honor this day of celebrating what he calls his seventy-first birthday. I think, however, that it is his seventy-second birthday. As near as I can figure it out, he had two birthdays on the first year of his life.

The gentleman served through the Civil War. As I understand he was born in the City of Reading in the year 1844 and enlisted in the Civil War at the outbreak in September. It is a memorable event in that the first gun of the Civil War at Fort Sumter was fired on the very date of this gentleman's birth. Following his duty to his country, in the same year, in September, he enlisted in the Federal Army and served throughout the war. While I am told that he had the distinction of serving in but two battles, he was in active service during the entire war. He was in the Battle of Fair Oaks. The gentleman from Berks received a wound which has never healed. I understand that at this very time, this gentleman is now suffering from one of those minnie balls and a piece of shell which struck him in the Battle of Fair Oaks. It is, therefore, fitting at this time to interrupt the regular procedure of this House and pay honor to a gentleman who has stood so valiantly by the flag and the State of Pennsylvania and for every year since his birth we take honor in presenting to the gentleman a rose and if he counts them all he will find in this basket seventy-one or seventy-two, I cannot say which but there is enough to pin all his buttonholes perfectly full of beautiful roses.

On behalf of his friends in this House, I take great pleasure in presenting the gentleman from Berks with this token on his birthday.

Mr. SHAABER. Mr. Speaker and members af the House I thank you heartily for this elegant present—I call it a present—and in response to it I will say that McClain Post of which I am a member had intended that I should stay there this evening and there recite what has always been my custom on all occasions of this kind, Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, and I will endeavor to give it to you now.

Mr. BARNETT. Mr. Speaker, the author of that address at Gettysburg, which is about to be recited, took this little chap (indicating Mr. Shaaber) in his arms during the days of the War.

Mr. SHAABER. Fourscore and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Now, we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation or any nation so conceived and so dedicated can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as the final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, consecrated it far above our power to add or detract. The world will little know nor long remember what we say here. But it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which, they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain, that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth.

BILLS ON THIRD READING (SPECIAL ORDER).

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 931, as follows: ,

An Act providing for the creation and administration of a State fund for the insurance of compensation for injuries to employes of subscribers thereto declaring false oaths by the subscribers to be misdemeanors and providing penalties for the violation thereof

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the State Workmen's Insurance Board is hereinafter called the Board the State Workmen's Insurance Fund is hereinafter called the Fund and the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation of the Department of Labor and Industry is hereinafter called the Bureau

Section 2 The State Workmen's Insurance Board is hereby created consisting of the Commissioner of Labor and Industry the Insurance Commissioner and the State Treasurer

Section 3 Certain sums to be paid by employers as hereinafter provided are hereby constituted a Fund to be known as "The State Workmen's Insurance Fund" for the purpose of insuring such employes against liability under article three of The Workmen's Compensation Act of 1915 and of assuring the payment of the compensation therein provided Such Fund shall be administered by the Board without liability on the part of the State except as hereinafter provided beyond the amount thereof and shall be applied to the payment of such compensation

Section 4 The State Treasurer shall be the custodian of the Fund and all disbursements therefrom shall be paid by him upon vouchers authorized by the Board and signed by any two members thereof except as hereinafter provided in sections twenty-two and twenty-three He may deposit any portion thereof not needed for immediate use as other State funds are lawfully deposited and the interest thereon shall be collected by him and placed to the credit of the Fund

Section 5 On or before the first day of October in each year the said Board shall prepare and publish a schedule of premiums or rates of insurance for employers who shall have accepted article three of the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1915 which schedule shall be printed and distributed free of charge to such employers as shall make application therefor and any such employer may at his option as hereinafter provided pay to the Fund the amount of the premium appropriate to his business or domestic affairs and upon payment thereof shall thereafter be considered a subscriber to the Fund and shall be insured as hereinafter provided for the calendar year for which such premium is paid and such insurance shall cover all payments becoming due in any year because of accidents occurring during the year for which said premium is paid

Section 6 The said Board shall determine the amount of premiums which the subscribers to the Fund shall pay and shall fix the premiums for insurance in accordance with the nature of their business and of the various employments of their employes and the probable risk of injury to their employes therein And they shall fix the premiums at such an amount as shall be adequate to enable them to pay all sums which may become due and payable to the employes of such subscribers under the provisions of article three of the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1915 and to create and maintain the surplus provided in section nine of this act and to provide an adequate reserve sufficient to carry all policies and claims to maturity In fixing the premiums payable by any subscriber the Board may take into account the condition of the plant work-room shop farm mine quarry operation and all other property or premises of such subscriber in respect to the safety of those employed therein as shown by the report of any inspector appointed by the Board or by the Department of Labor and Industry and they may from time to time change the amount of premiums payable by any of the subscribers as circumstances may require and the condition of the plant work-room shop farm mine quarry operation or other property or premises of such subscribers in respect to the safety of their employes may justify and they may increase the premiums of any subscriber neglecting to provide safety devices required by law or disobeying the rules or regulations made by the Board in accordance with the provisions of section fifteen of this act The insurance of any subscriber shall not be effective until he shall have paid in full the premium so fixed and determined

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 932, as follows:

An Act regulating policies of insurance against liability arising under Article three of the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1915 providing for the regulation of premium rates therefor and providing penalties for the violation thereof"

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That no policy of insurance against liability arising under Article three of the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1915 shall be made unless the same shall contain the agreement of the insurer that in the event of the failure of the insured promptly to pay any installment of compensation insured against the insurer will forthwith make such payments to the injured amploye or the dependents of the deceased employe and that the obligations shall not be affected by any default of the insured after the accident in the payment of premiums or in the giving of any notices required by such policy or otherwise Such agreement shall be construed to be a direct promise to such injured employe and to such dependents enforceable by action brought in the name of such injured employe or in the name of such dependents

Section 2 No suit shall be maintained for the collection of premiums upon any such policy of insurance unless said covenant is contained in said policy

Section 3 No policy of insurance against liability arising under said Article of said Act shall contain any limitation of the lability of the insurer to an amount less than that payable by the insured on account of the risk insured against under said Article of said Act nor shall any such policy contain any limitation of the total liability of the insurer because of injuries to two or more persons in a single accident nor shall any action be maintained for the collection of premiums on any policy violating this section but policies may be issued to employers insuring them against their liability under the said Article to any designated class or part of their employes or against any particular hazard to which their employes or any class or part thereof may be exposed

Section 4 The State Workmen's Insurance Fund and every insurance association and corporation which insures employers against liability for compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1915 shall file with the Commissioner of Insurance its classification of risks and premiums together with basis rate and schedule or merit ratings if a system of schedule or merit rating be in use none of which shall take effect until the Commissioner of Insurance shall have approved the same as adequate for the risks to which they respectively apply The Commissioner of Insurance may withdraw his approval of any premium rate or schedule made by the State Workmen's Insurance Fund of any insurance corporation or association if in his judgment such premium rate or schedule is inadequate to provide the necessary reserves Such premium rates or system of schedule or merit rating shall take no account of any physical inpairment of employes or the extent to which employes have persons dependent upon them for support

On and after January first one thousand nine hundred and sixteen neither the State Workmen's Insurance Fund nor any insurance association or corporation may issue renew or carry beyond anniversary date any insurance for compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1915 at premium rates which are less than those approved by the Commissioner of Insurance for such carrier as adequate for the risks to which they respectively apply Provided however that if the Commissioner of Insurance shall have previously approved a system of schedule or merit rating filed with him by the State Workmen's Insurance Fund or any insurance association or corporation it may apply the same to risks subject thereto but any reduction from the basis rate filed with and approved by the Commissioner of Insurance on account of the application of such system of schedule or merit rating shall be clearly set forth in the insurance contracts or the endorsements attached thereto

The statistical and actuarial data compiled by the State Workmen's Insurance Fund shall at all times be available to the State Insurance Commissioner for his use in judging the adequacy or inadequacy of rates and schedules filed and it shall be the duty of the manager of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund to render all possible assistance to the State Insurance Department in carrying out the provisions of this act

The Commissioner of Insurance may require every insurance association or corporation which insures employers or employes under the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1915 to file with its annual statement a sworn report of its loss experience in such detail and form as may be prescribed by the Commissioner of Insurance

The Commissioner of Insurance shall have the power to suspend or revoke the license of any insurance association or corporation which violates any of the provisions of this act

Section 5 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

NAYS—3.

Baldwin,
Heyburn,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 933, as follows:

An Act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of employers' mutual liability insurance associations and for the licensing of foreign mutual liability insurance companies and declaring the false oaths of officers thereof to be perjury

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That any twenty or more employers who have in the aggregate not less than five thousand employes in the State of Pennsylvania and who have accepted the provisions of article three of the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1915 may form an incorporated employers' mutual liability insurance association for the purpose of insuring themselves and such other employers as may become suscribers to the association against liability for the compensation payable under the terms of article three of said Act Provided however that in the case of associations engaged only in insurance of employers engaged in agriculture the minimum number of employers shall be two hundred and the minimum number of employes shall be five hundred

Section 2 The articles of association thereof shall state
(a) The name of the association
(b) The place of its principal office
(c) The duration of the association
(d) The name and address of its treasurer

Any name not in use by an existing association may be adopted but must clearly designate the object and purpose of the association

Section 3 The suscribers to said articles of agreement shall acknowledge the same before some person empowered to take acknowledgments of deeds and forward the same in duplicate to the Commissioner of Insurance who shall certify in duplicate to the Governor whether all of the requirements hereof have been complied with Whereupon the Governor shall in case he approves the application endorse his approval thereon in duplicate and cause letters patent to issue creating the subscribers and their associates a body corporate under the name designated in said articles but such associations shall not engage in business until the further provisions of this Act have been complied with

Section 4 Such association shall not begin to issue policies until a list of the suscribers with the number of employes of each together with such other information as the Commissioner of Insurance may require shall have been filed at the Insurance Department nor until the president and secretary of the association shall have certified under oath that every subscription in the list so filed is genuine and made with an agreement of all the subscribers that they will take the policies subscribed for within thirty days of the granting of a license by the Commissioner of Insurance

Section 5 Upon the filing of the certificate provided for in the preceding section the Commissioner of Insurance shall make such investigations as he may deem proper and if his findings warrant it grant a license to the association to issue policies

Section 6 Charters under this act may be perputual or limited in time as the articles of agreement shall specify

Section 7 Such associations shall have the power to make by-laws for the government of its officers and the conduct of its affairs and the same to alter and amend and adopt a common seal

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. BENN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. VICKERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. BENN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Cerk.

The Clerk then read the amendments as follows:

Amend title, line 24, by striking out the word "and" after the word "seven" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "and" before the word "seven."

Amend section 1, line 21, by striking out the word "and" after the word "cement" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "and" between the two words "cement."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendments as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendments will be inserted in accordance with the instruction of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with the information that the House has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 835 (Senate Bill No. 7), entitled:

An Act amending sections one three four seven ten eleven and repealing section eight of an act entitled "An Act relating to the collection of city school and poor taxes in the several cities of the third class in this Commonwealth and providing that the city treasurer of each of said cities by virtue of his office shall be collector of the said several taxes prescribing his duties and fixing his compensation" approved the twentieth day of June Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and one

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. GLENN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend title by adding at the end thereof the following: "by further regulating the collection of said taxes and by extending the provisions of the act to county taxes."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendment at this time? Is there any objection?

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the gentleman explain why he desires this to be extended to the county taxes as well.

Mr. GLENN. Mr. Speaker, this amendment is made with the consent of the sponsor of the bill. If the gentleman objects the bill can be re-committed.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, I would rather see the bill re-committed for amendment than to have the amendment inserted at this time; therefore, I object.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be re-committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. GLENN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 914, as follows:

An Act enabling cities of the second class to relieve traffic congestion and to improve transit facilities in such cities by the construction and maintenance of subways and galleries in or adjacent to congested districts of such cities empowering the Public Service Commission to compel public service companies and others to use such subways and galleries providing a method for fixing the terms of such use and authorizing said cities to appropriate land necessary for the construction of such subways or galleries and providing a method for ascertaining the damages arising therefrom

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That cities of the second class for the purpose of relieving traffic congestions are hereby authorized and empowered to locate construct own and maintain on or through either public or private property subways or tunnels for the transportation of persons and property in or adjacent to the districts or sections of such cities where traffic is or may hereafter become congested together with approaches entrances stations tracks power transmission systems sidings connections with other facilities of said city and others galleries and other accessories either in appurtenant thereto or in connection therewith to be used for any lawful purpose Said cities are also hereby authorized and empowered to grant licenses for a reasonable rental for the use of such subways and tunnels to public service companies as defined in the Public Service Company Law of this State and others maintaining works and facilities in said district in the manner and under the restrictions herein set forth Such cities may permit entrances to be made into such subways and tunnels from private property and may grant permits for advertising and for news stands at the stations of such subways and tunnels and may fix the compensation therefor

Section 2 Before letting any contract for the construction of such subway or tunnel such city shall negotiate with the public service companies and others for which it is proposed to provide accommodation in said subway or tunnel for the purpose of agreeing upon terms for the use of such subway or tunnel All agreements so made must be approved by the Public Service Commission If the city and any such public service companies and others do not agree upon the terms on which the city shall grant a license to use such subway or tunnel the city may thereupon fix the terms of such license and apply to the Public Service Commission for an order directing such public service companies and others to use such subway or tunnel in accordance with such terms If the Public Service Commission shall find that it is necessary or proper for the public safety welfare and convenience to require such public service companies and others to use such subway or tunnel it shall make an order requiring such public service companies and others to use such subway or tunnel for a period not exceeding twenty-five years upon the terms fixed by such city or such modification thereof as to the said commission shall seem just and reasonable Any such order shall be subject to review by the courts as is now provided by law in other proceedings before the commission No agreement for the use of said subway or tunnel shall be made for a longer period than twenty-five years and all such agreements shall be subject to modification of their terms at five year intervals either by agreement or by like proceedings before the Public Service Commission The Public Service Commission shall review all orders made by it respecting the use of said subway or tunnel at five year intervals and shall make such modifications in the terms thereof as shall be just and reasonable Such orders may be modified at other times for cause shown upon the application of any interested party All such orders of the Commission shall be subject to review by the courts as is provided by law in other proceedings before the Commission

Section 3 Any such city shall have the right to repeal any ordinance passed or discontinue any proceeding taken providing for any of the improvements authorized by this act prior to beginning the construction thereof and shall not thereafter be liable to pay any damages which have been or might have been assessed but all costs upon such proceeding shall be paid by said city together with any actual damages sustained by reason of such proceedings

Section 4 If such city shall proceed with the construction of such subway or tunnel all public service companies and others who have agreed or been ordered by the Public Service Commissiin to use said subway or tunnel shall remove their works and facilities from existing locations and place them in such subway or tunnel when and as said city may direct and if any such public service companies or others shall refuse or neglect to remove said works and facilities and place them in said subway or tunnel when required by said city so to do said city may remove said works and facilities and place them in said subway or tunnel at the expense of such public service company or others After said works and facilities are removed from existing locations the city shall not grant rights to other parties which may impair any franchise or right of such public service companies and others in their former locations save as said city may lawfully do it being the intention of this act to preserve the rights of all parties except as the mode of their exercise is herein changed

Section 5 No exclusive rights whatever shall be granted by any city to any public service company or others to use and operate in said subway or tunnel but licenses may be granted to other public service companies and others whether for the transportation of persons or property or for other public service it not being intended by this act to protect transportation companies or other public service companies from competition which is or may be authorized by law No franchise or right to use said subway or tunnel or any part thereof shall be granted for a longer term than twenty-five years and the terms thereof shall be reviewed at five year intervals

Section 6 In case any property is damaged by the construction of such sub way or tunnel or in case any such city desires to enter upon any land to make any investigation or desires to take use or appropriate the fee or any lesser estate in any lands or properties necessary for the construction of such subway or tunnel and is unable to agree with the owner or owners upon the price to be paid therefor the damages caused by such construction shall be ascertained and collected in the same manner as is now or may hereafter be provided by law for ascertaining and collecting damages to abutting properties caused by the grading or otherwise improving of streets in such cities and the damages caused by such entry on taking using and appropriation of land shall be ascertained and collected in the same manner as is now or may hereafter be provided by law for ascertaining and collecting damages for the taking occupation or injury of property necessary in the laying out opening widening and grading of streets in the municipal corporations of this Commonwealth

Section 7 Should any section or provision of this act be held by the courts to be invalid or unconstitutional the same shall not impair the grant of power herein to cities of the second class to locate construct own and maintain subways or tunnels and their appurtenances nor shall it be held to affect any other section or provision of this act

Section 8 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. MEARKLE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend section 1 ,line 4, of said bill as amended by striking out the word "congestions" and inserting in its place the word "congestion."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendment at this time? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to on third reading.

Ordered, That the Bill, as amended, lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1097, entitled:

An Act requiring the borough council to fix by ordinance the salary of the burgess

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, as I read this bill, it would cause a great hardship to many boroughs of this Commonwealth. I can undertstand where the Burgess acts as Justice of the Peace and devotes all his time to the business of the office, that it would be proper to give him the salary provided in this bill. The second section of the bill provided that the salary shall not be less than one hundred dollars for each thousand of population. Now, in many of the boroughs of this State the custom is to elect a Burgess who does not give his time and attention to the office, but merely passes upon such ordinances as are presented to him. In that case a leading citizen is usually selected and he gives very ittle time away from his business to the office. This bill would make the salary of every borough in this State having five thousand people, at least five hundred dollars, and for each additional one thousand inhabitants, the salary would be increased fifty dollars. It seems to me this would be imposing too great a burden. Under existing laws Councils can, and in some cases do, pay the Burgess liberally. It would not be right to compel them to pay the salary that this bill requires them to pay.

Mr. BARNETT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to add one other word to what the member said. The latter part of section two provides for a still further increase in the salary to an amount not exceeding fifty dollars per month. In very many of the Boroughs of this State, a majority of the Boroughs of the State, if this was attempted to be put in force, they would be given a very great deal of trouble. There is no small borough in the State of Pennsylvania that can perhaps afford to pay anything like fifty dollars a month. In addition to that the Chief Burgess in most of the towns is on his job very little of the time. He perhaps does not put three days of the time on the job in the whole year. He is, in a large part, a mere sinecure, or figurehead. The work is done by the town council and the president of the town council, and the Chief Burgess oftentimes don't so much as meet with that town council for months at a time, and the whole matter seems to me to be entitrely unwarranted.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

A division was called for and 60 gentlemen having voted in the affirmative, and 59 in the negative, the question was determined in the affirmative and the bill was agreed to on third reading.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—3.

Baker,
Diefenderfer,
Gompers,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it without amendments.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 928, entitled:

An Act to classify the fish in the waters within this Commonwealth declaring which are game fish which are food fish and which are bait fish and to regulate the catching and sale and to forbid the sale of certain fish and encourage the propagation of the same to protect the waters within this Commonwealth from unfair improper wasteful and destructive fishing and to protect the fish from being destroyed or injured by destructive means to provide for the appointment of fish wardens and to declare their official powers and duties to encourage and regulate the propagation of fish within this Commonwealth and to regulate the free distribution of the same by the Department of Fisheries in the waters within the same to define powers and duties of the Department of Fisheries to regulate the sale and shipment of fish artificially propagated for profit and to provide penalties and punishments for the violation of the provisions of this act and providing how and by whom the costs shall be paid

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Walsh, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WALSH. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SHOWALTER. I desire to know if this bill prevents fishing on Sunday.

Mr. WALSH. In answer to that Mr. Speaker, let me say that a bill was introduced on Wednesday last which will prohibit Sunday fishing. The reason the additional bill was offered was so that it would not be necessary to amend this bill in the House.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to know whether if this bill passes it does not repeal the act which prohibits fishing on Sunday.

Mr. WALSH. Mr. Speaker, I understand not. I got that information from Dr. Mutchler,, who is the head of the Sunday Law and Order Society. He was perfectly satisfied that the additional bill which was offered to prohibit Sunday fishing would take care of that feature.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, there, no doubt, will be some difference of opinion as to whether this act, if passed, will repeal the former act, which prohibits fishing on Sunday. We are not going to discuss that, but there are some provisions in this bill that I wish to call your attention to. Each man has his own ideas as to what sport, in fishing, consists of. One man will fish one way and another man will select another. This bill provides that in streams which have been declared trout streams outlines shall not be set, neither shall spearing nor gigging be permitted. That is very good so far as that goes. But if you will turn to section twenty-five of this act you will see that the Fish Commission has unlimited authority to declare any stream a trout stream, and there is absolutely no appeal from the decision of that Fish Commission. In many instances that would work out all right, but there are some instances, I guarantee you sir that it will work out unjustly. It is not fair to my mind, that the decision of the Fish Commission should be final. We should have a right to appeal this question to a court, it seems to me at least. In section 12 I notice there is a provision that allows fish officers to buy and sell fish for the purpose of accumulating evidence. I take it to mean this; that a Fish Commissioner in order to get some person into the toils of the law has the privilege of buying and trying to sell fish to a certain person. I know from my personal knowledge that that was done by some man from the Game Department. Now, whether the Fish Department expects to practice anything like that I do not know. But it looks to me from the phraseology of the act that that is what it would amount to. Now, gentlemen we appeal to you. We feel that the fish law as it now stands is fair. The fish law is definitely understood, and now to turn it around again, perverts the ideas of the people as to what the fish law really is.

I do not see that there is going to anything particularly gained by this act any more than that possibly the liberties and privileges of some people who now enjoy fishing will be curtailed or absolutely cut off. We feel that we do not need this law. I come from a county where there is some fishing and where we have some streams, and I am simply voicing to you the sentiments of the people whom I represent. They do not care to have this written into the law, and I ask you to vote "no" on the question.

Mr. FORSTER. I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Union, Mr. Showalter.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentlean from Union permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHOWALTER. I will, sir.

Mr. FORSTER. Under what language in section 25 does the gentleman consider it gives the Fish Commission absolute authority to declare any stream in the State a trout stream?

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I do not know that I can make myself any more clear than to read the section which says this—"for the purpose of this act, any stream or water or part thereof within this Commonwealth in which charr or trout are commonly fished for and caught whether through the stocking of the stream or whether native to such stream or water or part thereof shall be deemed water or streams inhabited by trout. In case of a conflict of statement on this point as to any stream or water the matter shall be investigated by the Board of Fishery Commission and its decision shall be final."

Now, Mr. Speaker, since the gentleman has called me out on this proposition I wish to relate something that the Fish Commission actually did, but for the benefit of Mr. Buller, who is President of the Fish Commission, I will say that it was not done during his term. In my county quite a large stream, Penns Creek, was declared a trout stream about eighteen miles down from the mountains. In order to determine whether or not that stream was a trout stream, the Fish Commission went to Bellefonte, a distance of 40 miles from the boundaries of the stream, to determine whether or not there were fish in that stream. Now, no man will travel 40 miles and pay his own expenses to be a witness, but as a matter of fact there was one man from my county who appeared before that commission and he was a man who worked on the railroad, and I suppose he got free transportation or else he would not have been there. As a consequence of that hearing, Penns Creek was closed for 10 or 12 miles. We do not think that the Fish Commission's decisions ought to be final, but that we ought to have some redress.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Union, Mr. Showalter.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Union, Mr. Showalter, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHOWALTER. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, do I understand the gentlean from Union to say that section 12 provides for the purchase of fish to obtain evidence?

Mr. SHOWALTER. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker will the gentleman just point out to me such provision in that section.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I beg the gentleman's pardon, it is section 11, page 12, lines 16, 17 and 18.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Union?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. SHOWALTER. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, do I understand the gentleman to say that it is improper for an investigator to purchase fish from any one, who has such fish illegally in his possession, for the purpose of obtaining evidence?

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I would say no, but the provision also says that he may sell and that would be an attempt to induce and get the person to violate the law. I do not think that any game warden or fish commissioner should be endowed with any authority to go so far as to tempt some person to break the law.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House I do not know that I know very much about fish or fishing, but I am, on principle, in favor of anything which tends to preserve our sporting fish and game in this Commonwealth. There has been enough done to exterminate by sportsmen—not so much by the sportsmen, as by the market fisherman, to exterminate the trout throughout this State. Now this section, 25, which my friend from Union seems to object to, to my mind does not make the Fish Commission absolute unless there is a dispute of fact, and certainly if there is any person who is best fitted to say if there are trout in a certain stream, the Fish Commission, having charge of stocking the stream, is the proper department to decide that question or the persons in that Commission—they are the persons most apt to know whether or not it is a game-fish stream.

As to Section 11, to my mind it is perfectly fair to obtain evidence against a wilful violator of the law and the man who has stock on hand which he knows has been taken in violation of the law should be trapped, if possible, by those who are interested in enforcing law. I see no reason why any person who is hunting for evidence should not have the right to purchase fish from the man who has them and knows that he has them illegally as that is the only possible way we can get the evidence. On the other hand, there is no reason why any person who is willing to buy fish illegally should be protected when he knows he is violating the law. I think there is a little bit of courteous sentiment in favor of what I would not say criminals but petty-criminals and these men should be punished when they violate the law, knowing that they are doing it.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, when this bill was brought before the committee for consideration there was no printed copy of the bill before that committee except the one bill that was in the hands of the chairman of that committee, and you will notice if you will look over the bill that it contains a great many sections and it covers a great deal of ground. We talked about that, Mr. Speaker. We had with us at that time the Commissioner of Fisheries. He explained some of the changes that this act would bring about and we made all inquiries that we coud make as committeemen without having the bill at hand. None of the committee that I know of had read the bill and they did not read it until after it was brought out upon the floor of this House; and we talked it over and we came to this conclusion—and I think that every member of that committee will bear me out in this statement—that the bill ought to come out on the floor of the House and be printed so that every member could have a copy and then if the members of this committee were not satisfied with this bill it was agreed, gentlemen, that the bill would be placed back in the committee for amendment. I have asked that this bill be put back in committee for amendment.

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Fisheries.

Mr. WALSH. Mr. Speaker, I hope that this motion will not carry. I have in my hand a communication from the Pennsylvania State Sportsmen's Association, representing one hundred and twenty-five organizations or clubs, endorsing House Bill No. 928 as amended and for passage tonight. As sponsor of this bill, although I may not be up to the expert fishing class that my friend Mr. Herman is, yet at the same time I feel that the members of the House should vote on this bill tonight. I cannot see any reason for the bill going back to the committee. I fell that there are enough members in the House interested in this code to pass the bill and I will ask the members of the House to support me and refuse to send it back to the committee.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I do not wish to be misunderstood. There are many good things in this bill, but there are some things that the people in my end of the State are opposed to, and the people who are interested in this bill are inclined to give way and allow us to amend that bill. In fact, a certain gentleman talked to me no longer that one half or three quarters of an hour ago about that matter and I want to say to you, gentlemen, that my object in asking that this bill be put back is simply because I was promised that in that committee before we ever let it out of the committee, and I ask the gentlemen of this House to stand by what was promised not only to me but to every other member of that committee when this bill came out. That is what I am asking. I have no objections to the gentleman's objections that he has offered relative to my motion but I do say that we are entitled to the courtesy that we extended in that committee when we allowed it to come out without further discussion.

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, I speak for an organization known as the West Branch Sportsmen's Association, made up of branches throughout the West Branch of the Susquehanna River which is one of the great fishing sections of the State. Now, undoubtedly there are many good features in this code but in its present form it is absolutely unsatisfactory to this large body of fishermen of the State who are sincerely and earnestly endeavoring to advance everything looking toward fish conservation. The part they particularly object to is this relating to the pollution of our streams and they feel that this bill, instead of strengthening that point, weakens it. There are quite a few things that are rather hard to remedy on the floor of this House and I believe the proper thing to do for the people back of this bill, if they are really trying to get a better fish law, is to send it back to the committee where it can be considered section by section carefully and many of these objections met. Now that was the understanding when it came out, that if there was any question raised, then it would be sent back. Personally, I think it ought to go back and I hope the members will sustain that motion. If they do not allow it to go back the bill in its present shape has bad points in it and should be defeated. There are some amendments which could be made. This matter has been talked out with those back of this bill and their sole argument is, "we are going to send it to a vote; we will promise to do certain things in the Senate." I do not think we should depend on doing things in the Senate but should attend to our own affairs here.

Mr. WALSH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to say, for the benefit of the members of the House, in answer to the statement made by the gentleman from Wyoming, Mr. Herman, that he was promised that the bill would go back to the committee—as sponsor of this bill I would like to say that I did not make any such promise.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, there are several reasons why this bill should not go back to committee. One is that there are so many different opinions as to what should and what should not be on this subject that no matter how many times you would send the bill back to the committee it would be impossible to satisfy all.

It is the same as with the game laws. There are so many different lattitudes and so many different kinds of conditions in the different sections that it would be utterly impossible to put the matter in shape to satisfy all. This bill has been thoroughly gone over and endorsed by the State Sportsmen's Association and by the Wild Life League with the exception of possibly two or three different sections and we come here tonight and ask you to support it because it has that endorsement.

The second objection, the one raised by the gentleman down there—I forget his name—he finds fault with section 25. If you will take the trouble to read the old fishing code you will find the very same words in it as appears in section 25 and he says he was satisfied with the old code. If there is any one that is to be given the power to settle a disputed question it should be the Fishery Commission. There are some features of this bill good and some bad. The principal feature of this bill that I want to call your attention to is the catching of trout. The old fishing code provides that the fishermen cannot catch trout under six inches. Up to this time people have been catching fish four and five inches long and throwing them back in the stream and they die. Now we have this bill which provides that you can catch them from one to six inches to the number of forty each day. That is gettting away with the man catching the small fish and throwing them back into the stream to die. We want to take care of the fish and we must have a head to do it. There is somebody that must have the final decision and therefore the power is here given to the Fishery Commission.

Then there is one more objection made and that is the Sunday fishing. In relation to the Sunday fishing I want to say that there are four or five fish codes that were passed in 1911 and 1909 and only one of them said you must not fish on Sunday and that provision related to inland water. I claim that is not constitutional to say that you shall not fish on Sunday in inland waters and allow fishing on lakes. We have therefore gone to the trouble to take out this exception and made it unlawful to fish anywhere in the State of Pennsylvania on Sunday, covering all the waters within the State. I therefore ask the gentlemen of the House to dispose of the bill tonight.

Mr. E. E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I woud like to interrogate the Chairman of the Fisheries Committee

The SPEAKER. Will the Chairman of the Committee on Fisheries permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STEEDLE. Certainly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. E. E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the Chairman of the Fisheries Committee if it was not talked about and practically agreed on in the Committee that this bill would be recommitted if there was any considerable objection to it.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Susquehanna I will says, yes.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill be recommitted to the Committee on Fisheries?

The SPEAKER declared the ayes appeared to have it.

Whereupon a division was called for and 72 gentlemen voting in the affirmative and ninety in the negative the motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that this house go in to the committee of the whole for the purpose of special amendment, which I ask to be read by the Clerk.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I second the amendment.

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentlemen will state his point of order.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, my point of order is that this bill being on final passage and having been agreed to on third reading, this House cannot go into the committee of the whole.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman's point of order is well taken.

The question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill was agreed to on third reading be reconsidered for the purpose of going into the committee of the whole for the puspose of considering special amendments.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of this billl be postponed for the present.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion

The motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, one of the amendments which I intended to introduce was to re-insert the provisions prohibiting fishing on Sunday.

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, my point of order is that this amendment having been rejected by the House a discussion of the same is not in order.

The SPEAKER. The gentlemans point of order is well taken.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I agree quite heartily with the gentleman from Clearfield in regard to this bill. We have heard statements made here on the floor of the House tonight about objections to it in its present form. We have not heard any valid objections stated and I quite agree, if we are to stand here all night and talk in general terms about the provisions of this Fish Code we will never get anywhere with it, and I say now is the time to vote on this bill and pass it, and decide the matter here now, because we know we cannot have it entirely acceptable to every member of the House.

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, in regard to the merits of this bill, with the Sunday exemption excluded, I will say that several weeks ago we got a communication from one of these soprtsmen organizations endorsing certain legislation and among other things they said they instructed their legislative committee to prepare a code leaving out the fine on Sunday fishing. Now they come along and have a separate bill, which is to include it. Now, in view of the fact of that letter where one of their main reasons for wanting a code is to strike that out, I think it is a case of the Greeks bearing gifts, and it would be very much wiser if we retained the law as we have it, which prohibits that.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1057, entitled:

An Act to repeal and act approved the seventeenth day of June one thousand nine hundred thirteen entitled "An Act to provide revenue for State and county purposes and in cities co-extensive with counties for city and county purposes imposing taxes upon certain classes of personal property providing for the assessment and collections of the same providing for the duties and compensation of prothonotaries and recorders in connection therewith and modifying existing legislation which provided for raising revenue for State purposes"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer and amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend title, line 6, by striking out the word "collections" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "collection"

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendment at this time? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill, as amended, was then agreed to on third reading.

Ordered, That the bill, as amended, lie over for printing.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. McCAIG. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to, and at 11:30 o'clock P. M. the House adjourned until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Legislative Journal.

Session 1915 121st of the General Assembly

Vol. 3. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, APRIL 13, 1915. No. 41.

SENATE.

TUESDAY, April 13, 1915.

The Senate met at 9.00 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor, Frank B. McClain) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. Thomas W. Davis, offered the following prayer:

"Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the splendid powers with which we are endowed. We thank Thee for those longings of whatever character they may be, and those ambitions that are constantly expressing themselves within us. We pray Thee that we may be able to interpret them in such a way that they shall give larger and better force to our lives. Grant that when splendid visions come to us to-day, no matter how small, we may obey them so that we can grasp the larger visions for to-morrow. Give Thy blessing to this body and its President, let Thy blessing be with all the employes, and grant, dear Father, to so guide us that we may live to Thy glory and the good of our fellowmen. We ask in our Saviour's name. Amen.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. SPROUL, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

HOUSE MESSAGE.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented extracts from the Journal of the House of Representatives which were laid upon the table.

All elevator shafts shall conform to the requirements of section four of the Act of Assembly of April twenty-five nineteen hundred and three

No elevator shall be erected re-erected or altered and no enclosures built or interlock or other safety appliances installed without first having obtained a permit from the Bureau of Inspection

The applicant for a permit to erect an elevator must submit a plan of the whole ground floor of the building showing proposed location of the shaftway and drawings of the elevator and also an elevation of shaftway the said plans and drawing to be filed as a part of the records of the bureau

No permit shall be issued to erect an elevator or sling hoist in any thoroughfare where it is necessary to pass through the shaftway or under the elevator whether inside or outside of the building

No permit shall be issued allowing power to be applied to any back guide elevator or roller hoist

No wooden hoist drum shall be allowed

Whenever any back guide elevator shall be in need of extensive repairs it shall be condemned and replaced with a guide post car or the hatchway must be closed but if the shaftway occupies a thoroughfare the location of the same must be changed except in extreme cases where in the judgment of the bureau such change is practically impossible This clause does not apply to a carriage elevator

All elevators must be so located as to give easy and safe access to all principal parts for inspection adjustment and repair

No pressure tank shall have less strength than a factor of safety of four (4) and no other part affected by this load shall have less strength than a factor of safety of four (4) for freight five (5) for passenger and six (6) for all drum shafts and overhead supports

No power driven elevator shall have less than two (2) main hoisting cables and all cables must be attached to a substantial and effective equalizing bar with means for adjustment

The maximum load on hoist cables must not be greater than one-sixth (1-6) of the ultimate strength for passenger elevators and one fifth (1-5) for freight the basis of computation being Standard Swedes iron hoisting cable

All sheaves and drums for hoist and counterweight cables must conform to the standards of the Bureau of Inspection

No elevator car shall be suspended by any kind of cable other than metallic

Every passenger elevator car hereafter constructed must have its frame built of metal and no inferior material of any kind shall be allowed to enter into the construction of any elevator

Every guide post elevator car must be provided with safety clutches that will prevent the car from falling in case of broken cables or broken or deranged machinery

Every passenger elevator now in operation or that shall be hereafter installed shall be provided with speed governor in connection with a gradually applied safety

Every freight elevator having a car speed of over fifty (50) feet per minute shall be provided with a governor working in connection with gradually applied safety

Every freight elevator having a car speed of less than fifty (50) feet per minute must be provided with speed governor which may work in connection with an instantaneous safety

All elevators must be tested with a maximum load

All wooden guide posts must be provided with independent guide straps

All elevators carrying more persons that the regular attendant and designated assistants not to exceed three in number shall be classed as passenger elevators and are subject to all the requirements of passenger service

Every power driven elevator must be automatic terminal stops other than those required on the controlling mechanism

Every power driven drum hoist elevator must have a slack cable controller shifter

All brakes operated by a check line must be so arranged as to be applied automatically if the check line should break and all electric brakes must be applied by breaking the current

All passenger elevators must be equipped with mechanical interlocks and all interlocking mechanism must conform to the requirements of the Bureau

Where any interlock already installed is found to be unreliable or does not conform to the requirements of the bureau it shall be condemned and be replaced within a reasonable time by an approved interlock

Requirements for Elevator Locking Device

a The device must prevent the doors of the landing being opened either from inside or outside except when the car is within three inches of such landing

b The device must prevent the opening of the landing door either from outside or inside when the car is at the landing until after the controlling mechanism of the car has been set in position to stop the car

c The opening of the landing door when a car is at a floor must immediately lock the controlling mechanism in the stop position and the devices must prevent the starting of the car up or down until the landing door has been again closed and locked

d The locking device electrical or mechanical shall be such as will hold immovable and secure the carriage used in such elevator while any gate door or doors at the landing that are used for entrance thereto or exit therefrom are open and unsecured

e The device must be so arranged that the car can run from top to bottom without touching any of the mechanism at the landing unless it is desired to stop at a floor

f The device electrical or mechanical shall be such as to place the power of controlling the elevator beyond the control of the attendant while any gate door or doors on the landing leading to the carriage is open and unsecured

g The device must prevent the car leaving the landing from any cause whatever while the door of the enclosure is open

h No interlocker mechanism shall so affect the controller of any elevator as to reduce the valve lap to less than one-third (1-3) of its total amount

All automatic door opening and closing devices must be independent of the interlocking device

No pilot valve shall be installed or allowed to remain in service that cannot be controlled by an interlock within the limits of two-thirds (2-3) of its total lap

Any pilot valves now in use if in the judgment of the inspectors and the chief of the bureau of inspection are considered a source of danger shall be condemned and removed

Every hydraulic elevator shall have an independent exhaust pipe from the controlling valve of the discharge tank and no two cylinders shall be allowed to discharge through the same pipe unless provided with checks

The shaftways of all passenger and freight elevators hereafter constructed must be enclosed below the first floor with either fire-proof or slow burning construction All windows opening into elevator shafts are to be guarded with screens or bars

All hand power elevators in which the platform travels more than one story shall be equipped with a speed governor

If the shaftway of any passenger elevator is so located or the motive power is so limited in range as to make a basement air pit impracticable the air pit must be constructed above the first floor

The pit of every elevator shaftway must be kept clean and dry at all times Stop or resting blocks shall not be allowed at the bottom of shaftway

At the top of the shaft and under the suspension sheaves and beams of every power driven elevator there shall be built a substantial working platform or grating the said platform or grating to be of such a character as to prevent tools or other dangerous weights from falling through and down the shaftway

No explosives inflammable or suffocating material whether solid liquid or gaseous or any pipe for conveying the same shall be stored or kept under any elevator shaftway

No elevator shaftway shall be used for the storage of any material or the running of any rope wire or pipe except for the use of the elevator itself

All elevators used for carrying passengers must have their hatchways surrounded by substantial vertical enclosures the same to be made flush with the hatchway and continuous from door to ceiling on every open side of the car and on every floor except the top where a height of six feet six inches is sufficient On every other side of the car the enclosures must be at least six feet six inches in height All enclosures doors must be made to slide except in extreme cases where necessity compels the adoption of some other movable enclosures but in all cases this enclosure door must be of such a character as to be controlled by an interlock All grill work enclosures must be substantially braced and be kept in through repair Wherever an elevator shaftway has been constructed as not to admit of a mechanical interlock on the basement door the said door must be so constructed as to close and lock automatically when the car leaves

EVERY PASSENGER ELEVATOR MUST BE PROVIDED WITH AN INSIDE SLIDING DOOR

Whenever the car of a passenger elevator has more than one doorway every doorway must be provided with an inside sliding door and the doors must be so arranged and connected that the opening of any one door mechanically closes all the other doors

Every freight elevator shall have its hatchway surrounded by vertical enclosures and gates The fixed enclosures to be not less than six (6) feet in height and the gates to be as near six (6) feet in height as the condition will warrant Wooden gates must be made of vertical strip with spaces not wider than two (2) inches All gates must be self-closing and also fitted with device to prevent them being raised until the platform is at the floor landing and whenever practicable they must be made to slide vertically Full automatic gates wherever found will be condemned and must be replaced within a reasonable time by gates approved by the bureau

All enclosures must be made flush with hatchways on every open side of the car and whenever window recesses occur in the shaftway the same must be covered by a substantial grille or screen Where it is necessary to place a lifting gate on any elevator car the said gate must be so hung and balanced as to close automatically when the car leaves the landing

Whenever in the judgment of the bureau the construction of the building or the nature of the business is such that the standard vertical enclosures are impracticable they may adopt such safeguards as will afford the best protection Fire doors on the floor side of brick shaftways are not deemed sufficient protection and self-closing vertical gates shall be required in addition

Every elevator occupying a thoroughfare that cannot be guarded by vertical enclosures must be provided with a loud ringing gong that will ring continuously or at close intervals while the car is descending through the thoroughfare

Every power driven freight elevator must be provided with a signal bell that can be operated from every floor and the controlling device must be provided with some form of lock that will enable the attendant to hold the car immovable while loading and unloading All freight elevators not in the care of a regular attendant must have signs posted on every floor prohibiting all persons from riding on the car

Every sidewalk elevator must be protected at the street level by a removable railing of such construction that the controlling mechanism of the said elevator will be locked and held immovable until the railing is in place

Every sidewalk elevator must be protected by a substantial guard that will open the sidewalk doors far enough in advance of the car to prevent crushing a person between the car platform and the sidewalk doors

Where any freight elevator shall have flush enclosures but not self closing gates the owner agent or lessee may provide all the shaftway doors with substantial safe inside locks and put the car in charge of a regularly authorized operator otherwise the shaftway must be provided with approved self-closing gates

The bureau of inspection shall have the power to demand a regularly licensed operator on any elevator when in the judgment of the bureau the safety of the public requires the elevator to be placed under such control Should the owner agent or lessee refuse to comply with the same demand the elevator shall be locked up

All elevators counterweights must be hung in guides and the foot of the guideway must be so protected as to prevent any person from being injured by the descending weights

All counterweights must have their component parts so fastened together as to prevent any piece or pieces from becoming detached from the guides should the counterweight be accidentally drawn to the top of the shaft with the usual velocity

Counterweights of plunger elevators must be connected direct to plunger

All hydraulic elevators must have their valve chambers and cylinders provided with means for preventing the accumulation of air

If any accident shall occur to any elevator affecting life or limb or in any way impairing the strength or efficiency of said elevator it shall be the duty of the engineer in charge of the building or in the absence of the engineer the superintendent to immediately notify the chief of the bureau of such accident The chief of the burau shall cause auy such accident to be promptly investigated

The owner agent or lessee of a building will be held responsible for the failure of the engineer or superintendent to properly report any elevator accident in said building or for any negligence on the part of said engineer or superintendent affecting the safety of any elevator under his control

The builder of any elevator will be held responsible for the proper construction of the said elevator in all its parts and for the execution of all rules and regulations of the bureau regarding elevator construction

If the owner agent or lessee of any building shall receive a written notice from the bureau that any passenger elevator under his control is in an unsafe condition and shall continue to operate the said elevators ignoring the requirements of the bureau the chief of the bureau shall after the lapse of two days from the date of notice have the power to post a written notice at the elevator entrance stating that the said elevator is in an unsafe condition and said notice shall not be removed until so ordered by the chief of the bureau

All power driven elevators must be inspected at least once every six months after first inspection All hand hoist elevators must be re-inspected at least once in twelve months after first inspection

Pressure tanks must be inspected as often as in the judgment of the bureau their condition may require

Certificates of inspection shall be in force one year from date of issue unless in the judgment of the bureau any elevator is found to be in an unsafe condition In such cases the certificate shall be removed and the elevator put out of service until it is put in safe running condition

The elevator inspectors with the concurrence of the chief of the bureau may require safety appliances in addition to those before mentioned when in their judgment the same may be necessary to better provide for the safety of the public

The inspection of elevators shall be conducted during business hours (eight ante meridian to five post meridian) and with a little interruption to the business of the establishment as possible The inspection of pressure tanks need not be conducted during business hours

The owners and tenants of buildings in which elevators are located their agents and employes shall be required to admit elevator inspectors at all times and with as little delay as possible and to give every facility for the prompt execution of all inspections

Every elevator shall be regularly inspected by the bureau of inspection regardless of any other inspection and no insurance or casualty company's certificate will be accepted in lieu of a certificate from the State Bureau of Elevator Inspection

Mr. WASBERS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 590 (House Bill No. 331), as follows:

An Act requiring each county having a population of one million five hundred thousand inhabitants and over and the city or cities therein to establish a pension fund for employes of said counties and city and cities and regulating the payment of such pensions

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That counties having a population of one million five hundred thousand inhabitants and over and the city or cities therein shall create a pension fund for the pensioning of employes in the manner under the conditions nad subject to the qualifications following

Section 2 In every county above designated there shall be created a board to be known as the pension board consisting of the treasurer and controller of each county and the mayor of each city therein whose duty it shall be to register all persons employed by the said county and city or cities and to administer the collection and distribution of the funds provided for and to do such acts and make such reasonable rules in the premises as they deem necessary to effectually carry into effect the provisions of this act

Section 3 Every person now or hereafter employed by the counties and cities herein designated of the age of fifty years and upwards who shall have been employed by any county and city or cities aforesaid for a period of twenty years or more shall upon application to the board of pensions herein created be retired from service and shall during the remainder of his or her life receive the pension or compensation fixed by this act subject to such qualifications as are herein contained

Section 4 During the lifetime of the said person he or she shall be entitled to receive as a pension annually from the fund set aside for that purpose fifty per centum of the amount which would constitute the average annual salary or wages which he or she received during the last five years of his or her employment by the said city and county said pension to be paid in monthly payments Should any person so employed after twenty years of service be dismissed voluntarily retire or be in any manner deprived of his position or employment before attaining the age of fifty years upon continuing a monthly payment to the fund equal to the last amount due and paid monthly while in active service said person shall be entitled to the pension above mentioned notwithstanding he or she has not attained the age of fifty years but said pension shall not commence until he or she has attained the age of fifty years Should any employe however become totally and permanently disabled after twenty years of service and before attaining the age of fifty years he or she shall be entitled to the said pension Proof of total and permanent disability shall consist of the sworn statement of three practicing physicians designated by the board that the employe is not in a condition of health to perform the duties of his or her position or office

Section 5 Employes of counties and cities herein mentioned shall after the passage of this act pay unto the board of pensions monthly an amount equal to two per centum of their monthly salaries or wages which shall be applied to the purposes of this act Payment of the monthly amount or contribution herein mentioned shall cease and be discontinued at the time the beneficiary is entitled to receive the pension herein provided

Section 6 Should any person holding position under the counties and cities herein mentioned be paid a per diem wage he or she shall not be compelled to pay or contribute toward the pension fund herein provided for but shall have the option or choice of so doing and in that event only of becoming entitled to the pension provided by this act

Section 7 The heads of every department and office shall certify to the board of pensions all persons employed and the amount of salary or wages which is paid to said employe together with dismisals resignations changes or terminations of services and from the records of their office or department furnish such information as the board of pensions shall require

Section 8 It shall be the duty of the board of pensions to receive and retain and when deemed advisable to invest the funds payable in accordance with the provisions of this act and to pay over by warrant or check the amount due to said employes

Section 9 The authorities of the counties and city or cities herein designated charged with the disbursements expenditures and appropriations shall annually set aside apportion and appropriate out of all taxes and income of the said counties and city or cities unto the board of pensions a sum sufficient to maintain the pensions or compensations due under this act Where there is more than one city in the counties designated each city shall appropriate a sum equal to its share or portion of the whole amount required

Section 10 The benefits conferred by this act shall apply to all persons employed in any capacity by or holding positions in the counties of the State included in its provisions and the city or cities therein Provided that this act shall not apply to employes of such departments bureaus or offices as are now protected by pension authorized by the laws of this State and in force at the time of the passage of this act

Section 11 The time of service herein specified namely twenty years shall be computed from the time of the first or original employment said employment to consist of service either to a city or county or both and need not be continuous No pensions shall be paid however until after January first one thousand nine hundred and seventeen

Section 12 The compensation or pension herein mentioned shall not be subject to attachment or execution shall be payable only to the beneficiary designated in this act and shall not be subject to assignment or transfer

Section 13 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to amend section 2, in line 4, by adding after the word "therein" the following: "And two employes of the county, and two employes of each city therein to be chosen by the employes of said county and city, respectively, each year"; also in section 3, line 2, by adding after the word "fifty" the word "five"; also in section 4, in line 10, by adding after the word "fifty" the word "five"; also in line 15, by adding after the word "fifty" the word "five"; also in line 17, by adding after the word "fifty" the word "five"; also in section 5, in line 7, by striking out the words "is entitled to"; also in line 7, by striking out the word "receive" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "receives"; also in line 7, by adding after the word "provided" the following: "If for any cause an employe contributing to the pension fund shall cease to be an employe of any of the counties herein mentioned or of the city or cities therein, before said employe becomes entitled to the pensions conferred by this act, the total amount of the contributions paid into the pension fund by such employe shall be refunded to him in full without interest, Provided, however, if any such employe shall have had returned to him or her the amount contributed as aforesaid and shall afterward reenter the employ of any such county or city herein designated said employe shall not be entitled to the pension designated until twenty years after the said re-employment unless he or she shall return to the pension fund the amount withdrawn, in which event the period of twenty years shall be computed from the time said employe first entered the service of said county or city. In the event of the death of any such employe before said employe becomes entitled to the pension aforesaid the said total amount of contribution aforesaid shall be paid over to the estate of said deceased employe.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 707 (House No. 961), entitled:

An Act imposing certain liabilities on persons firms and corporations in cities of the second class for the cost of extinguishing fires which occur through their criminal intent design or wilful negligence or where they have not complied with any law ordinance or other lawful regulation for the prevention of fire or the spreading thereof providing a method for the ascertainment of such cost and the manner of collecting the same

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I would like to call the attention to the Senators to what this bill is and what it reads like. If they listen I do not believe they will vote for it. It reads as follows:

That where a fire originates on the premises occupied by any person firm or corporation as a result of his or its criminal intent design or willful negligence or where said person firm or corporation has failed to comply with any law or ordinance of said cities or any lawful regulation or requirement of any State or municipal authority enacted or made for the prevention of fire or the spreading thereof such person firm or corporation shall in addition to the present penalties for the punishment of persons convicted of arson or the payment of any fine or penalty for the violation of any law ordinance or lawful regulation or requirement of any State or municipal authority enacted or made for the prevention of fire or the spreading thereof be liable in a civil action.

Now, what this means is if there were an ordinance of council say, for instance, that a corporation should have three fire buckets in their place and one happened to have two and a fire would break out in the place they would be civilly liable to the community for whatever the costs and expenses of that fire might be. I do not believe after considering it, anybody wants to vote for a bill like that. I just happened to see it, I am not interested in it. It seems like an unfair measure.

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. HOKE. Mr. President, I want to call attention to the fact that in the title of this act it limits the scope of it to cities of the second class and in the body of the act there is no mention of cities of the second class. It seems to me that would make the act unconstitutional because the title would be inconsitent with the act itself, I, therefore, move that Senate Bill No. 707 (House Bill No. 961), the bill just read, be recommitted to the Committee on Law and Order.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL OVER IN ORDER.

Mr. P. W. SNYDER. Mr. President, I ask that Senate Bill No. 714, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to regulate the sale furnishing giving away and administration in certain cases of proprietary or patent medicines or any substance or preparation containing opium morphine heroin codeine or any salts derivatives or compounds thereof and providing penalties go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 732, entitled:

An Act to amend section eleven and twelve of an act entitled "An Act to classify the species of fish in such parts of the boundary lakes of more than five thousand acres as this Commonwealth has jurisdiction over and in the waters of any peninsula or in any bay adjacent to or connected with such lakes to declare which fish are game-fish which fish are food-fish and which are minnows or bait-fish to protect and provide for the maintenance and increase of fish in such lakes to regulate and provide for the payment of license fees for the catching of fish from such boundary lakes and prohibit the unauthorized taking of fish from devices used by authority of such license to provide penalties and punishments for the violation of any of the provisions of this act and requiring the county wherein an offense is charged to pay costs of prosecution in certain instances and repealing all acts inconsistent herewith" approved the eighteenth day of April Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and thirteen more clearly defining and regulating the manner in which food fish may be caught and upon what devices fees shall be paid and authorizing the limited use of an additional kind of nets with mesh of defined size or vestibule and the said open court or a separate and distinct corridor from each open court shall continue to the street through such superstructure as may be built on the street side of the auditorium with continuous walls of brick or fireproof materials on each side of the entire length of said corridor or corridors and the ceilings and floors shall be fireproof If there be in addition to the front on a street a way or passage of the width aforesaid leading into another street then it will be sufficient if said open court or courts shall extend along the auditorium on each side thereof to said front on said street on which the theatre shall be located Said corridor or corridors shall not be reduced in width except by the thickness of the outer walls and there shall be no protection in the same the outer openings to be provided with doors or gates opening towards the street During the performance the doors or gates in the corridors shall be kept open by proper fastenings at other times they may be closed and fastened by movable bolts or locks The said open courts and corridors shall not be used for storage purposes or for any purposes whatsoever except for exit and entrance from and to the auditorium and stage and must be kept free and clear during performances The level of said corridors at the front entrance to the building shall not be greater than one step above the level of the sidewalk where they begin at the street entrance and the entrance of the main front of the building shall not be on a higher level from the sidewalk than four steps unless approved by the Bureau of Building Inspection To overcome any difference of level existing between exits from the parquet into courts and the level of the said corridors gradients shall be employed of not over one foot in ten feet with no perpendicular rise From the auditorium opening into the said open courts or on the side street there shall not be less than two exits on each side in each tier form and including the parquet and each and every gallery Each exit shall be at least five feet in width in the clear and provided with doors of iron or wood if of wood the doors shall be constructed as hereinbefore in this bill described All of said doors shall open outwardly and must be fastened with movable bolts the bolts to be kept drawn during the performances There shall be balconies not less than four feet in width in the said open court or courts at each level or tier above the parquet on each side of the auditorium of sufficient length to embrace the two exits and from said balconies there shall be staircases extending to the ground level with a rise of not over eight and one-half inches to a step and not less than nine inches tread exclusive of the nosing the staircase from the upper balcony to the next below shall not be less than thirty inches in width in the clear and from the first balcony to the ground three feet in width in the clear where the seating capacity of the auditorium is for one thousand people or less three feet and six inches in the clear where above one thousand and not more than eighteen hundred people and four feet in the clear when above eighteen hundred people and not more than twenty-five hundred people and not less than four feet six inches in the clear when above twenty-five hundred people All the before mentioned balconies and staircases shall be constructed of iron throughout including the floors and of ample strength to sustain the load to be carried by them and they shall be covered with a metal hood or awning to be constructed as shall be directed by the Inspector of Buildings If the said balconies be carried to and connect with an inclosed tower stairway having its exit directly to the street the open courts or corridors hereinbefore described may have deducted from their width the width of the staircases herein called for Where one side of the building borders on a street there shall be balconies and staircases of like capacity and kind as before mentioned carried to the ground When located on a corner lot that portion of the premises bordering on the side street and not required for the uses of the theatre may if such portion be not more than twenty feet in width be used for offices stores or apartments provided the walls separating this portion of the theatre proper are carried up solidly to through the roof and that a fire-proof exit is provided from the theatre on each tier equal to the combined width of exits opening on opposite sides in each tier communicating with balconies and staircases leading to the street in a manner provided elsewhere in this section Said exit passages shall be entirely cut off by brick walls from said offices stores or apartments and the floors and ceilings in each tier shall be fire-proof Nothing herein contained shall prevent a roof garden art gallery or rooms for similar purposes being placed over a theatre or public building provided the floor of the same forming the roof over such theatre or building shall be constructed of iron or steel and fire-proof materials and that said floor shall have no covering boards or sleepers of wood but be of tile or cement Every roof over said garden or rooms shall have all supports and rafters of iron or steel and be covered with glass or fire-proof materials or both but no such roof garden art gallery or room for any public purpose shall be placed over or above that portion of any theatre or other building which is used as a stage No workshop storage or general property-room shall be allowed above the auditorium or stage or under the same or in any of the fly galleries All of said rooms or shops may be located in the rear or at the side of the stage but in such cases they shall be separated from the stage by a brick wall and the openings leading into such portions shall have fire-proof doors on each side of the openings hung to iron eyes built into the wall No portion of any building hereafter erected or altered used or intended to be used for theatrical or other purposes as in this section specified shall be used or occupied as a hotel boarding or lodging house factory workshop or manufactory or for storage purposes except as may be hereafter specifically provided for Said restriction relates not only to that portion of the building which contains the auditorium and the stage but applies also to the entire structure in connection therewith No store or room contained in the building or the offices stores or apartments adjoining as purposes No loading accommodation shall be allowed in any part of the building communicating with the auditorium interior walls built of fire-proof materials shall separate the auditorium from the entrance vestibule and from any room or rooms of the same also from any lobbies corridors refreshment or other rooms All staircases for the use of the audience shall be inclosed with walls of brick or of fire-proof materials approved by the Bureau of Building Inspection in the stories through which they pass and the openings to said staircases from each tier shall be the full width of said staircase A fire wall of brick shall separate the auditorium from the stage and the same shall extend at least four feet above the stage roof or the auditorium roof if the latter be higher and shall be coped Above the proscenium openings there shall be an iron girder covered with fireproof materials to protect it from the heat There shall also be constructed a relieving arch over the same the intervening space being filled in with hard-burnt brick of the full thickness of the proscenium wall Should there be constrtucted an orchestra over the stage above the proscenium opening the said orchestra shall be placed on the auditorium side of the proscenium fire wall and shall be entered only from the auditorium side of said wall The moulded frame around the proscenium opening shall be formed entirely of fire-proof materials if metal be used the metal shall be filled in solid with non-combustible material and securely anchored to the wall with iron The proscenium opening shall be provided with a fire-proof metal curtain or a curtain of asbestos or similar fire-proof material approved by the Bureau of Building Inspection sliding at each end within iron grooves securely fastened to the brick wall and extending into such grooves not less than six inches on each side Said fire-proof curtain shall be raised at the commencement of each performance and lowered at the close of said performance and be operated by approved machinery for that purpose The proscenium curtains shall be placed at least three feet distant opening through the proscenium wall except the curtain opening and not more than two others which shall be located at or below the level of the stage These latter openings shall not exceed twenty-one superficial feet each which shall have doors of iron or wood in each face of the wall if of wood the door shall be lined with tin and securely hung to rabbetted iron frames or rabbets in the brick wall They shall be hung so as to be opened from either side at all times Direct access to these doors shall be provided on both sides and the same shall always be kept free from any incumbrance Iron ladders or stairs securely fixed to the wall on the stage side shall be provided to overcome any difference of level existing between the floor or galleries on the stage side of the fire wall and those on the other side of the auditorium There shall be provided over the stage metal skylights of an area or a combined area of at least one-eighth of the area of the said stage fitted up with sliding sash and glazed with double-thick sheet glass not exceeding one-eighth of an inch thick and each pane thereof measuring not less than three hundred square inches and the whole of which skylights shall be constructed so as to open instantly on the cutting or burning of a hempen cord which shall be arranged to hold said skylights closed or some other equally simple approved device for opening them may be provided There shall be provided immediately under the glass of said skylight a wire netting or the skylight may be glazed with wire-glass All that portion of the stage not comprised in the working of scenery traps and other mechanical apparatus for the presentation of a scene usually equal to the width of the proscenium opening shall be built of iron or steel beams filled in between with fire-proof materials and all girders for the support of said beams shall be wrought-iron or rolled steel The fly-galleries entire including pin rails shall be constructed of iron or steel and the floor of said galleries shall be composed of iron or steel beams filled with fire-proof materials and no wood boards or sleepers shall be used as a covering over beams but the said floors shall be entirely fire-proof The rigging loft shall be fire-proof except the floor covering the same All stages scenery curtains and decorations made of combustible material and all woodwork on or about the stage shall be saturated with some non-combustible material or otherwise rendered safe against fire to the satisfaction of the Bureau of Fire and all such stage scenery shall be raised and lowered without the use of counterweights unless such counterweights are so situated that they operate against the wall and do not overhang the stage The roof over the auditorium and the entire main floor of the auditorium and vestibule also the entire floor of the second story of the front superstruction over the entrance lobby and corridors and all galleries in the auditorium shall be constructed of iron or steel and fire-proof materials not excluding the use of wooden floor boards and necessary sleepers to fasten the same to but such sleepers shall not mean timbers of support The fronts of each gallery shall be formed of fire-proof materials excepting the capping which may be made of wood The ceiling under each gallery shall be entirely formed of fire-proof material The ceiling of the auditorium shall be formed of fire-proof materials All lathing wherever used shall be of metal The partition in that portion of the building which contains the auditorium the entrance vestibule and every room and passage devoted to the use of the audience shall be constructed of fire-proof materials including the furring of outside of other wall None of the walls or ceiling shall be covered with wood sheathing canvas or any other combustible material but this shall not exclude the use of wood wainscoting to a height not to exceed six feet which shall be filled in solid between the wainscoting and the wall with fire-proof materials The wall separating the actors' dressing rooms from the stage and the partitions of every passageway from the same to the stage and all other partitions on or about the stage shall be contructed of fire-proof material approved by the Bureau of Building Inspection All doors in any of said partitions shall be of iron or of wood constructed as hereinbefore described All the shelving and cupboards in each and every dressing room property-room or other storage-rooms shall be constructed of metal slate or some fire-proof material Dressing rooms may be placed in the fly galleries Provided That proper exits are secured therefrom to the fire escapes in the open courts and that the partitions and other matters pertaining to dressing rooms shall conform to the requirements herein contained but the stairs leading to the same shall be fire-proof All seats in the auditorium excepting those contained in the boxes shall be firmly secured to the floor and no seat in the auditorium shall have more than six seats intervening between it and an aisle on either side and no stool or seats shall be placed in any aisle All platforms in galleries formed to receive the seats shall not be more than twenty-one inches in height of riser nor less than thirty inches in width of platform All aisles on the respective floors in the auditorium having seats on both sides of same shall not be less than three feet wide where they begin and shall be increased in width towards the exits in the ratio of one and one-half inches to five running feet Aisles having seats on one side only shall not be less than two feet wide at their beginning and increasing in width the same as aisles having seats on both sides The aggregate capacity of the foyers lobbies corridors passages and rooms for the use of the audience not including aisle space between seats shall on each floor gallery be sufficient to contain the entire number to be accommodated on said floor or gallery in the ratio of one hundred and fifty superficial feet of floor room for every one hundred persons Gradients or inclined planes shall be employed instead of steps where possible to overcome slight difference of level in or between aisles corridors and passages Every theatre accommodating three hundred persons shall have at least two exits When accommodating five hundred persons at least three exits shall be provided these exits not referring to or including the exits to the open court at the sides of the theatre Doorways of exit or entrance for the use of the public shall not be less than five feet in width and for every additional one hundred persons or portion thereof to be accommodated in excess of five hundred an aggregate of twenty inches additional exit must be allowed These doorways or exit and of entrance may be in the said front altogether or in the case of a theatre having also an exit and entrance directly to and from another street through a way or passage covered or otherwise the width of one-third of that of the widest part of the auditorium or assembly hall some of the said doorways may be made therein to such extent as said entrance or passage will accommodate the same All doors of exit or entrance shall open outwardly and be hung to swing in such manner as not to become an obstruction in a passage or corridor and no such doors shall be closed and locked during any representation or when the building is open to the public Distinct and separate places of exit and entrance shall be provided for each gallery above the first A common place of exit and entrance may serve for the main and one-half inches wide in a straight stairs In circular or winding stairs the width of the treads at the narrowest end shall not be less than seven inches Where the seating capacity is for more than one thousand people there shall be at least two independent staircases with direct exterior outlets provided for each gallery in the auditorium where there are not more than two galleries and the same shall be located on opposite sides of said gallery Where there are more than two galleries one or more additional staircases shall be provided the outlets from which shall communicate directly with the principal exit or other exterior outlets All said staircases shall be of width proportioned to the seating capacity as elsewhere herein described Where the seating capacity is for one thousand people or less two direct lines of staircase only shall be required located on opposite sides of the galleries and in both cases shall extend from the sidewalk level to the upper gallery with outlets for each gallery to each of said staircases At least two independent staircases with direct exterior outlets shall also be provided for the service of the stage and shall be located on the opposite side of the same All inside stairways leading to the upper galleries of the auditorium shall be inclosed on both sides with walls of fire-proof materials Stairs leading to the first or lower gallery may be left open on one side in which case they must be constructed as herein provided for a similar stairs leading from the entrance hall to the main floor of the auditorium but in no case shall stairs leading to any gallery be left open on both sides When straight stairs return directly on themselves a landing of the full width of both flights without any steps shall be provided Stairs turning at an angle shall have a proper landing without winders introduced at said turn In stairs when two side flights connect with one main flight no winders shall be introduced and the width of the main flight shall be at least equal to the aggregate width of the said flights Circular or winding stairs shall have proper landings introduced at convenient distances All inclosed staircases shall have on both sides string handrails firmly secured in the wall about three inches therefrom and about three feet above the stairs but said handrail shall not run on level platforms and landings where the same is more in length than the width of the stairs All staircases six feet and over in width shall be provided with a centre handrail of hard wood or metal not less than two inches in diameter placed at a height of about three feet above the centre of the treads and supported on wrought-iron or brass standards of sufficient strength placed no farther than four feet apart and securely bolted to the treads or risers of stairs or both and at the head of each flight of stairs on each landing the post or standard shall be at least six feet in height to which the rail shall be secured Every steam boiler which may be required for heating or other purposes shall be located outside of the building and the space allotted to the same shall be inclosed by walls of masonry on all sides and the ceiling of such space shall be constructed of fire-proof material All doorways in said walls shall have iron doors No floor-register for heating shall be permitted No coil or radiator shall be placed in any aisle or passageway used as an exit where it forms an obstruction but all said coils and radiators shall be placed in recesses formed in the wall or partition to receive the same All supply return or exhaust pipes shall be properly incased and protected where passing through floors or near woodwork Standpipes of two and one-half inches in diameter shall be provided with hose attachments on every floor and gallery as follows namely One on each side of the auditorium in each tier also one on each side of the stage in each tier and at least one in the property-room and one in the carpenter shop if the same be contiguous to the building All such standpipes shall be kept clear from obstruction Said standpipes shall be separate and distinct receiving their supply of water from the steam pump and shall be fitted with the regulation couplings of the fire department and shall be kept constantly filled with water by means of an automatic steam pump or pumps of sufficient capacity to supply all the lines of hose when operated simultaneously and said pump or pumps shall be supplied from the street main and be ready for immediate use at all times during a performance in said buildings A separate and distinct system of automatic sprinklers with fusable plugs approved by the Bureau of Fire supplied with water from a tank located on the roof of the stage and not connected in any manner with the standpipes shall be placed up and around the proscenium opening and on the ceiling or roof over the stage at such intervals as will protect every square foot of stage surface when said sprinklers are in operation Automatic sprinklers shall also be placed wherever practicable under the stage and in the carpenter's shop paint-room store-rooms and property rooms A proper and sufficient quantity of two and one-half inch hose fitted with the regulation couplings of the fire department and with nozzles attached thereto and with hose spanners at each outlet shall always be kept attached to each hose attachment There shall also be kept in readiness for immediate use on the stage at least four casks full of water and two buckets to each cask Said casks and buckets shall be painted red There shall also be provided hand pumps or other portable fire extinguishing apparatus and at least four axes and two twenty-five feet hooks two fifteen-feet hooks and two The title of the bill was read as follows and agreed to:

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

An Act to amend an act entitled "An Act defining and regulating public amusements and places used therefor requiring and regulating the licensing thereof restricting the scope of certain acts of Assembly relating thereto and providng penalties for violation of this act" approved the twentieth day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirteen by further defining and regulating such amusements and places and the licensing thereof

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 798, entitled:

An Act to legalize the erection construction and alteration of certain buildings in actual use on or before May twentieth one thousand nine hundred and thirteen for exhibitions of which moving pictures formed the whole or moving pictures formed a part and vaudeville acts in some or all of which stage scenery and apparatus were employed formed a part.

The preamble of the bill was read as follows:

Whereas for many years prior to July eighteenth one thousand nine hundred and twelve it was commonly supposed by the local authorities throughout this Commonwealth that buildings designed for exhibitions of which moving pictures formed the whole or moving pictures formed a part and vaudeville acts in some or all of which stage scenery and apparatus were employed formed a part constituted moving picture houses and did not come within the building laws or the tax laws of the Commonwealth relative to theatres or buildings intended for theatrical or operatic purposes or for public entertainments of any kind where stage scenery and apparatus are employed

And whereas Acting on this supposition permits were granted for the erection construction and alteration of such buildings by such local authorities without requiring them to conform in their construction to such building laws and licenses were granted for their operation year after year without requiring them to conform to such license laws in consequence of which action on the part of the local authorities many hundreds of thousands of dollars have been invested in erecting constructing and altering buildings for such exhibitions in accordance with the laws deemed applicable thereto as aforesaid

And whereas By a decision of the Superior Court on July eighteenth one thousand nine hundred and twelve it was adjudged that such exhibitions were theatrical exhibitions and the buildings in which they were given were theatres

And whereas The logical result of this adjudication would have been the compulsory closing of these buildings and the consequent loss of the large investments made therein in good faith with the sanction and approval of the local authorities as aforesaid

And whereas To prevent this injustice and consequent destruction of tax paying property of great value an act was approved May twentieth one thousand nine hundred and thirteen by which it was intended that the provisions of the building laws relative to buildings intended for theatrical or operatic purposes or for public entertainments of any kind where stage scenery and apparatus are employed should be held not to apply to buildings of the character above mentioned

And whereas Said provision has been held to be unconstitutional because the acts amended thereby were referred to by title only and were not re-enacted and published at length

And whereas In consequence of this decision there is imminent danger that the injustice designed to be prevented by the Legislature of one thousand nine hundred and thirteen will be visited upon persons who have invested in good faith in buildings of the kind above mentioned therefore

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the preamble?

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, I move to amend the preamble in line 7 by striking out "secenry" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "scenery".

Mr. GERBERICH: Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the preamble as amended?

It was agreed to.

The first and second sections of the bill were read as follows and agreed to:

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That all buildings erected constructed or altered prior to May twentieth one thousand nine hundred and thirteen and in actual use on or before that date for exhibitions of which moving pictures formed the whole or moving pictures formed a part and vaudeville acts in some or all of which stage scenery and apparatus were employed formed a part hereby are declared to be lawfully erected constructed and altered and in lawful use for such exhibitions nothwithstanding that the said buildings do not conform to the laws of this Commonwealth relative to buildings intended for theatrical or operatic purposes or for public entertainments of any kind where stage scenery and apparatus are employed provided that nothing herein contained shall excuse or dispense with the payment by the owner or owners lessee or lessees of such buildings of the license fee payable by the laws of this Commonwealth to the city or county treasurer of any city or county in which such buildings are situated to the use of the Commonwealth

Section 2 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same hereby are repealed

The House met at 10:00 o'clock A. M.

The SPEAKER (Charles A. Ambler) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. F. W. Staley, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, we thank Thee that Thou are omnipotent, Thou dost hold the seas in the hollow of Thy hand and Thou dost say unto the mighty oceans "Thus far shalt thou go and no farther." Thou art omnicient; Thou knowest the thought in every mind, the secret in every heart and the influence of every deed. Thou hast founded governments and preserved nations and individuals. Thou hast said "Righteousness exalteth a nation but sin is a reproach to any people." Amidst it all Thou dost bow down Thine ear to hear our prayer and we pray Thee this morning that Thou wilt hear our prayer as we pray for the Governor of this Commonwealth. Help him to bear his responsibility and may he be successful in all his undertakings. Bless the Speaker; give him a cheerful heart and a ready mind to preside over this House. Bless the membership of this House. May good fellowship and harmony exist throughout this entire session, making this session one of the most successful of any legislation in the history of this old Keystone State. We ask for Christ's sake, Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings when, on motion of Mr. Fruit, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal was approved.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. HABGOOD. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section 1 as follows: On line 13, strike out the last syllable thereon and all words thereafter in the section beginning with the word "including" and ending with the word "trains" on line 17.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Habgood.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Habgood, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HABGOOD. Certainly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BALDWIN. I would like to ask the gentleman if it is not a fact that if this amendment be inserted in the bill, it entirely destroys the effect of the act?

Mr. HABGOOD. Mr. Speaker, if I would give my own opinion, it would not be worth very much on that point, because I am not an attorney. I only introduced this amendment after advice with a great, able and competent judge of this State, a lawyer who is general counsel of one of the leading railroads, which is one of the five in this combination of railroads, and they cannot see where it is necessary to put in this particular reference after the general repealer is in. If this is a bill to refer this matter to the Public Service Commission, then we believe that our amendment should be put in. If this is a bill simply to repeal the Full Crew Act, then we believe that our amendment should be voted down. We are in favor of referring it to the Public Service Commission.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I have also taken this subject up very carefully with attorneys. I say to the House that where a bill is repealed in full, it is always so far as I can find the practice to use the language contained in this act. The words "hereby repeal" refer to the acts that might be in conflict with the proposed proposition or act—I want to make myself clear to the House—the language that my friend from McKean, desires to strike out, especially what is known as the Full Crew Act of 1911, feels that the general repealer or the language, used as a general repealer, is sufficient and it is unnecessary to specify particularly the Act of 1911. It appears to me that the constitutional requirement that where you repeal an act in full you must either recite the act or the title of the specific act. If my friend from McKean will examine the act which is supposed to repeal the provisions of the Act of 1911, the language is identical with the language in this act, as there is a general repealer of all parts of acts that are inconsistent with this act. Further along it specifies particularly the complete sections which it repeals entirely in the particular act. Now, if my friend from McKean is right, in holding that the general repealer is all that is necessary then the specific repealer does not change the situation in the least. If my friend from McKean is wrong in holding that a general repealer is all that is necessary to dispose of the act of 1911, then the act fails and is of no consequence, after the House passes it, if it should pass it. This language is used for the purpose of leaving no doubt as to the intent of the Legislature in case it should pass this bill. The result is identical. There is no difference. My friend from McKean simply feels that his amendment takes out what is superfluous in the bill. In my judgment it is a mistake. It is vital that it should stay in, and I hope that the members of the House will allow the main repealer to remain, because if you examine the statutes you will find that it is the practice of all careful attorneys who draw statutes, and I hope the House will not accept the amendment.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The title of the bill was read and agreed to as follows:

An Act to empower the Public Service Commission to require railroad corporations to employ an adequate number of men upon trains and to repeal an act entitled "An Act to promote the safety of travelers and employes upon railroads by compelling common carriers by railroad to properly man their trains" approved the nineteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven

The fifth sub-district shall consist of the sixth fifteenth eighteenth and twenty-second wards of the city

The sixth sub-district shall consist of the fourth fifth fourteenth and twenty-first wards of the city

The seventh sub-district shall consist of the borough of Dunmore

Section 2 The poor board of said Scranton poor district hereafter designated in this act as the board shall consist of seven qualified electors one from each of said sub-districts who shall be elected as follows

At the municipal election to be held in November one thousand nine hundred and fifteen there shall be elected from each of the seven sub-districts by the qualified electors thereof one qualified elector of each sub-district to represent such sub-district on the board The persons elected as directors in the first third fifth and seventh districts shall serve for the term of two years and until their successors are duly qualified

The persons elected directors in the second fourth and sixth districts shall serve for the term of four years and until their successors are duly qualified

At every succeeding municipal election an election shall be held in the proper sub-districts to fill the vacancies in the office of director for the proper district Those so elected shall serve for the term of four years

Section 3 Any vacancy occurring in the board shall be filled for the unexpired term by a majority vote of the remaining members of the board by the selection of a duly qualified elector from the proper sub-district

The fourth section was read as follows:

Section 4 Each of the members of the board shall receive an annual compensation of twelve hundred dollars ($1,200) payable quarterly

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. EHRHARDT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section 4, line 460, by striking out the words "twelve hundred" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "one thousand"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. DAWSON. Mr. Speaker, I object to that amendment.

Mr. EHRHARDT. Mr. Speaker, this bill, making elective the poor directors of the Scranton and Dunmore poor districts instead of appointive as they now are, is not favorable to the people of that district; but if it has got to pass to make them elective we desire to put it in the most unobjectionable form to the tax payers of that district by making the salary one thousand dollars as it now is under the appointive system. That is all the amendment seeks to do.

Mr. DAWSON. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, this particular bill has been in committee for several months and it seems strange to me that my colleague from Lackawanna did not see fit to present such an amendment or suggest it to this committee during that time. We had two hearings on this bill and it was reported out with one dissenting vote, that of my colleague, Mr. Ehrhardt.

Now gentlemen we have been trying to get this bill on the floor of the House for twenty-six years. They have managed to kill it in committee all this time. The people want an elective poor board. They do not want a poor board consisting of seven members appointed by the President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas. We believe the people should select these poor board members and we do not consider twelve hundred dollars a year too much to pay them. This amendment to reduce the salary to one thousand dollars is but a subterfuge to send the bill back to the Senate again. Now gentlemen I ask you to vote this amendment down. Twelve hundred dollars is not too much to pay the members of the poor board in a city the size of Scranton, and this affects only the poor district of the City of Scranton and therefore, gentlemen, I ask you to vote this amendment down.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was not agreed to.

The fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, tenth, eleventh, twelfth, thirteenth, fourteenth, fifteenth, sixteenth, seventeenth, eighteenth, nineteenth, twentieth, twenty-first, twenty-second, twenty-third and twenty-fourth sections and title were separately read and agreed to as follows:

Section 17 The board may bind out as apprentice any poor child under its care whose parents are dead or unable to support it Such binding out shall be done in the same manner and under the same restrictions as are or may be prescribed by law

Section 18 The board shall exercise the same power and authority over all real and personal estate of any poor person removed to such home as is or may hereafter be by law vested in overseers of the poor

Section 19 Except by a majority vote of the board no person shall be discharged from the home unless on the request of such persons or on the refusal of such persons to perform such labor or service allotted to or required of such person

Section 20 The board shall cause to be prepared immediately after the first of January in each year a statement showing

(1) An itemized list of receipts during the preceding year

(2) An itemized list of expenditures during the preceding year

(3) An itemized list of all exonerations granted during the preceding year

(4) The income from all real estate during the preceding year

(5) The amount and kind of personal property belonging to the district then on hand

(6) The number of persons to whom outdoor relief has been given during the year giving the age sex and birth place of such persons

(7) The number of person admitted to the home during the year the number discharged the number of persons who have died in the home and the number in the home at the end of the year This statement shall include the age sex birth place and the sub-district from which each person shall have come

This statement shall thereupon be published once a week for three successive weeks in two daily newspapers of said district having a general circulation in such district

Section 21 The court of common pleas of Lackawanna county shall on the first Monday of January one thousand nine hundred and sixteen appoint three competent electors of the district to constitute a board of auditors One of said auditors shall be an elector of the borough of Dunmore The court shall designate one of such auditors to serve for one year one for two years and one for three years Annually thereafter said court shall appoint one competent elector of the district to serve as auditor for three years The board of auditors shall meet on the second Monday of January in each year or oftener if thereto required and examine and audit all the accounts of the said poor board and make a report thereof Such report shall be sworn to and subscribed by the auditors before any alderman justice of the peace or notary public of the district Each auditor shall receive the sum of five dollars ($5.00) for each day necessarily employed by him in the performance of his duties This compensation shall be paid out of the funds of the district If any auditor shall fail or refuse to perform any of the duties herein prescribed his office shall by the other auditors be declared vacant Any vacancy occurring in the office of auditor shall be filled by the court on the petition of the remaining auditors Each auditor before assuming the duties of his office shall take the oath or affirmation prescribed by the Constitution of this Commonwealth

Section 22 The board or the treasurer thereof or any tax-payer of the district may within thirty days after the annual settlement of the auditors appeal from such settlement to the said court in the same manner and under the same regulations as appeals from settlements of township auditors are now allowed

Section 23 The present offices of directors of the poor of Scranton poor district are hereby abolished on the first Monday of January one thousand nine hundred and sixteen at which time they shall turn over to such elected board all real and personal property of the present Scranton poor district

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section one of the act approved the twenty-first day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and thirteen entitled "An Act providing for the return of taxes on seated lands in counties poor districts boroughs incorporated towns and townships for county poor borough town or township taxes respectively and providing for the sale of such lands for taxes" which reads as follows

"Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That return of taxes assessed by the authorities of any county poor district borough incorporated town or township against seated lands in such county poor district borough town or township shall be made whenever personal property cannot be found thereon sufficient to pay such taxes in the same manner and at the same time that return is now made for unpaid county taxes on unseated lands and whenever any such tax against said lands in any such county poor district borough town or township shall not be paid within two years after the date of the assessment thereof such seated lands in counties poor districts boroughs towns or townships shall be advertised and sold by the proper county treasurer at the time and in the same manner and under the same conditions and with the same effect as unseated lands are now sold by such treasurer for unpaid county taxes" is hereby amended so as to read

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That return of taxes assessed by the authorities of any county school district borough incorporated town or township against seated lands shall be made whenever personal property cannot be found thereon sufficient to pay such taxes Whenever any such taxes are not paid within two years after the date of the assessment such seated lands shall be advertised and sold by the county treasurer at the time and in the manner and with the same conditions and effect as unseated lands

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1227 (Senate Bill No. 549), entitled:

An Act to fix salary of court criers and tipstaves in judicial districts containing more than two hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants and less than one million inhabitants

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

RESOLUTION RECALLING HOUSE BILL NO. 513 FROM THE GOVERNOR.

Mr. FRUIT offered the following resolution, which was read, considered and agreed to.

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That House Bill No. 513, entitled:

An Act relating to the satisfaction of mortgages under power of attorney directed to the recorder of deeds be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEE.

Mr. ADAMS asked and received unanimous consent to report a bill from committee at this time:

Mr. ADAMS, from the Committee on Military, reported as committed, House Bill No. 1297, entitled:

An Act authorizing the use of State armories for certain purposes.

Mr. HABGOOD asked and received unanimous consent to report a bill from committee at this time:

Mr. HABGOOD, from the Committee on Military, reported as committed, House Bill No. 1274, entitled:

An Act permitting and regulating the use of the several armory buildings of the National Guards of Pennsylvania for horticultural and poultry exhibitions.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. BERNTHEIZEL. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. BERNTHEIZEL. Mr. Speaker, I see at this moment for the first time in a Philadelphia morning paper, that I, together with the two gentlemen from Delaware, am recorded as voting against the workmen's compensation bills last night. I hesitate very much to disassociate myself from otherwise congenial company, but I did not vote against those bills last night. Paraphrazing the celebrated words used by the gentlemen from Berks, "the world will little care nor long remember" how I voted on these bills, but the world is not my constituents. I feel that the good people of the second district of Lancaster County will very long remember and very much care how I voted. I voted for the bills. The fault may have been mine in that I did not exhibit sufficient enthusiasm to make my voice carry to the desk, but I voted aye on all the bills.

The SPEAKER. The Chief Clerk will announce how the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Berntheizel, voted on the Workmen's Compensation Bills.

The CHIEF CLERK. On Bill No. 929 Mr. Berntheizel is recorded as voting aye; on Bill No. 930 as voting aye; on Bill No. 931 as voting aye; on Bill No. 932 as voting aye; on Bill No. 933 as voting aye; on Bill No. 934 as voting aye, and on Bill No. 935 as voting aye.

Mr. BERNTHEIZEL. Mr. Speaker, I regret now that I did not consult with the Clerk as to how I was recorded as voting. I just picked up a Philadelphia morning paper and glancing at it saw my name recorded as voting no, and hastened to get right on the record.

The SPEAKER. It was probably an error of the printer.

RESOLUTION RECALLING HOUSE BILL NO. 95 FROM THE GOVERNOR.

Mr. BAUERLE offered the following resolution, which was read, considered and agreed to:

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That House Bill No. 95, entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the twenty-fourth day of February one thousand eight hundred thirty-four entitled "An Act relating to executors and administrators" as amended be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

RESOLUTION RECALLING HOUSE BILL NO. 247 FROM THE GOVERNOR.

Mr. LAUER offered the following resolution, which was read, considered and agreed to:

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That House Bill No. 247, entitled:

An Act amending an act entitled "An Act amending an act entitled 'An act respecting the estate of non-resident wards' approved the twenty-first day of April Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and fifty-six extending the provisions thereof so that the same may apply to trustees and cestui que trusts" approved the thirteenth day of May Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine further extending the provisions thereof so that the same may apply where guardians and wards trustees and cestui que trusts are residents of foreign countries

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1123, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Commissioner of Health to accept a private donation or private donations for the purpose of erecting a Union Chapel at Tuberculosis Sanatorium Number three located at Hamburg in this Commonwealth and further authorizing said Commissioner of Health after receiving such donation or donations for such purpose to erect or cause to be erected on the said Sanatorium property a suitable building for such purpose under plans and specifications to be approved by the Governor of this Commonwealth and the said Commissioner of Health

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to insert an amendment to this bill at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend section 2, line 6 by striking out the word "specifictaions" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "specifications"

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendment as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment will be inserted according to the instruction of the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1026, entitled:

An Act providing for the examination licensure and registration of persons engaged or engaging in the business or work of barbering in cities of this Commonwealth and prescribing certain rules regulations and requirements therefor and imposing fines penalties and forfeitures in violation thereof

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. HOWARTH. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to insert amendments to this bill at this time.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The amendments were then read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Section 3, line 13 by striking out the word "crtificates" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "certificates"

Amend Section 10, line 3 by inserting after the word "may" the words "upon the payment of a fee of one dollar"

Amend Section 14, lines 4 and 5 by striking out the words "is absolutely" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "shall be"

Amend Section 14 by adding at the end thereof the following "The annual license fee shall be one dollar"

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendments will be inserted in accordance to the instruction of the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1078 (Senate Bill No. 422), entitled:

An Act to fix the salary of the first assistant clerk of the orphans court in counties having a population of not less than eight hundred thousand and not more than one million five hundred thousand

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, the salary of the first assistant clerk of the Orphan's Court, according to this bill, shall be $4,500 a year. That looks like a very heavy salary for the assistant clerk of the Orphan's Court. The present salary is $3,500 a year, and I think that is sufficient.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to answer the gentleman whose knowledge extends to all things, in his own opinion, but in practice not as far as he thinks. I happen to know the clerk of the Orphan's Court whose salary is here involved and am familiar with his duties, and while I respect my friend from Allegheny who knows all things, I have an equal respect for the clerk of the Orphan's Court of our County and desire to say that all the judges of the Orphan's Court, the Register of Wills, and practically every judge in our Common Pleas have asked, as a personal favor, I may almost say, that this bill pass, for the reason that the clerk of the Orphan's Court of Allegheny County has been doing this work for the last twenty-five years at the same salary as he is now receiving. During the last twenty-five years his duties have at least doubled and possibly tripled, to say nothing of the increased cost of living and the increased efficiency brought about by the experience of that clerk.

However, my friend from Allegheny, without any knowledge of the facts, opposes this bill, which is simply in line with the other obstructive measures and policies he seems to pursue here. Notwithstanding the able argument of my friend to the contrary, I hope the members of this House will give this bill a unanimous vote.

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, I would like, in reply to my colleague, from Allegheny to say to him, with all due respect, that I don't claim to know everything, but I do know that the taxpayers of Allegheny County have us come here to look after the interests of this Commonwealth and we are here to look after the interests of the taxpayers. I wish to say, in addition, that any piece of legislation that comes down here to create a new position or increase the salary of an office holder, goes through this House like greased lightning. I have heard the Chaplain of this House get up before us and pray for this Commonwealth. Notwithstanding all that a great many members come here and try to prey on the taxpayers of this Commonwealth. I say that we are here in the interests of the taxpayers to whom we owe a duty.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1101, entitled:

An Act fixing the salaries of county controllers in all counties having a population exceeding one hundred and fifty thousand and not exceeding two hundred and fifty thousand

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WEAVER. Mr. Speaker, I understood the bill was to be amended at least to leave our county out, at least is that the arrangement? I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Reynolds.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. REYNOLDS. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WEAVER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia whether it is his purpose or the purpose of the people who are responsible for this bill to have it amended so as to leave Westmoreland County out?

Mr REYNOLDS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to say to the gentleman that I have the amendments now ready to offer, and will do so if he will permit me.

Mr. REYNOLDS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendments as follows:

Amend the title by striking from the third line the word "fifty" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "twenty-five."

Amend Section 1, line 6, by striking out the word "fifty" and inserting in lieu thereof "twenty-five."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendments as read? Is there any objection?

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. OAKS. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, this looks to me like a very unfair proposition. Westmoreland county has a population of two hundred and thirty-one thousand. Cambria county has a population of 166,000 and this amendment is put in to eliminate Westmoreland county as far as this goes, and it is a very unfair proposition, because Cambria county is just as much opposed to this bill as Westmoreland county, and I do not want Cambria county in this amendment, for there is nothing fair about it. If there is, I want to know it. I think it is a very unfair proposition.

Mr. REYNOLDS. Mr. Speaker, we have endeavored to include every county that could be possibly included in this bill, but if we included every county we would have to introduce a bill that would practically cover each county and would necessitate seven or eight bills. I have had a number of gentlemen from the various counties call upon me, some asking that they be excluded; some asking that they be included, and it has been impossible for me to get an act that would cover all the counties. Now, that is the only objection to the bill in the entire House. Every county represented in this House wants that bill passed. I ask the gentlemen in the House in favor of this amendment to vote "aye," because every county except Westmoreland wants it.

Mr. OAKS. Mr. Speaker, I absolutely object. In fact, I object to the whole bill but I do object to this amendment. Now, you gentlemen of the House know that this is not a fair proposition inasmuch as one of the largest counties is left out of the bill. We passed a bill last night in this House classifying the counties of this State for the purpose of regulating salaries et cetera. Now here we have a bill gives a larger salary to the smaller counties. There is nothing fair about it.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objections to the amendment.

Mr. BARNETT. Mr. Speaker, it has been repeatedly charged that the chief business of the Legislature of the State of Pennsylvania has been to multiply offices and increase salaries. A number of bills of this character have been offered in this legislature, which seem to give added foundation for that charge. This is an item on the same line right at this time. I, in part, represent the county of York. That county, while it may not be immediately affected by this bill if passed, is right on the border line and would very soon be included in this class. What our county controller receives at this time, I am not sure, but I think it is about twenty-five hundred dollars, less than half of what this bill would provide. What was the result at our last election? Why men were fairly falling over each other to get this office; by the dozens running after the office at a small salary-less than one-half what this would call for—and the calibre of the men who were applying was such that if they were working for themselves in any other legitimate line of business they could not make one thousand dollars a year; and yet if they are hunting for a job and they cannot make money working for themselves, they are worth six thousand dollars working for the public. Now, that has been repeated over and over in various ways throughout the State of Pennsylvania. I do not believe that we ought to do business that way. We ought to spend other people's money like we would spend our money. We ought to transact the business of the public like we would transact business for ourselves individually. If we were running a business, we would employ men according to the labor to be performed and their capacity for performing that labor, and we would not offer to any clerk six thousand dollars a year if we could fill his place just as well, and have dozens of men applying for it, at twelve hundred dollars. We would not do business that way and the legislature of the State of Pennsylvania ought not to do it. This will affect a few counties of the State. A majority of the members here come from other counties that would not be affected at all by this measure, and when we go to legislating for other people and spending other peoples money we ought to do it cautiously and with care and with business-like tact.

Mr. OAKS. Mr. Speaker, in the first place I would like to know what interest it is to Mr. Reynolds of Philadelphia to introduce a bill of this kind, inasmuch as he is in the City of Philadelphia and this affects eight or nine counties, I understand, in this State. We have some most accommodating fellows in the State that want to come out here and pass legislation affecting us country fellows, they preach home rule and things like that and yet they want to have legislation passed that will affect us when they are not concerned in the least. I do not think it is a fair proposition the whole way through, and I am still opposed to the amendment.

Mr. WEAVER. Mr. Speaker, I do not want the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Oaks, to imagine for one minute that I have asked for this amendment for the purpose of taking any undue advantage of Cambria or any other county. There are seven counties included in this classification. As I remember them they are Berks, Cambria, Fayette, Lancaster, Montgomery, Schuylkill and Westmoreland. Westmoreland is the biggest county in this classification, having a population of 231,304. Now by leaving Westmoreland out, of course, it makes the case no harder for Cambria or any other county. I do not claim for one minute that Westmoreland has any more right for immunity in this case than any other of the counties named. The only reason I ask whether or not the amendment was to be offered was because I thought I had such an arrangement with Mr. Hess, who I believe to be the real sponsor for this bill, for I have been told by that gentleman that in his county they have a very capable controller, and he honestly believes the man is entitled to a salary of six thousand dollars. That is as I understand the matter, although I am told by my friend on the left that the controller in Lancaster County is dead and perhaps they are to appoint or elect another—I don't know about that or care about it, except I am sorry if the man is dead. But what I do mean to say is that in Westmoreland county bankers have been controllers and have been almost continuously with one exception possibly since the office was created in that county. The controller does not spend one-third of his time in the office of the controller. His office is run by the deputy and by the clerk, with a solicitor at a salary of twelve hundred dollars. Now the salary as it now stands for the whole office is seven thousand nine hundred dollars. If this increase is added it will be a matter of nine thousand nine hundred dollars, almost ten thousand dollars, and there is no use in the world for the increase. The man is President of the Westmoreland National Bank and he will continue to be that. He will run the bank and he will come over to the Controller's Office on an average of one hour a day and sometimes not even that, and he gets his salary of four thousand dollars and after he has gone his way the chances are that some other banker in the borough of Greensburg will be elected controller and he will do just as the present Controller is doing. Now why should this additional burden be placed on the County? There is no use. A controller is more or less of a figure head, in a great many ways, outside the way that he fills the duties or functions of the former County Auditors, he has very little to do. In our county the commissioners and commissioner's clerk do nine-tenths of the work that is done and I am opposed to the passage of the bill on that account. If the gentlemen from the other counties are satisfied and will allow the amendment to stand and leave Westmoreland out we will not need to weep over their troubles. You may have them, if you choose, but I do object to bringing Westmoreland County into this, although Westmoreland County is the largest county affected. I sincerely hope that the legislature will see its way clear to leave us out of the provisions of this bill.

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, while this bill does not concern me personally as a resident of Allegheny County, it does concern me when I look at the Commonwealth at large. It has been stated to me on several occasions that I am getting in bad because I have opposed the creation of unnecessary positions and the unreasonable boosting of salaries. I want to say to the gentlemen of the House that I have been honest and sincere in every action I have taken in the House. There is nothing personal in this matter at all. Just to show you, in less than twenty-four hours you beat three bills for me. Did I get sore and try and go around and try to beat some other fellow's bills? Most certainly not. You can beat every bit of legislation I present to the House and I will come up smiling, regardless of the man who presents the bill. In fact, I have such a high regard for the gentlemen of this House that I am going to spend five dollars for a picture of the whole House and take it home with me and find a place in my home to hang it up. If you remember, two weeks ago—

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Cromer.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Cromer, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, he will.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman whether he bought the photograph because the rest of us were honored or because he was honored?

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, I want to say that I take a very poor picture and I did not try to get my own picture. I have plenty of pictures of myself and very seldom look in the glass.

Will the gentleman hear me further, just a moment? If you will remember, two weeks ago the gentleman from Cambria opposed a bill raising the salary of these gentlemen or had a bill, or presented a bill reducing the salary of these gentlemen from four thousand to twenty-five hundred dollars. Previous to 1911 I believe this position paid from fifteen to eighteen hundred dollars. By Act of Assembly they were raised to four thousand dollars. This bill of the gentleman from Cambria was defeated and the salary was left alone at four thousand dollars. Now we come along and boost the amount up to six thousand dollars. I think I will have to give up my business of manufacturing and move into one of these rural counties and get one of these positions.

The SPEAKER. The amendment being objected to, the question is,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, this bill affects seven counties in the State. Now the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Weaver, has just told the House that in his county the position of County Controller is a sinecure and that the officer or man filling the place is simply a figure-head. Those of us representing other counties that would be affected by this legislation feel that if up in Westmoreland County they could afford to have as their County Controller a man who was a mere figure-head and regard the office in the light of a sinecure, then we would be perfectly willing to amend the bill so as to let them out; but in the remaining counties that are going to be affected by this bill—and I speak with certain knowledge when I refer to my own county—this officer is not a figure-head. The County Controller in our county is one of the, if not the, most important officer in the county because he reviews all the business done and he is the watch dog at the gate of the treasury, as the result of which we feel that it is only right that his salary should be on a par with the remaining county officers and that is what this bill does. It simply places the salary in counties of this population, affecting only seven counties, on a par with the other county officers. His service is the most valuable of any of the county officers and why should he not have the same salary? I trust the gentlemen will vote for this bill.

Mr. WEAVER. Mr. Speaker, if I concede that the office in Lancaster County is not a sinecure, I still insist that four thousand dollars is plenty as a salary for the duties performed even if the man is the watch dog of the treasury. The Register of Wills gets four thousand; the Recorder of Deeds gets four thousand; the Clerk of the Court of Quarter Sessions gets four thousand; and why in the name of common sense should the Controller of the County get more than them when it is not necessary for him to be there all the time? The District Attorney in our county also gets four thousand dollars. We have two offices, that of Prothonotary and that of Sheriff, in which the salary is each six thousand dollars; and I say to you that the Prothonotary in our county and in every county where there is anything like the amount of business done in ours, does more work in six months or at least in one year of his term than the Controller does in the whole term for which he is elected; and if I concede the whole matter to be true, as the gentleman has stated, that the office is not a sinecure, that it is one absolutely necessary to be filled by a man of care and tact and ability, four thousand dollars is still a reasonable pay and emolument for all that he does.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Speaker.

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 241, entitled:

An Act to repeal an act approved the fifth day of March one thousand nine hundred and six entitled "An Act to provide for the personal registration of electors in cities of the third class of this Commonwealth to make such registration a condition of the right to vote in such cities and to provide penalties for violation of its provisions"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. GLENN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Habgood, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HABGOOD. Certainly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GLENN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if this bill wipes out entirely the registration in third class cities?

Mr. HABGOOD. Mr. Speaker, this bill simply provides that the personal registration of voters in the small cities of the State should not be required further and puts it where it was previously, and where it was in boroughs, many of which are larger than some of the third class cities of the State.

Mr. GLENN. Mr. Speaker, the registration in third class cities was passed in 1906 in response to a large demand all over the State on the part of these smaller cities, and the gentleman from McKean now proposes to wipe out entirely those registration laws. The registration laws in third class cities are practically the same as in first and second class cities. I think it would be a very serious mistake to wipe these laws off the books, which would tend to throw us back to the old system of corrupt elections. I therefore ask you to vote this bill down.

Mr. HABGOOD. Mr. Speaker, I desire to say that I have no personal interest in this bill whatever, as an individual voter or as an individual citizen. It is no difficuty for me, going by as I do three or four times a day, the place for personal registration, on my way to my home or my business. I can step in and register, but I want to call the attention of the members of this House to this condition. It is necessary under the bill requiring personal registration in the smaller cities of the State, for every voter of every party, regardless of where he may live, or what his duties may be, to personally go before the registration officer and answer a number of hypothetical questions and personally make his registration in order to be allowed to vote . His taxes may be paid, his residence fully qualified and his judgment and integrity above reproach, yet he will be disfranchised if he does not go personally to this particular spot on this particular day, within certain hours and answer certain hypothetical questions.

Now, gentlemen, on the basis of protecting the purity of the ballot, on the basis of securing a just and proper expression of the voters at the polls, I yield to no man in a desire to safeguard that in every particular. But I also come as a representative from a third class city and ask you if you think that in any of the third class cities of this State that there is a possibility of anything maintaining as we have in the larger cities of this State. When this bill was passed in 1906 it was done not with a demand from the third class cities, but it was done simply to let the bill pass to put the third class cities in with Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, so as not to reflect seemingly upon the cities of any class, but to put them all in to gether and let us try it. Now it has been tried and there is a general demand, so far as my city is concerned, from people of all parties that this bill be repealed, and in other third class cities. A gentleman in this House who represents the largest third class city in this State said to me this morning that he does not believe there is any possibility of any stuffing of ballot boxes, or any irregularities in the voting in the third class cities in this State. In the smaller cities we know each other personally. It is through no fault of yours, in the large cities, but under the very fundamentals of your social organizations there, you cannot and do not know, as we do in the smaller cities. In our country the oil men go out for miles to drill wells and pump for oil and otherwise carry on the duties of men who work in that district. It is necessary under this bill, if it is not repealed for them to pay their fare to come to Bradford and personally go and register, or they are disfranchised.

Now, I submit to you gentlemen, is that fair? I believe that while the safety and honesty of the ballot should be protected, yet I believe the inherent right of suffrage given to every man in this State under the Constitution, and by the government under the Constitution, should be protected so that there will be no possibility of snap judgment or technicality whereby a man will be disfranchised simply because, with all other things being just as good fundamentally for his qualifications for voting as though he did go to that particular place, that he should be disfranchised simply because he does not feel that he can spend four or five dollars to go to a particular spot on that particular day, leaving his work and answer hypothetical questions, or be disfranchised.

I hope you gentlemen who do not live in third class cities will not allow any thought to come into your minds but the question as to whether it is necessary, in these smaller cities, to put this bill as it is. It does in some cases permit those who might be in a special way, organized, or in any other way, to get men to the polls, when other men are not going there because of the expense, or the lack of desire to spend their money. I stand here and ask you to vote for this bill, not for the benefit of any one party but for all parties, that they may be permitted to vote if their taxes are paid and if their residence is correct, regardless of whether they go to a particular place before a particular man and answer hypothetical questions, when it is not necessary in this way to protect the sanctity of the ballot, in third class cities, where we all know one another and we know whether he has a right to vote in that particular precinct, which is never very large in itself.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I just wish to second the remarks of the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Habgood. I believe all the people of the cities of the third class are heartily in favor of the repeal of the personal registration laws for these cities. I think it is a great nuisance and I believe if it is repealed everybody will be satisfied.

Mr. WILLIAM W. JONES. Mr. Speaker, as a representative of a third class city ,I desire to protest against the repeal of this act. It is necessary to have personal registration. It is not a hardship for anybody to go to the polls on any one of the three days. If he cannot go he can get a certificate from the Commissioner's office and be registered. It is no trouble to have that at all. The only thing that is necessary is to have the taxes paid. And that is the trouble they don't want to have their taxes paid and vote. I ask the members of this House to continue that law on the books of the State. It is a good law and we ought to have it.

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, as a representative of Berks, and living on the outskirts of the City of Reading, one of the largest of the third class cities of this State, I wish to say that our people are in favor of this bill. They think there is entirely too much red tape connected with this registration business and the people of the city of Reading almost unanimously are in favor of this bill. I hope that it will be passed.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

Shall the bill pass finally?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1178, entitled:

An Act to repeal the act approved the seventh day of June one thousand nine hundred seven entitled "An Act to prevent physicians and surgeons from testifying in civil cases to communications made to them by their patients except in civil cases brought by their patients for damages on account of personal injuries

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. HUBLER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 553, entitled:

An Act to provide for the safety of persons employed in and about the anthracite coal mines of this Commonwealth by providing that no person or persons shall be conveyed into or from the mines by way of perpendicular shafts except in cages of steel frame construction and fixing a penalty for violations thereof

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

PRESENT—1.

Garner.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

REASONS FOR VOTE.

Mr. GARNER. Mr. Speaker, my reasons for voting "present" on this and following labor bills affecting the anthracite miners are as follows:

Before the start of this Legislature I made it my business to find out what labor measures the miners desired. In accordance with their wishes I framed and introduced early in the sessions three labor acts earnestly desired by the miners of my district and intended introducing others. In order to facilitate the passage of these acts I endeavored to be appointed the Chairman of Committee on Mines and Mining. I failed in this, but was appointed the Chairman of the Committee on Labor and Industry. At my request the Speaker referred all my bills to my own Committee, I was therefore in a position to have them promptly reported to the House and have them acted upon.

I was waited upon by the three district boards of the U. M. W. of A. and requested that I do not allow any of my bills to come out of the Committee and the reason given was that they had "One Great Bill," namely, Senate Bill No. 160, in which they were interested in to the exclusion of all others, and that "no friend of Labor" would introduce any bills of his own until that bill was passed and signed. That they were afraid that if any smaller bills were introduced that they would interfere with the said "One Great Bill."

In view of this request I have held my own labor bills in my Committee without any action being taken on the same and have left them die. I do not feel it proper for me to vote upon the bill now before us or on any other labor bills not authorized by the Three District Boards.

A vote for any such bills might be construed as a denial of the request of said officers of the U. M. W. of A., upon whom I feel all the responsibility for labor legislation in this Legislature should rest, they having denied to the individual member the right of acting at his own discretion.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 945, entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the fifteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred eleven entitled "An Act requiring owners lessees or operators of bituminous coal or clay mines to furnish the owners or lessees of adjoining coal or clay lands with maps of the mines and workings along the division line of such coal or clay lands and permitting the owners or lessees of such adjoining coal or clay lands to enter such mines and make surveys and to verify the accuracy of such maps"

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to,
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STATLER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I wish to offer a few words in support of this measure. This amendment does not change the act, but it is intended to complete it. Under the act of 1911 it is provided that the adjoining landowner can request and require from the operator a map of the workings of the mine, he is also privileged to enter the mines and verify the correctness of the map, but if the operator does not wish to do so, there is no remery at hand. The act is simply like a command without a penalty or a prescription without a remedy, and this amendment is simply intended to supply this penalty or remedy, therefore I hope you will support this amendment.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1224 (Senate Bill No. 503), entitled:

An Act making mortgages given by benevolent charitable philanthropic educational and eleemosynary institutions corporations or unincorporated associations for permanent improvements and refunding purposes prior liens to the liens of the Commonwealth for the appropriation of moneys providing for a method for the giving of such mortgages and fixing the duties of the Auditor General and Board of Public Charities in connection therewith

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. MEARKLE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

Senate Bill No. 503.

House Bill No. 1224.

Amend section 3, by inserting in line 6, after the words "and proper" the following: "nor shall he approve the giving of any mortgage the amount whereof is in excess of fifty per centum of the fair market value of the property to be covered thereby."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendments as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendments will be inserted in accordance with the instruction of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 986 (Senate Bill No. 301), entitled:

An Act requiring justices of the peace and aldermen to file acceptance of office with the prothonotary of the proper county and requiring prothonotaries to certify such acceptance together with the election of justices and aldermen before commissions shall issue

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

TIME EXTENDED SENATE BILL NO. 161.

Mr. HABGOOD asked and obtained unanimous consent to offer a motion at this time, which was twice read, considered and agreed to, as follows:

Moved by Mr. Habgood, and seconded by Mr. Walters, that the time on House Bill No. 675 (Senate Bill No. 161), entitled:

"An Act relating to the acquisition and holding of property real and personal by any literary scientific educational religious charitable benevolent or beneficial society church congregation association or body whether incorporated or unincorporated or any trustee or trustees of any trust for charitable or benevolent objects or purposes and providing for the increase of such amount and a method of procedure for obtaining the right to such increase bills on final passage postponed, on page 16 of to-day's calendar, be extended five days.

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. WILLIAM W. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 1227 (Senate Bill No. 549), entitled:

An Act to fix the salary of court criers and tipstaves in judicial districts containing more than two hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants and less than one million inhabitants on page 20 of to-day's calendar, be recommitted to the Committee on Counties and Townships, for the purpose of amendment.

Mr. RINN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1158, as follows:

An Act designating the Tulip Poplar (Leriodendron Tulipifers) as the State flower of Pennsylvania

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the Tulip Poplar (Leriodendron Tulipifers) shall be the State flower or floral emblem of Pennsylvania

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Dunn, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the country and city gentleman whether or not he is in a position to state whether or not this bill will conflict in any way with the bill that suffered defeat,—the Laurel bill?

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I do not understand the gentleman's interrogation.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I will put the interrogation in other words. I would like to ask the country and city gentleman whether or not he is in a position to state whether or not the Myrtle bill will suffer the same defeat as the Laurel bill?

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, in regard to the question of my good friend from Luzerne, I would like to state that when he makes reference to the Myrtle bill I do not know to what he refers.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I should have said the Dunn bill, which has relation to the Myrtle as a State flower.

Mr. DUNN. Mr Speaker, in reply to that I would say that I do not know that there is any Myrtle bill before this House at the present time.

Mr. GEISER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Dunn.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DUNN. I will, Mr. Speaker, because I can sympathize with the gentleman.

Mr. GEISER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia whether or not the Myrtle is not known as the "graveyard" flower?

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, in reply to the gentleman, I would like to state that there is no Myrtle bill before the House at the present time.

Mr GEISER. Mr. Speaker, I was under the impression that the bill was No. 1158, File Folio 4595, on page 4 of today's calendar.

The SPEAKER. The bill under consideration is House Bill No. 1158, File Folio 4595, at the bottom of page 4 of today's calendar.

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Northampton.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Geiser, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GEISER. Certainly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. DUNN Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if he has read the bill?

Mr. GEISER. Mr. Speaker, I will be perfectly frank in saying that I have not even looked at it.

Mr. DUNN. Then, Mr. Speaker, the gentleman does not know what he is talking about.

Mr. GEISER. Mr. Speaker, I only wish to say, if I have the floor, and this is the Myrtle bill, and the Myrtle, as I understand it, is known as the "graveyard" flower, I think now is the time to bury it.

Mr. WOBENSMITH. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Dunn.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr Dunn, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DUNN. Certainly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOBENSMITH. Mr. Speaker, I notice that when this bill was introduced originally it called for the establishment of the Myrtle as the State flower. I now find that the Tulip Poplar is designated as the State flower. Now, my question is, is this not in conflict with Article 3, Section 1, of the State Constitution, which provides that no bill shall be so altered or amended on its passage through either House, as to change its original purpose.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Wobensmith, address his question to the Chair, or to Mr. Dunn?

Mr. WOBENSMITH. Mr. Speaker, I am addressing Mr. Dunn.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia Mr. Dunn, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I am always pleased to answer questions.

Mr. WALTER. I would like to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia, being a farmer, as well as an American citizen, whether or not it is true that the Myrtle is often called a noxious weed and is of great annoyance to the farmers of the State of Pennsylvania?

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Franklin.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is out of order.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. GEISER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to express my lack of knowledge on this bill. I see it has been amended and there has been inserted in its place the Tulip Poplar. Another flower is named in its place.

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, for the benefit of the members of this House, and not wishing to make this bill one that will probably be laughed down, I want to speak for the name of the flower which the bill contains, and I read the words of a man of authority, Mr. Harvey M. Watts, of the Philadelphia Ledger:

TULIP POPLAR.

If Pennsylvania really wants a State flower and since it has no conspicuous plant or bloom peculiar to itself which it does not share with adjacent State, there is nothing that is more worthy of the State, to represent it in all magnificence, than our own American Tulip Poplar Tree the famous Liriodendron Tulipifers or as the word means the Tulip—bearing Lily Tree—a remarkable tree, one of the noblest in the American woods, which is a distinct feature of Pennsylvania forests and clearings. It is not only beautiful for itself alone, but bears a bloom as gorgeous as any Tulip and is unique in its leafage and in its manner of growth,—tall, stately and even in the winter time en silhouette without its foliage, holding up its cone-like fruit on its evenly spreading branches like giant candelabra against the grazing skies.

The Tulip poplar would be characteristic of Pennsylvania. No other State has usurped it and as an emblem its possibilities are tremendous. In Europe it is viewed as peculiarly American. Its leaf, owing to its flat top with a depression in the centre aroused the criticism of Ruskin when he was speaking on the elements of beauty in natural form because of all the leaves in the vegetable kingdom the leaves of the American Lily tree were not pointed like a Gothic Arch. That settled it with Ruskin who could see nothing but Gothic in Art, Architecture or Nature.

I want to speak further in regard to the Tulip Tree and from no less authority than Professor John W. Harshberger, Professor of Botany in the University of Pennsylvania. He gives here fifteen reasons why we should adopt this as a State Flower which I will read:

"The tulip tree (Liriodendron tulipifera), of the magnolia family, has the strongest claims to be made the State Flower of Pennsylvania, for the following good reasons:

First. It is one of the most ancient trees of our flora, having come down to us from Miocene times. In fact, it is found in the fossil state.

Second. It lends itself in the form of its flowers, fruits and leaves to easy conventionalization for artistic purposes.

Third. It is an important timber tree of our State.

Fourth. It reaches lordly proportions, and is a fit emblem of the State, one of the greatest and richest of American Commonwealths.

Fifth. It is in flower on Memorial, or Decoration Day, when we wish to commemorate with floral emblems the brave deeds of our soldiers in the late Civil War.

Sixth. No other State or nation has adopted it.

Seventh. It is peculiarly an Eastern, and entirely an American tree, and is one of the forest giants of our State.

Eighth. The leaf resembles a keystone in shape, the keystone being symbolical of our State in the archway of the 13 original States.

Ninth. The leaf is also roughly shield-shaped, like one of our national emblems.

Tenth. The flowers and fruits are beautiful in themselves and suitable for household decoration in the fresh state.

Eleventh. In autumn the leaves turn a magnificient yellow color, and the tree in the autumn condition, is one of the glories of our forests.

Twelfth. The structure of the flowers and fruits is unique among trees.

Thirteenth. The buds are unusual in their structure and form one of the most interesting studies in their stage of opening among our native forest trees.

Fourteenth. The tree is suitable for planting along our streets, and it would be the very finest tree to plant on both sides of the proposed national highway across our State from east to west. In the next generation, if so planted, such an avenue of tulip trees from, say, Philadelphia to Pittsburgh, would rival the famous avenue of Cryptomeria trees on the way to the shrine of Nikko, in Japan, or the celebrated avenue of linden trees in Berlin, or the avenue of royal palm trees in Rio Janeiro, Brazil.

Fifteenth. It is a tree, whose claim as the State floral emblem, is supported by a majority of the professional botantists of the State and by tree lovers and nature lovers aware of its claims."

That is the question as it is presented by one of the great Professors of Botany in the University of Pennsylvania and the flower which I want to present to you as the State Flower, as it has been pictured before you here showing a Pennsylvania flower from a Pennsylvania tree.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL PLACED ON CALENDAR.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to move that House Bill No. 662, File Folio 3185, entitled:

An Act to protect all persons in their equal rights regardless of race color or creed in places of public accommodation entertainment or amusement and providing penalty for violation of the same formerly on the postponed calendar on third reading be restored to its place on the calendar.

Mr. LAULER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, I make this motion for the reason that last Thursday which was the final day for its consideration, as the gentlemen of the House probably know, I was with the Appropriation Committee at Pittsburgh, actually engaged in public business, and failed at that time to have the necessary extension noted on the record. I desire, therefore, to ask the indulgence of the Speaker and my colleagues to permit this bill to be replaced in its position on the calendar.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Gompers,
Hollern,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 575, as follows:

An Act relating to and regulating the employment of persons in compressed air work

DEFINITIONS

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the term "pressure" when used in this act means gauge pressure in pounds per square inch

(2) The term "employer" when used in this act includes individuals co-partnerships associations and corporations

SAFETY OF EMPLOYES

Section 2 Every tunnel caisson compartment or place to which this act applies shall be so constructed equipped arranged operated and conducted as to provide such protection to the lives' health and safety of all persons employed therein as the nature of the employment will reasonably permit

EQUIPMENT FOR WORK IN COMPRESSED AIR

Section 3 Every employer carrying on any work in the prosecution of which persons are employed in compressed air shall

(1) Provide and install gauges in each tunnel for showing the air pressure to which the persons so employed therein are subjected Such gauges shall be accessible at all times during working hours to all employes in the tunnels

(2) Provide and attach gauges to each caisson for showing the air pressure to which the persons so employed therein or subjected and employed a competent person who may be the lock tender to take charge of such gauges and of the instruments required under subdivision three of this section The person so employed shall not be permitted to work more than eight hours in any twenty-four hours

(3) Provide and attach an air gauge and a time piece to each air lock Such gauge and time piece shall be accessible to the lock tender at all times

(4) Keep at least two air pipes or lines connected with each tunnel caisson compartment or place in which persons are so employed

(5) Provide a suitable iron ladder for the entire length of every shaft used in connection with such work

(6) Keep every passageway used in connection with such work clear and properly lighted

(7) Provide sufficient electric lights for all lighting purposes and provide a wire for lighting the shaft which wire shall be separated from the wire used for lighting the place where the employes are at work in compressed air all electric wires shall be properly insulated

(8) Provide for the use of all persons so employed dressing rooms which shall be kept open and accessible during working hours and during the intervals between working periods and also a separate room for drying clothes The dressing rooms shall contain benches and individual lockers shower baths with hot and cold water and sanitary water closets and shall be kept properly heated lighted and ventilated

(9) If the maximum air pressure in such work exceeds seventeen pounds provide and maintain at least one double compartment hospital lock Such lock shall be at least six feet high inside measurement and be suitably floored it shall be equipped with inside and outside air gauges and time pieces and a telephone with proper connections and shall contain benches and proper surgical and medical equipment it shall be properly heated lighted and ventilated

SUSPENSION OF CAISSONS

Section 4 No caisson in which persons are employed in compressed air shall while work is in progress therein be suspended or hung so that the bottom of the excavation is more than four feet below the cutting edge of the caisson

INSPECTION

Section 5 Every employer carrying on any work in the prosecution of which persons are employed in compressed air shall cause all engines boilers steam pipes steam gauges drill caissons air pipes air gauges air locks dynamos electric wiring signal apparatus brakes buckets hoists cables chains ropes ladders ways tracks sides roofs timbers supports and all other equipment apparatus and appliances used in connection with such work to be inspected at least once every working day by a competent person especially designated for that purpose and if any defect in such equipment apparatus or appliances is found a report thereof in writing shall forthwith be made by the inspector to the employer and the defect shall be immediately repaired

MEDICAL ATTENDANCE AND NURSES

Section 6 Every employer carrying on any work in the prosecution of which persons are employed in compressed air shall

(1) Employ one or more licensed physicians as medical officers who shall be present to render medical assistance at all necessary times at the place where such work is in progress and who shall perform such other duties as are imposed on them by this act

(2) If the maximum air pressure in such work exceeds seventeen pounds employ one or more registered nurses or one or more competent persons which persons shall be selected by the medical officer and be certified by him to be competent by actual experience to handle cases of compressed air illness The nurses or persons so employed shall have charge of the hospital lock provided for in this act and may also have other duties of a clerical nature exclusive of timekeeping such as will not require their presence elsewhere than at the hospital lock and such as they may leave at any time their service at the lock is necessary

EMPLOYMENT OF CERTAIN PERSONS PROHIBITED

Section 7 No person known to be addicted to the excessive use of intoxicants shall be employed or permitted to work in compressed air

PHYSICAL EXAMINATIONS

Section 8 (1) No person shall be employed or permitted work in compressed air until he has been examined by the medical officer and found to be physically qualified therefor

(2) No person who has not previously worked in compressed air shall during the first twenty-four hours of his employment be permitted to work therein longer than one working period as provided in section ten and he shall not be permitted to resume such work if the air pressure exceeds fifteen pounds until he has been re-examined by the medical officer and found to be physically qualified therefor

(3) No person who is employed in compressed air but who has been absent therefrom for ten or more consecutive days for any cause shall be permitted to resume such work until he has been re-examined by the medical officer and found to be physically qualified therefor

(4) No person who has been employed regularly in compressed air for three months shall be permitted to continue such work until he has been re-examined by the medical officer and found to be physically qualified therefor

RECORD OF PHYSICAL EXAMINATIONS

Section 9 The medical officer shall keep a record of all physical examinations made in accord with section eight which record shall be kept at the place where the work is in progress and shall contain the name age address and full description of each person examined the date on which each examination was made and the physical condition on that date of the person examined and the total time such person has worked in compressed air including time in previous employments The employer shall also be responsible for the observance of this section

HOURS OF LABOR

Section 10 When the air pressure in any tunnel caisson compartment or place in which persons are employed exceeds normal but does not exceed fifty pound the maximum number of hours which in any twenty-four hours a person may be employed or permitted to work or remain therein shall be as hereafter stated In every case the maximum number of hours shall be divided into two working periods of equal length and the minumum time interval which shall elapse between such working periods shall be as hereafter stated

When the air pressure exceeds normal but does not exceed twenty-one pounds number of hours in twenty-four eight interval between working periods thirty minutes

When the air pressure exceeds twenty-one but does not exceed thirty pounds number of hours in twenty-four six interval between working periods one hour

When the air pressure exceeds thirty but does not exceed thirty-five pounds number of hours in twenty-four four interval between working period two hours

When the air pressure exceeds thirty-five but does not exceed forty pounds number of hours in twenty-four three interval between working periods three hours

When the air pressure exceeds forty but does not exceed forty-five pounds number of hours in twenty-four two interval between working periods four hours

When the air pressure exceeds forty-five but does not exceed fifty pounds number of hours in twenty-four one and one-half interval between working periods five hours

Except in cases of emergency no person shall be employed or permitted to work or remain in any tunnel caisson compartment or place where air pressure exceeds fifty pounds

RATE AND TIME OF DECOMPRESSION

Section 11 No person shall be permitted to pass from any tunnel caisson compartment or place where he has been employed in compressed air to atmosphere or normal pressure without passing through an intermediate lock or stage of decompression When the employe is passing from a tunnel to atmosphere of normal pressure the rate of decompression shall be three pounds every two minutes except when the air pressure in the tunnel exceeds thirty-six pounds in which case the rate of decompression shall be one pound every minute When the employe is passing from a caisson compartment or place to atmosphere or normal pressure the time of decompression shall be as follows

When the pressure in a caisson compartment or place exceeds normal but does not exceed ten pounds time of decompression one minute

When the pressure in a caisson compartment or place exceeds ten but does not exceed fifteen pounds time of decompression two minutes

When the pressure in a caisson compartment or place exceeds fifteen but does not exceed twenty pounds time of decompression five minutes

When the pressure in a caisson compartment or place exceeds twenty pounds but does not exceed twenty-five pounds time of decompression ten minutes

When the pressure in a caisson compartment or place exceeds twenty-five pounds but does not exceed thirty pounds time of decompression twelve minutes

When the pressure in a caisson compartment or place exceeds thirty but does not exceed thirty-six pounds time of decompression fifteen minutes

When the pressure in a caisson compartment or place exceeds thirty-six but does not exceed forty pounds time of decompression twenty minutes

When the pressure in a caisson compartment or place exceeds forty but does not exceed fifty pounds time of decompression twenty-five minutes

ENFORCEMENT

Section 12 The Commissioner of Labor and Industry shall enforce this act In enforcing this act any employe or agent of the Department of Labor and Industry specially authorized in writing may at any time enter any place of employment covered by this act for purposes of inspection It shall be unlawful to hinder or prevent such employe or agent in the performance of his duties under this act

PENALTIES

Section 13 Every person who directly or indirectly violates or fails to comply with any provisions of this act is liable to a penalty of fifty dollars for the first offense one hundred dollars for the second offense and three hundred dollars for the third and each subsequent offense Such penalties shall be recovered as debts of like amount are recoverable in action to be brought for the use of the Commonwealth by or under the direction of the Commissioner of Labor and Industry

TIME OF TAKING EFFECT

Section 14 This act shall take effect on the first day of January one thousand nine hundred and sixteen

On the question

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. POWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Maurer.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Maurer permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAURER. Mr. Speaker, yes sir.

Mr. POWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman whether this bill applies to compressed air in coal mines?

Mr. MAURER. Mr. Speaker, I will answer the gentleman by saying that the bill before you does not apply in any way to coal mines; it does not apply to people operating compressed air machinery ;it does not apply to machinery operated by compressed air. The bill only applies to people working under pressure, or working in compressed air. The bill may seem strange to some, because this State has up to the present time done practically no, or very little, compressed air work, but it is a foregone conclusion that we will before many years pass by no one can tell just when we will be doing such work, where men will be employed under pressure such as the digging of the tubes at New York and other tunnel work. These men work under pressure ranging from ten to fifty pounds. Were a man suddenly to leave a chamber working under fifty pounds, and come out into atmospheric pressure it would kill him; or should a man suddenly leave atmospheric pressure and go into high pressure, it would kill him; or should a man not of sound health be employed at that kind of work it would prove fatal. This bill before you is almost an exact duplicate of the law of New York and New Jersey where tunnel work has been done.

The bill has been brought before the Department of Labor and Industry for their inspection and they have agreed to the provisions of the bill and encourage its passage.

We also had it before Mr. Roderick of the Department of Mines and Mining and he likewise approved of the bill and said just yesterday that it properly belonged to the Department of Labor and Industry and hoped that it would pass.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Maurer.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Maurer permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAURER. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if the provisions of this bill are not within the scope of the Public Utilities Commission

Mr. MAURER. Mr. Speaker, they are not. The Public Utilities Commission would be at a loss to know how to act. Those of you who have read this bill will know that it means to the contractor what a foot-rule or a yardstick means to the mechanic. It is a gauge by which they can work and understand how to do this kind of work. It cost considerable loss of property and life before this rule was worked out, and it is therefore desirable on the part of the Department of Labor and Industry if they have to apply the rule in this State, or if they are called upon to inspect that kind of work. The Public Service Commission would be at a loss to know how to act if they were called upon to make a rule on this kind of work. They would have to go to New York or New Jersey and get it there They would have to have what is now before you before they could act and before they could make a ruling.

On the question recurring.

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—1.

Herman,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 437, as follows:

An Act to amend an act entitled "An Act to limit the duration upon real estate of the debts of decedents including the expenses of the settlement of the estate and to provide under what conditions the lien may be continued" approved the third day of May one thousand nine hundred and nine so as to restrict the revival of judgment liens by the death of the debtor to real estate still owned by said decedent at the date of his death

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section three of an act entitled "An Act to limit the duration upon real estate of the debts of decedents including the expenses of the settlement of the estate and to provide under what conditions the lien may be continued" approved the third day of May one thousand nine hundred and nine which reads as follows

"Section 3 All judgments which at the time of the death of a decedent shall be a lien on his real estate shall continue to bind such real estate during the term of five years from his death although such judgments be not revived by scire facias or otherwise after his death and such judgments shall during such term rank according to their priority at the time of such death and after the expiration of such term such judgments shall not continue a lien on the real estate of such decedent unless revived by scire facias or otherwise according to the laws regulating the revival of judgments" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 3 All judgments which at the time of the death of a decedent shall be a lien on real estate owned by said decedent at the time of his death or on real estate which shall have been conveyed by deed not duly recorded during his lifetime shall continue to bind such real estate during the term of five years from his death although such judgments be not revived by scire facias or otherwise after his death and such judgments shall during such term rank according to their priority at the time of such death and after the expiration of such term such judgments shall not continue a lien on the real estate of such decedent unless revived by scire facias or otherwise according to the laws regulating the revival of judgments

Any judgment against such decedent which may be a lien upon real estate sold or aliened by such decedent during his life may be revived by writ of scire facias according to law and for the purpose of any such revival the writ of scire facias may be issued in the name of such decedent with the same force and effect as if it were issued in the name of his executors administrators or legal representatives but before any judgment shall be entered thereon the legal representatives shall be made parties defendant and a scire facias shall be served on such legal representatives.

Section 2 Section five of the said act which reads as follows

"Section 5 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 5 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the said act and of this amendment thereto including the act of Assembly approved the eighteenth day of June one thousand eight hundred ninety-five (Pamphlet Laws one hundred ninety-seven) entitled "A supplement to an act entitled 'An Act relating to executors and administrators' approved the twenty-fourth day of February one thousand eight hundred and thirty-four relating to the lien of judgments against decedents" and section twenty-five of the act approved the twenty-fourth day of February one thousand eight hundred thirty-four entitled "An Act relating to executors and administrators" be and the same are hereby repealed

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

An Act to amend an act approved the twenty-first day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (Pamphlet Laws two hundred and eighty-three) entitled "An Act to amend section eighteen of an act approved the twenty-eighth day of April one thousand eight hundred ninety-nine entitled 'An Act to provide for the classification of the townships of the Commonwealth with respect to their population into two classes and to prescribe the form of government for townships of each class'"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the sponsor of this bill give us some explanation as to its provisions.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny desires to interrogate the gentleman from Chester, Mr. Whitaker. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WHITAKER. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker. The purpose of this act is very simple and plain. It is merely to authorize the re-election of a township treasurer.

The present act prohibits townships treasurers succeeding themselves, and the association of tax collectors and townships treasurers of the State have considered this subject, along with a number of others in connection with their duties, and they desire to have the power to succeed themselves in the office. That is all there is in this bill.

On the question recurring.

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—1.

Brownlee,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1239, entitled:

An Act to enable city county poor ward school borough and township tax collectors their executors and administrators if they are deceased or either surety or sureties if the surety or sureties have paid the taxes to collect taxes for the payment of which they have become personally liable without having collected the same by the expiration of the authority of their respective bonds or by the expiration of the authority of their respective warrants or by the expiration of their terms of office and to extend the time for the collection of the same for a period of two years from the passage of this act.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. FRUIT. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to insert an amendment to this bill at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend section 1, line 18, by striking out the word "agaisnt" and insert in lieu thereof the word "against."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendment as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment will be inserted according to the instruction of the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 180, entitled:

An Act to give additional protection to wild birds and animals and game within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania prohibiting the hunting for or capture or killing of such wild birds or animals or game by unnaturalized foreign-born residents forbidding the ownership or possession of dogs by any unnaturalized foreign-born resident within the Commonwealth and prescribing penalties for violation of its provisions.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1143, entitled:

An Act to provide for certain appointments in the Executive Department fixing the salaries thereof and abolishing certain offices

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BAKER. Mr. Speaker I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Chester, Mr. Whitaker.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Chester, Mr. Whitaker, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WHITAKER. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BAKER. Will the gentleman tell the House how many employes are already provided for in the department?

Mr. WHITAKER. Mr. Speaker the present organization of the office of the Governor, includes, besides the Private Secretary, nine clerks, an Executive clerk, an assistant executive clerk, a stenographer, a commission clerk a messenger, a watchman a page, and two janitors. The total salaries amount to $9,600.00.

Mr. BAKER. That is by the proposed measure?

Mr. WHITAKER. Mr. Speaker, no, that is the present law, and those are the salaries paid the present clerks in the executive department. The bill which is now before the House provides for only seven officers, instead of nine, and the total salaries amount to $10,400.00, an increase of only $800.00. That is the only change that is made, a total increase of $800.00 in the Executive Department. The principal change that is made is due to an increase of the salary for the Executive Clerk who now receives $1,500.00 and the bill provides a salary of $3,000.00 for him.

Any of you gentlemen knowing the man who occupies that position will readily agree that his services are worth a great deal more than fifteen hundred dollars and he could not be obtained if it were not anticipated that he would receive more than fifteen hundred dollars as he left a position in the Secretary of the Commonwealth's office where he received twenty-five hundred dollars. The former Executive Clerk, who received fifteen hundred dollars, was at the same time a member of the Water Commission and received an extra salary of four thousand dollars, which made it very easy for him to occupy that position at fifteen hundred dollars. The present man does not have that extra salary from the Water Commission and deserves a reasonable salary which this bill provides; but in the sum total the present bill increases the expenses of the Executive Department only eight hundred dollars.

Mr. BAKER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Chester permit himself to be further interrogated.

Mr. WHITAKER. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BAKER. Now, Mr. Speaker, will any of these proposed appointees receive salaries from any other department?

Mr. WHITAKER. Mr. Speaker, this bill has nothing to do with dual office holders and I do not think that question arises at this time. However, my personal views are that it is against the policy of the administration to undertake dual office holding. I think the gentleman from Washington need not concern himself about that feature at this time.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas anu nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Legislative Journal.

Session 1915 121st of the General Assembly

VOL. 3. HARRISBURG, PA., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 14, 1915. No. 42.

SENATE.

WEDNESDAY, April 14, 1915.

The Senate met at 11 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Frank B. McClain) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. Thomas W. Davis, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, we thank Thee for this beautiful morning and for the rest of the night. We pray Thee that looking over our past lives those things that please us and give encouragement and cheer to our conscience may be emphasized in the days that are to come in our activities Grant that we may be regulated very largely in what we shall do and what we shall say by what has been commended in our lives in the past, and may we avoid those things that give condemnation. Help us at all times to endeavor to have a conscience void of offense both toward God and man. Direct this body in all the proceedings of the day. May we live to Thy glory and the good of our fellows, we ask in our Saviour's name. Amen.

The PRESIDENT—A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. HOMSHER, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

"Section 49 Every building hereafter erected or altered to be used as a theatre opera house or other building intended for theatrical or operatic purposes or for public entertainments of any kind where stage scenery and apparatus are employed shall be built to comply with the requirements of this section but all theatres or places of amusement now existing may be altered providing such alteration does not amount to a virtual reconstruction thereof so as to make it a new building No building which at the time of the passage of this act is not in actual use for theatrical or operatic purposes and no building hereafter erected not in conformity with the requirements of this section shall be used for theatrical or operatic purposes or for public entertainments of any kind where stage scenery and apparatus are employed until the same shall have been made to conform to the requirements of this section and no building hereinbefore described shall be opened to the public for theatrical or operatic purposes or for public entertainment of any kind where stage scenery or apparatus are employed until the Bureau of Building Inspection and the Bureau of Fire respectively shall have approved the same in writing as conforming to the requirements of this section and the mayors of the said cities shall refuse to issue any license for any such building and shall close the same and prevent its opening until a certificate in writing of such approval shall have been given by the Bureau of Building Inspection and the Bureau of Fire respectively Every such building shall have at least one front on the street which front shall be as wide as the widest part of the auditorium or assembly hall and in such front there shall be suitable means of entrance and exit for the audience unless there shall also be a way or passage leading directly from the auditorium to another street in which case the means of entrance and exit by such way or passage shall be taken into consideration to such extent as they shall furnish entrances and exits and if they shall be of sufficient width to meet the requirements of this act there need be no means of entrance or exit in front saving by the side courts hereafter stipulated for Any building located on a street having a width thereon as wide as the widest part of the auditorium or assembly hall shall be considered as having a front on said street within the meaning of this act if in addition thereto there shall be a way or passage leading from said theatre to another street which way or passage shall be of a width not less than one-third of the width of the widest part of said auditorium or assembly hall In addition to the aforesaid entrances and exists on the street there shall be reserved for service in case of an emergency an open court or space on the side not bordering on the street where said building is located on a corner lot and on both sides of said building where there is but one frontage on the street The width of such open court or courts shall not be less than seven feet where the seating capacity is not over one thousand people above one thousand nor more than eighteen hundred people eight feet in width and above eighteen hundred people ten feet in width Said open court or courts if there be not in addition to the front as aforesaid on one street a way or passage of the width aforesaid leading into another street shall begin on a line with or near the proscenium wall and shall extend the length of the auditorium proper to or near the wall separating the same from the entrance lobby or vestibule and the said open court or a separate and distinct corridor from each open court shall continue to the street through such superstructure as may be built on the street side of the auditorium with continuous walls of brick or fireproof materials on each side of the entire length of said corridor or corridors and the ceilings and floors shall be fireproof If there be in addition to the front on a street a way or passage of the width aforesaid leading into another street then it will be sufficient if said open court or courts shall extend along the auditorium on each side thereof to said front on said street on which the theatre shall be located Said corridor or corridors shall not be reduced in width except by the thickness of the outer walls and there shall be no representation or when the building is open to the public Distinct and separate places of exit and entrance shall be provided for each gallery above the first A common place of exit and entrance may serve for the main floor of the auditorium and the first gallery provided its capacity be equal to the aggregate capacity of the outlets from the main floor and said gallery No passage leading to any stairway communicating with any entrance or exit shall be less than four feet in width in any part thereof All stairs within the building shall be constructed of fire-proof material throughout Stairways serving for the exit of fifty people must if straight be at least four feet wide between railing or between walls and if curved or winding five feet wide and for every additional fifty people to be accommodated six inches must be added to their width In no case shall the risers of any stairs exceed seven and one-half inches in height nor shall the treads exclusive of the nosings be less than ten and one-half inches wide in a straight stairs In circular or winding stairs the width of the treads at the narrowest end shall not be less than seven inches Where the seating capacity is for more than one thousand people there shall be at least two independent staircases with direct exterior outlets provided for each gallery in the auditorium where there are not more than two galleries and the same shall be located on opposite sides of said gallery Where there are more than two galleries one or more additional staircases shall be provided the outlets from which shall communicate directly with the principal exit or other exterior outlets All said staircases shall be of width proportioned to the seating capacity as elsewhere herein described Where the seating capacity is for one thousand people or less two direct lines of staircase only shall be required located on opposite sides of the galleries and in both cases shall extend from the sidewalk level to the upper gallery with outlets for each gallery to each of said staircases At least two independent staircases with direct exterior outlets shall also be provided for the service of the stage and shall be located on the opposite side of the same All inside stairways leading to the upper galleries of the auditorium shall be inclosed on both sides with walls of fire-proof materials Stairs leading to the first or lower gallery may be left open on one side in which case they must be constructed as herein provided for a similar stairs leading from the entrance hall to the main floor of the auditorium but in no case shall stairs leading to any gallery be left open on both sides When straight stairs return directly on themselves a landing of the full width of both flights without any steps shall be provided Stairs turning at an angle shall have a proper landing without winders introduced at said turn In stairs when two side flights connect with one main flight no winders shall be introduced and the width of the main flight shall be at least equal to the aggregate width of the side flights Circular or winding stairs shall have proper landings introduced at convenient distances All inclosed staircases shall have on both sides string handrails firmly secured in the wall about three inches therefrom and about three feet above the stairs but said handrail shall not run on level platforms and landings where the same is more in length than the width of the stairs All staircases six feet and over in width shall be provided with a centre handrail of hard wood or metal not less than two inches in diameter placed at a height of about three feet above the centre of the treads and supported on wrought-iron or brass standards of sufficient strength placed no farther than four feet apart and securely bolted to the treads or risers of stairs or both and at the head of each flight of stairs on each landing the post or standard shall be at least six feet in height to which the rail shall be secured Every steam boiler which may be required for heating or other purposes shall be located outside of the building and the space allotted to the same shall be inclosed by walls of masonry on all sides and the ceiling of such space shall be constructed of fire-proof material All doorways in said walls shall have iron doors No floor-register for heating shall be permitted No coil or radiator shall be placed in any aisle or passageway used as an exit where it forms an obstruction but all said coils and radiators shall be placed in recesses formed in the wall or partition to receive the same All supply return or exhaust pipes shall be properly incased and protected where passing through floors or near woodwork Standpipes of two and one-half inches in diameter shall be provided with hose attachments on every floor and gallery as follows namely One on each side of the auditorium in each tier also one on each side of the stage in each tier and at least one in the property-room and one in the carpenter shop if the same be contiguous to the building All such standpipes shall be kept clear from obstruction Said standpipes shall be separate and distinct receiving their supply of water from the steam pump and shall be fitted with the regulation couplings of the fire department and shall be kept constantly filled with water by means of an automatic steam pump or pumps of sufficient capacity to supply all the lines of hose when operated simultaneously and said pump or pumps shall be supplied from the street main and be ready for immediate use at all times during a performance in said buildings A separate and distinct system of automatic sprinklers with fusable plugs approved by the Bureau of Fire supplied with water from a tank located on the roof of the stage and not connected in any manner with the standpipes shall be placed up and around the proscenium opening and on the ceiling or roof over the stage at such intervals as will protect every square foot of stage surface when said sprinklers are in operation Automatic sprinklers shall also be placed wherever practicable under the stage and in the carpenter's shop paint-room store-rooms and property rooms A proper and sufficient quantity of two and one-half inch hose fitted with the regulation couplings of the fire department and with nozzles attached thereto and with hose spanners at each outlet shall always be kept attached to each hose attachment There shall also be kept in readiness for immediate use on the stage at least four casks full of water and two buckets to each cask Said casks and buckets shall be painted red There shall also be provided hand pumps or other portable fire extinguishing apparatus and at least four axes and two twenty-five feet hooks two fifteen-feet hooks and two ten feet hooks on each tier or floor of the stage Every portion of the building devoted to the uses or accommodation of the public also all outlets leading to the streets and including the open courts and corridors shall be well and properly lighted during every performance and the same shall remain lighted until the entire audience has left the premises At least two or more oil lamps on each side of the auditorium in each tier shall be provided on fixed brackets not less than seven feet above the floor Said lamps shall be filled with whale or lard oil and shall be kept lighted during each performance or in place of said lamps candles shall be provided All gas or electric lights in the halls corridors lobby or any other part of the said buildings used by the audience except the auditorium must be controlled by a separate shut-off located in the lobby and controlled only in that particular place Gas mains supplying the buildings shall have independent connections for the auditorium and the stage and provisions shall be made for shutting off the gas from the outside of the building When the interior gas lights are not lighted by electricity other suitable appliances approved by the Bureau of Fire shall be provided All suspended or bracket lights surrounded by glass in the auditorium or in any part of the building devoted to the public shall be provided with proper wire netting underneath No gas or electric light shall be inserted in the walls woodwork ceilings or in any part of the building unless protected with fire-proof materials All lights in passages and corridors in said building and wherever deemed necessary by the bureau of fire shall be protected by proper wire network The footlights in addition to the wire network shall be protected by strong wire guard not less than two feet distant from said footlights and the trough containing said footlights shall be formed of and surrounded by fire-proof materials All stage lights shall be incandescent electric lights where the current can be obtained and shall be constructed according to the best known methods and subject to the approval of the Bureau of Fire and shall be suspended for ten feet by wire rope All ducts or shafts use for conducting heated air from the main chandelier or from any other light or lights shall be constructed of metal and made double with an air space between All stages lights shall have strong metal wire guards or screens not less than ten inches in diameter so constructed that any material in contact therewith shall exit and entrance directly to and from another street through be out of reach of the flames of said stage lights and must be soldered to the fixtures in all cases The standpipes gas pipes electric wires hose footlights and all apparatus for extinguishing of fire or guarding against same as in this section specified shall be in charge and under the control of the bureau of fire department of public safety and said department is hereby directed to see that the arrangements in respect thereto are carried out and enforced and councils may by ordinance fix a reasonable compensation for such services A diagram or plan of each tier gallery or floor showing distinctly the exits therefrom shall be printed in a legible manner on the program of the performance Every exit shall have over the same on the inside the "exit" painted in legible letters not less than eight inches high It shall be within the power of the mayor after full report from the department of public safety to cause the closing up of any theatre opera house or public hall where in the judgment of the mayor and the department of public safety the ingress and egress are not reasonably safe for the safe and speedy exit of the audience in case of fire or panic" be amended so that said section shall hereafter read and be as follows

Section 49 Every building hereafter erected or altered to be used as a theatre opera house or other building intended for theatrical or operatic purposes or for public entertainments of any kind where stage scenery and apparatus are employed shall be built to comply with the requirements of this section but all theatres or places of amusement now existing may be altered providing such alteration does not amount to a virtual reconstruction thereof so as to make it a new building No building which at the time of the passage of this act is not in actual use for theatrical or operatic purposes and no building hereafter erected not in conformity with the requirements of this section shall be used for theatrical or operatic purposes or for public entertainments of any kind where stage scenery and apparatus are employed until the same shall have been made to conform to the requirements of this section and no building hereinbefore described shall be opened to the public for theatrical or operatic purposes or for public entertainment of any kind where stage scenery or apparatus are employed until the Bureau of Building Inspection and the Bureau of Fire respectively shall have approved the same in writing as conforming to the requirements of this section and the mayors of the said cities shall refuse to issue any license for any such building and shall close the same and prevent its opening until a certificate in writing of such approval shall have been given by the Bureau of Building Inspection and the Bureau of Fire respectively Every such building shall have at least one front on the street which front shall be as wide as the widest part of the auditorium or assembly hall and in such front there shall be suitable means of entrance and exit for the audience unless there shall also be a way or passage leading directly from the auditorium to another street in which case the means of entrance and exit by such way or passage shall be taken into consideration to such extent as they shall furnish entrances and exits and if they shall be sufficient width to meet the requirements of this act there need be no means of entrance or exit in front saving by the side courts hereafter stipulated for Any building located on a side street having a width thereon as wide as the widest part of the auditorium or assembly hall shall be considered as having a front on said street within the meaning of this act if in addition thereto there shall be a way or passage leading from said theatre to another street which way or passage shall be of a width not less than one–third of the width of the widest part of said auditorium or assembly hall In addition to the aforesaid entrances and exits on the street there shall be reserved for service in case of an emergency an open court or space on the side not bordering on the street where said building is located on a corner lot and on both sides of said building where there is but one frontage on the street The width of such open court or courts shall not be less than seven feet where the seating capacity is not over one thousand people above one thousand nor more than eighteen hundred people eight feet in width Said open court or courts if there be not in addition to the front as aforesaid on one street a way or passage of the width aforesaid leading into another street shall begin on a line with or near the proscenium wall and shall extend the length of the auditorium proper to or near the wall separating the same from the entrance lobby or vestibule and the said open court or a separate and distinct corridor from each open court shall continue to the street through such superstructure as may be built on the side street of the auditorium with continuous walls of brick or fire-proof materials on each side of the entire length of said corridor or corridors and the ceilings and floors shall be fire-proof If there be in addition to the front on a street a way or passage of the width aforesaid leading into another street then it will be sufficient if said open court or courts shall extend along the auditorium on each side thereof to said front on said street on which the theatre shall be located Said corridor or corridors shall not be reduced in width except by the thickness of the outer walls and there shall be no projection in the same the outer openings to be provided with doors or gates opening toward the street During the performance the doors or gates in the corridors shall be kept open by proper fastenings at other times they may be closed and fastened by movable bolts or locks The said open courts or corridors shall not be used for storage purposes or for any purpose whatsoever except for exit and entrance from and to the auditorium and stage and must be kept free and clear during performances The level of said corridors at the front entrance to the building shall not be greater than one step above the level of the sidewalk where they begin at the street entrance and the entrance of the main front of the building shall not be on a higher level from the sidewalk than four steps unless approved by the Bureau of Building Inspection To overcome any difference of level existing between exits from the parquet into courts and the level of the said corridors gradients shall be employed of not over one foot in ten feet with no perpendicular rise From the auditorium opening into the said open courts or on the side street there shall not be less than two exits on each side in each tier from and including the parquet and each and every gallery Each exit shall be at least five feet in width in the clear and provided with doors of iron or wood if of wood the doors shall be constructed as hereinbefore in this bill described All of said doors shall open outwardly and must be fastened with movable bolts the bolts to be kept drawn during performances There shall be balconies not less than four feet in width in the said open court or courts at each level or tier above the parquet on each side of the auditorium of sufficient length to embrace the two exits and from said balconies there shall be staircases extending to the ground level with a rise of not over eight and one-half inches to a step and not less than nine inches tread exclusive of the nosing The staircase from the upper balcony to the next below shall not be less than thirty inches in width in the clear and from the first balcony to the ground three feet in width in the clear where the seating capacity of the auditorium is for one thousand people or less three feet and six inches in the clear where above one thousand and not more than eighteen hundred people and four feet in the clear when above eighteen hundred people and not more than twenty–five hundred people and not less than four feet six inches in the clear when above twenty-five hundred people All the above mentioned balconies and staircases shall be constructed of iron throughout including the floors and of ample strength to sustain the load to be carried by them and they shall be covered with a metal hood or awning to be constructed as shall be directed by the Inspector of Buildings If the said balconies be carried to and connect with an inclosed tower stairway having its exit directly to the street the open courts or corridors hereinbefore described may have deducted from their width the width of the staircases herein called for Where one side of the building borders on a street there shall be balconies and staircases of like capacity and kind as before mentioned carried to the ground When located on a corner lot that portion of the premises bordering on the side street and not required for the uses of the theatre may if such portion be not more than twenty feet in width be used for offices stores or apartments provided the walls separating this protion of the theatre proper are carried up solidly to and through the roof and that a fire-proof exit is provided from the theatre on each tier equal to the combined width of exits opening on opposite sides in each tier communicating with balconies and staircases leading to the street in a manner provided elsewhere in this section Said exit passages shall be entirely cut off by brick walls from said offices stores or apartments and the ffoors and ceilings in each tier shall be fire-proof Nothing herein contained shall prevent a roof garden art gallery or rooms for similar purposes being placed over a theatre or public building provided the floor of the same forming the roof over such theatre or building shall be constructed of iron or steel and fire-proof materials and that said floor shall have no covering boards or sleepers of wood but be of tile or cement Every roof over said garden or rooms shall have all supports and rafters of iron or steel and be covered with glass or fire–proof materials or both but no such roof garden art gallery or room for any public purpose shall be placed over or above that portion of any theatre or other building which is used as a stage No workshop storage or general property room shall be allowed above the auditorium or stage or under the same or in any of the fly gallaries All of said rooms or shops may be located in the rear or at the side of the stage but in such cases they shall be separted from the stage by a brick wall and the openings leading into such portions shall have fire-proof doors on each side of the openings hung to iron eyes built into the wall No portion of any building hereafter erected or altered used or intended to be used for theatrical or other purposes as in this section specified shall be used or occupied as a hotel boarding or lodging house factory workshop or manufactury or for storage purposes except as may hereafter specifically provide for Such restrictions relates not only to that portion of the building which contains the auditorium and the stage but applies also to the entire structure in connection therewith hazardous in the classification in the Board of Fire Underwriters or for manufacturing purposes No loading accommodation shall be allowed in any part of the building communicating with the auditorium Interior walls built of fire-proof materials shall separate the auditorium from the entrance vestibule and from any room or rooms of the same also from any lobbies corridors refreshment or other rooms All staircases for the use of the audience shall be inclosed with walls of brick or of fire-proof materials approved by the Bureau of Building Inspection in the stories through which they pass and the openings to said staircases from each tier shall be the full width of said staircases A fire wall of brick shall separate the auditorium staircase A fire wall of brick shall separate the auditorium from from the stage and the same shall extend at least four feet above the stage roof or the auditorium roof if the latter be higher and shall be coped Above the proscenium openings there shall be an iron girder covered with fire proof materials to protect it from the heat There shall also be constructed a relieving arch over the same the intervening space being filled in with hard-burnt brick of the full thickness of the proscenium wall Should there be constructed an orchestra over the stage above the proscenium opening the said orchestra shall be placed on the auditorium side of the proscenium fire wall and shall be entered only from the auditorium side of said wall The moulded frame around the proscenium opening shall be formed entierly of fire-proof materials if metal be used the metal shall be filled in solid with non-combustible material and securely anchored to the wall with iron The proscenium opening shall be provided with a fire-proof metal curtain or a curtain of asbestos or similar fire-proof material approved by the Bureau of Building Inspection sliding at each end within iron grooves not less than six inches on each side Said fire-proof curtain shall be raised at the commencement of each performance and lowered at the close of said performance and be operated by approved machinery for that purpose The proscenium curtains shall be placed at least three feet distance from the footlights at the nearest point There shall be no opening through the proscenium wall except the curtain opening and not more than two others which shall be located at or below the level of the stage These latter openings shall not exceed twenty-one superficial feet each which shall have doors of iron or wood in each face of the wall if of wood the door shall be lined with tin and securely hung to rabbetted iron frames or rabbets in the brick wall They shall be hung so to be opened from either side at all times Direct access to these doors shall be provided on both sides and the same shall always be kept free from any incumberance Iron ladders or stairs securely fixed to the wall on the stage side shall be provided to overcome any difference of level existing between the floor or gallaries on the stage side of the fire wall and those on the other side of the auditorium There shall be provided over the stage metal skylights of an area or a combined area of at least one-eighth of the area of the said stage fitted up with sliding sash and glazed with double-thick sheet glass not exceeding one-eighth of an inch thick and each pane thereof measuring not less than three hundred square inches and the whole of which skylights shall be constructed so as to open instantly on the cutting or burning of a hempen cord which shall be arranged to hold said skylights closed or some other equally simple approved device for opening them may be provided There shall be provided immediately under the glass of said skylight a wire netting or the skylight may be glazed with wire-glass All that portion of the stage not comprised in the working of scenery traps and other mechanical apparatus for the presentation of a scene usually equal to the width of the proscenium opening shall be built of iron or steel beams filled in between with fire-proof materials and all girders for the support of said beams shall be wrought-iron or rolled steel The fly-gallaries entire including pin rails shall be constructed of iron or steel and the floor of said gallaries shall be composed of iron or steel beams filled with fire-proof materials and no wood boards or sleepers shall be used as a covering over the beams but the said floors shall be entirely fire-proof The rigging loft shall be fire-proof except the floor covering the same All stage scenery curtains and decorations made of combustible materials and all woodwork on or about the stage shall be saturated with some non-combustible material or otherwise rendered safe against fire to the satisfaction of the Bureau of Fire and all such stage scenery shall be raised and lowered without the use of counter-weights unless such counter-weights are so situated that they operate against the wall and do not overhand the stage The roof over the auditorium and the entire main floor of the auditorium and vestibule also the entire floor of the second story of the front superstructure over the entrance lobby and corridors and all galleries in the auditorium shall be constructed of iron or steel and fire-proof materials not excluding the use of wooden floor boards and necessary sleepers to fasten the same to but such sleepers shall not mean timbers of support The fronts of each gallery shall be formed of fire-proof materials excepting the capping which may be made of wood The ceiling under each gallery shall be entirely formed of fire-proof materials The ceiling of the auditorium shall be formed of fire-proof materials All lathing wherever used shall be of metal The partition in that portion of the building which contains the auditorium the entrance vestibule and every room and passage devoted to the use of the audience shall be constructed of fire-proof materials including the furring of outside or other wall None of the walls or ceilings shall be covered with wood sheathing canvas or any other combustible material but this shall not exclude the use of wood wainscoting to a height not to exceed six feet which shall be filled in solid between the wainscoting and the wall with fire-proof materials The wall separating the actors' dressing rooms from the stage and the partitions of every passage way from the same to the stage and all other partitions on or about the stage shall be constructed of fire-proof material approved by the Bureau of Building Inspection All floors in any of said partitions shall be of iron or of wood constructed as hereinbefore described All the shelving and cupboards in each and every dressing room property room or other storage rooms shall be constructed of metal slate or some fire-proof material Dressing rooms may be placed in the fly gallaries Provided That proper exits are secured therefrom to the fire escapes in the open courts and that the partitions and other matters pertaining to dressing rooms shall conform to the requirements herein contained but the stairs leading to the same shall be fire-proof All seats in the auditorium excepting those contained in the boxes shall be firmly secured to the floor and no seat in the auditorium shall have more than six seats intervening between it and an aisle on either side and no stool or seats shall be placed in any aisle All platforms in galleries formed to receive the seats shall not be more than twenty-one inches in height of riser not less than thirty inches in width of platform All aisles on the respective floors in the auditorium having seats on both sides of same shall not be less than three feet wide where they begin and shall be increased in width towards the exits in the ratio of one and one-half inches to five running feet Aisles having seats on one side only shall not be less than two feet wide at their beginning and increased in width the same as aisles having seats on both sides The aggregate capacity of the foyers lobbies corridors passages and rooms for the use of the audience not including aisles space between seats shall on each floor gallery be sufficient to contain the entire number to be accommodated on said floor or gallery in the ratio of one hundred and fifty superficial feet of floor room for every one hundred persons Gradients or inclined planes shall be employed instead of steps where possible to overcome slight difference of level in or between aisles corridors and passages Every theatre accommodating three hundred persons shall have at least two exits When accommodating five hundred persons at least three exits shall be provided these exits not referring to or including the exits to the open court at the sides of the theatre Doorways of exit or entrance for the use of the public shall not be less than five feet in width and for every additional one hundred persons or portion thereof to be accommodated in excess of five hundred an aggregate of twenty inches additional exit must be allowed These doorways of exit and of entrance may be in the said front altogether or in the case of a theatre having also an exit and entrance directly to and from another street through a way or passage covered or otherwise the width of one-third of that of the widest part of the auditorium or assembly hall some of the said doorways may be made therein to such extent as said entrance or passage will accommodate the same. All inclosed staircases shall have on both sides string handrails firmly secured in the wall about three inches therefrom and about three feet above the stairs but said handrail shall not run on level platforms and landings where the same is more in length than the width of the stairs All staircases six feet and over in width shall be provided with a centre handrail of hard wood or metal not less than two inches in diameter placed at a height of about three feet above the centre of the treads and supported on wrought iron or brass standards of sufficient strength placed not farther than four feet apart and securely bolted to the treads or risers of stairs or both and at the head of each flight of stairs on each landing the post or standard shall be at least six feet in height to which the rail shall be secured Every steam boiler which may be required for heating or other purposes shall be located outside of the building and the space allotted to the same shall be inclosed by walls of masonry on all sides and the ceiling of such space shall be constructed of fire-proof material All doorways in said walls shall have iron doors No floor register for heating shall be permitted No coil or radiator shall be placed in any aisle or passageway used as an exit where it forms an obstruction but all said coils and radiators shall be placed in recesses formed in the wall or partition to receive the same All supply return or exhaust pipes shall be properly incased and protected where passing through floors or near woodwork Standpipes of two and one-half inches in diameter shall be provided with hose attachments on every floor and gallery as follows namely One on each side of the auditorium in each tier also one on each side of the stage in each tier and at least one in the property room and one in the carpenter shop if the same be contiguous to the building All such standpipes shall be kept clear from obstruction Said standpipes shall be separate and distinct receiving their supply of water from the steam pump and shall be fitted with the regulation couplings of the fire department and shall be kept constantly filled with water by means of an automatic steam pump or pumps of sufficient capacity to supply all the line of hose when operated simultaneously and said pump or pumps shall be supplied from the street main and be ready for immediate use at all times during a performance in said buildings A separate and distinct system of automatic sprinklers with fusible plugs approved by the Bureau of Fire supplied with water from a tank located on the roof of the stage and not connected in any manner with the standpipes shall be placed up and around the proscenium opening and on the ceiling or roof over the stage at such intervals as will protect every square foot of stage surface when the said sprinklers are in operation Automatic sprinklers shall also be placed wherever practicable under the stage and in the carpenter's shop paint room store rooms and property rooms A proper and sufficient quantity of two and one-half inch hose fitted with the regulation couplings of the fire department and with nozzles attached thereto and with hose spanners at each outlet shall always be kept attached to each hose attachment There shall also be kept in readiness for immediate use on the stage at least four casks full of water and two buckets in each cask Said casks and buckets shall be painted red There shall also be provided hand pumps or other portable fire extinguishing apparatus and at least four axes and two twenty-five feet hooks two fifteen-feet hooks and two ten feet hooks on each tier or floor of the stage Every portion of the building devoted to the uses of accommodation of the public also all outlets leading to the streets and including the open courts and corridors shall be well and properly lighted during every performance and the same shall remain lighted until the entire audience has left the premises At least two or more oil lamps on each side of the auditorium in each tier shall be provided on fixed brackets not less than seven feet above the floor Said lamps shall be filled with whale or lard oil and shall be kept lighted during each performance or in place of said lamps candles shall be provided All gas or electric lights in the halls corridors lobby or any other part of the said buildings used by the audience except the auditorium must be controlled by a separate shut-off located in the lobby and controlled only in that particular place Gas mains supplying the buildings shall have independent connections for the auditorium and the stage and provisions shall be made for shutting off the gas from the outside of the building When the interior gas lights are not lighted by electricity other suitable appliances approved by the Bureau of Fire shall be provided All suspended or bracket lights surrounded by glass in the auditorium or in any part of the building devoted to the public shall be provided with the proper wire netting underneath No gas or electric light shall be inserted in the walls wood-work ceilings or in any part of the building unless protected with fireproof materials All lights in passages and corridors in said building and wherever deemed necessary by the Bureau of Fire shall be protected by proper wire network The footlights in addition to the wire network shall be protected by strong wire guard not less than two feet distant from said footlights and the trough containing said footlights shall be formed of and surrounded by fire-proof materials All stage lights shall be incandescent electric lights where the current can be obtained and shall be constructed according to the best known methods and subject to the approval of the Bureau of Fire and shall be suspended for ten feet by wire rope All ducts or shafts used for conducting heated air from the main chandelier or from any other light or lights shall be constructed of metal and made double with an air space between All stage lights shall have strong metal wire guards or screens not less than ten inches in diameter so constructed that any material in contact therewith shall be out of reach of the flames or said stage lights and must be soldered to the fixtures in all cases The standpipes gas pipes electric wires hose footlights and all apparatus for extinguishing of fire or guarding The Senate proceeded to the second reading and coneration of Senate Bill No. 455, entitled:

An Act to provide for better setting of fruits and the protection of bees by prohibiting the spraying of trees or shrubs bushes or plants of fruit-bearing kinds when in bloom

The preamble of the bill was read as follows:

Whereas It is necessary for the pollen of one flower to be carried to another flower in order to secure the bast results in the setting of fruits of any kind and

Whereas The honey bee is the chief agent as a pollenizer and is also a valuable producer of honey and wax which without their aid would be a waste product and

Whereas spraying trees and plants when in bloom not only destroys the functions of the essential organs of the flowers and prevents the setting of a good fruit crop but also kills the honey bees and further is not essential because better results can be obtained by spraying after the blossoms fall than by spraying while in bloom therefore

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the preamble?

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. President, I move to amend the preamble in line 10 by inserting after the word "further" the word "it."

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President, I move that the question together with the further consideration of the bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Delaware, Mr. Sproul, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, it having been drawn to the attention of the members of the Senate that the State is to-day celebrating a very important occasion in its history and in fact a very remarkable coincidence in its affairs, in that to-day represents the birthday anniversary of not only the Governor of the Commonwealth, but also of the presiding officer of this body, the Lieutenant-Governor, and as it would seem that an event of this kind should be worthy of notice in this body, it has been decided by some of the friends of the Lieutenant-Governor among the Senate to express to him in a simple way their appreciation and regard for him.

While white roses might be very fitting as a souvenier for some birthday celebrations, I am sure that for the celebration of the birthday of the courteous, courageous, devoted and warm-hearted friend who presides over this body, the "Red Rose of Lancaster" is far more appropriate. There are a good many of these roses, enough, possibly, to represent all of the years which have slipped so lightly over the head of the hearty, wholesome and genial figure who stands before us, but not nearly enough to represent the regard, affection and esteem in which those of us here in the Senate hold him.

Mr. President, on behalf of the Senators, I present you this basket of fifty-one red roses with their compliments and congratulations and with the hope that for many more years you may continue to shed radiant geniality over and among you great circle of true friends.

The PRESIDENT. Senator Sproul, in all of the language of compliment, I cannot find words sufficiently expressive to tell you and your colleagues of my appreciation of this beautiful remembrance, and I assure you that with me in the days to come red roses will always bring dreams of you, sir, and your associates, and my associates in this distinguished law-making body. The only criticism that I have to make, Mr. Senator, of what you have said is that you transcend my merit, but I am inclined to forgive you for that when I reflect how seldom these days is a public officer referred to in a complimentary way.

After all, it is a very nice thing to do. And it is better that we err on the side of exaggeration than to say too little.

I ran across a little, homely bit of verse a few days ago that would seem to have significance to this very time, and to the very sentiment, sir, which you have so beautifully expressed; and it ran like this:

"If he earns your praise, bestow it,
If you like him, let him know it,
Let the word of true encouragement be said,
Do not wait till life is over,
And he's underneath the clover,
For he cannot read his tombstone when he's dead."

I have reached the fifty-first milestone on the highway of my life, and whilst that highway has not been as smooth as the kind of roads that Bob Cunningham is going to give us, yet the little jolts that it has given me have not hurt me; have not stilled the song in my heart. I have gone through life looking for goodness, looking for gladness, rather than looking for badness, or sadness. I have tried to bring a smiling visage to the glass, because I knew if I did I would meet a smile. I have tried to keep my cap on straight, and my coat buttoned up, and my shoes shined,—if the weather was good. I have answered foolish questions, and I have tried to be polite to disagreeable people, I have, when prosperous, tried to be meek, and when adversity caught up with me, which I am happy to say has been seldom, I have tried to be patient. I have no fault to find with the world. I envy no man his better luck and am content with my own harm. The result of it all is that I can say "Hang the almanac's cheat and the catalogue's say, Old Time is a liar, I'm only thirty to-day."

I can best epitomize all that I might say if I talked for an hour when I tell you that on a somewhat similar occasion an old friend of mine in Illinois said: "Well, if this old World's a fleeting show, it's the best old circus I want to know. So give me a ticket and let her go."

RECESS.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President. I move that the Senate do now take a recess for five minutes to give the members an opportunity to extend their congratulations to the presiding officer on his birthday.

Mr. HOMSHER: Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS.

The PRESIDENT: The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I move that Senate do now resume the consideration of Senate Bill No. 590 (House Bill No. 331), on final passage, entitled:

An Act requiring each county having a population of one million five hundred thousand inhabitants and over and the city or cities therein to establish a pension fund for employes of said counties and city or cities and regulating the payment of such pensions

Mr. W. W. SMITH. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the consideration of Senate Bill No. 590 (House Bill No. 331), as follows:

An Act requiring each county having a population of one million five hundred thousand inhabitants and over and the city or cities therein to establish a pension fund for employes of said counties and city and cities and regulating the payment of such pensions

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That counties having a population of one million five hundred thousand inhabitants and over and the city or cities therein shall create a pension fund for the pensioning of employes in the manner under the conditions and subject to the qualifications following

Section 2 In every county above designated there shall be created a board to be known as the pension board consisting of the treasurer and controller of each county and the mayor of each city therein and two employes of the county and two employes of each city therein to be chosen by the employes of said county and city respectively each year whose duty it shall be to register all persons employed by the said county and city or cities and to administer the collection and distribution of the funds provided for and to do such acts and make such reasonable rules in the premises as they may deem necessary to effectually carry into effect the provisions of this act

Section 3 Every person now or hereafter employed by the counties and cities herein designated of the age of fifty-five years and upwards who shall have been employed by any county and city or cities aforesaid for a period of twenty years or more shall upon application to the board of pensions herein created be retired from service and shall during the remainder of his or her life receive the pension or compensation fixed by this act subject to such qualifications as are herein contained

Section 4 During the lifetime of the said person he or she shall be entitled to receive as a pension annually from the fund set aside for that purpose fifty per centum of the amount which would constitute the average annual salary or wages which he or she received during the last five years of his or her employment by the said city and county said pension to be paid in monthly payments Should any person so employed after twenty years of service be dismissed voluntarily retire or be in any manner deprived of his position or employment before attaining the age of fifty-five years upon continuing a monthly payment to the fund equal to the last amount due and paid monthly while in active service said person shall be entitled to the pension above mentioned notwithstanding he or she has not attained the age of fifty years but said pension shall not commence until he or she has attained the age of fifty-five years Should any employe however become totally and permanently disabled after twenty years of service and before attaining the age of fifty-five years he or she shall be entitled to the said pension Proof of total and permanent disability shall consist of the sworn statement of three practicing physicians designated by the board that the employe is not in a condition of health to perform the duties of his or her position or office

Section 5 Employes of counties and cities herein mentioned shall after the passage of this act pay unto the board of pensions monthly an amount equal to two per centum of their monthly salaries or wages which shall be applied to the purposes of this act Payment of the monthly amount or contribution herein mentioned shall cease and be discontinued at the time the beneficiary receives the pension herein provided If for any cause an employe contributing to the pension fund shall cease to be an employe of any of the counties herein mentioned or of the city or cities therein before said employe becomes entitled to the pension conferred by this act the total amount of the contributions paid into the pension fund by such employe shall be refunded to him in full without interest Provided however If any such employe shall have returned to him or her the amount contributed as aforesaid and shall afterward re-enter the employ of any such county or city herein designated said employe shall not be entitled to the pension designated until twenty years after the said re-employment unless he or she shall return to the pension fund the amount withdrawn in which event the period of twenty years shall be computed from the time said employe first entered the service of said county or city In the event of the death of any such employe before the said employe becomes entitled to the pension aforesaid the said total amount of contributions aforesaid shall be paid over to the estate of said deceased employe

Section 6 Should any person holding position under the counties and cities herein mentioned be paid a per diem wage he or she shall not be compelled to pay or contribute toward the pension fund herein provided for but shall have the option or choice of so doing and in that event only of becoming entitled to the pension provided by this act

Section 7 The heads of every department and office shall certify to the board of pensions all persons employed and the amount of salary or wages which is paid to said employe together with dismisals resignations changes or terminations of services and from the records of their office or department furnish such information as the board of pensions shall require

Section 8 It shall be the duty of the board of pensions to receive and retain and when deemed advisable to invest the funds payable in accordance with the provisions of this act and to pay over by warrant or check the amount due to said employes

Section 9 The authorities of the counties and city or cities herein designated charged with the disbursements expenditures and appropriations shall annually set aside apportion and appropriate out of all taxes and income of the said counties and city or cities unto the board of pensions a sum sufficient to maintain the pensions or compensations due under this act Where there is more than one city in the counties designated each city shall appropriate a sum equal to its share or portion of the whole amount required

Section 10 The benefits conferred by this act shall apply to all persons employed in any capacity by or holding positions in the counties of the State included in its provisions and the city or cities therein Provided that this act shall not apply to employes of such departments bureaus or offices as are now protected by pension authorized by the laws of this State and in force at the time of the passage of this act

Section 11 The time of service herein specified namely twenty years shall be computed from the time of the first or original employment said employment to consist of service either to a city or county or both and need not be continuous No pensions shall be paid however until after January first one thousand nine hundred and seventeen

Section 12 The compensation or pension herein mentioned shall not be subject to attachment or execution shall be payable only to the beneficiary designated in this act and shall not be subject to assignment or transfer

Section 13 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The House met at 10.00 o'clock A. M.

The SPEAKER (Charles A. Ambler) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. F. W. Staley, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, we thank Thee that we have been permitted to see the light of this beautiful day. More than fifty years ago some of us who are in this House represented this great State in one of the most cruel wars of modern times. We were associated with some of the bravest soldiers as Grant, Sherman, Sheridan, McClellan, Hancock, Meade and Reynolds, and hosts of others. We were associated with one of the greatest Presidents that ever sat in the seat of government, whose martyred death this day commemorates, whose hand grasped our hand with hearty shake, whose voice had in it a benediction for us, whose burning words have been carved upon a thousand monuments, whose deeds have become the heritage of the generation, and whose name has been embalmed in the hearts of millions of people. From the top of Fame's ladder he stepped into the sky. O God, give us grace, manhood and character to imitate him in his devotion to his fellow-man, to the flag he loved so much, to the country for which he died and to the God to Whom he prayed, we ask for Christ's sake. Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings, when, on motion of Mr. Baker, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal was approved.

RESOLUTION NO. 14.

Mr. GLENN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up resolution No. 14. File Folio 3753.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will be read by the Clerk.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 14.

Whereas, It has been alleged in the public press and in public discussion that large sums of money were illegally collected and expended by the liquor interests in the political campaign and election in Pennsylvania in one thousand nine hundred and fourteen, and

Whereas, By reason of this alleged huge and illegal expenditure the combined liquor interests now openly declare that they control a sufficient number of votes of representatives of the people to defeat any legislation imperilling the interests of the liquor dealers, and

Whereas, It is common knowledge that the Retail Liquor Dealers' Association of Pennsylvania, through its responsible officers, conducted a widespread and costly publicity campaign to accomplish this purpose, and

Whereas, Governor Brumbaugh in a statement published in the press of March tenth, is quoted as having said: "That after diligent search he had failed to find in any election expense account filed at Harrisburg any mention of money contributed for election purposes by a representative of the liquor interests, nor any accounting of any money spent by any individual or organization representing liquor interests, and

Whereas, Under the Corrupt Practices Act now in force any organization that collects or disburses money for any political purpose must file a full and complete accounting thereof, and

Whereas, The open and flagrant violation of the election laws by liquor interests, if permitted to pass without challenge, creates a vicious precedent and imperils the people's control of their own government, therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That a joint committee, consisting of three members of the Senate, one of whom shall be of the minority party, and four members of the House, one of whom shall be of the minority party, be appointed by the respective presiding officers of each House, to make a full investigation of all the circumstances and transactions connected with the alleged violation of the election laws of this Commonwealth by the liquor interests, including all moneys expended and the manner of expending said moneys, and such other matters pertaining to the alleged violation of the election laws as may to said joint committee seem pertinent. The said joint committee is hereby directed to organize forthwith after the approval of this resolution by the Governor, to hold public hearings as often as may be necessary, to summon witnesses, and for the purpose of this inquiry to issue subpoenas, administer oaths and compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of all books, bills, cheques, cheque books, papers, minutes, records and contracts, and such other written and documentary evidence as may be pertinent to the inquiry and the said joint committee shall have the largest and most complete powers which the Attorney-General can confer for the accomplishment of these purposes. And the said joint committee shall have the assistance in conducting such investigation of auditors, accountants and counsel learned in the law, who shall be appointed by the Governor, and the said joint committee shall have authority to employ stenographers, clerks and messengers necessary for the proper prosecution of this investigation. The sergeant-at-arms of the Senate is hereby directed to attend said joint committee and serve all subpoenas issued by it, and generally enforce all the orders which said joint committee is hereby authorized to make, and to incur all the necessary expenses to discharge these duties, and that the said joint commttee shall make reports to the two Houses of the General Assembly at the present session, and the members of the General Assembly do hereby pledge themselves to make the necessary appropriations to defray the expenses of such joint committee, and this investigation.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a second reading of the resolution.

The resolution was again read by the Clerk.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I move that this resolution be referred to the Committee on Elections.

Mr. GANS. Mr Speaker, I second the motion.

RESOLUTION REQUESTING INFORMATION FROM THE STATE LIVE STOCK SANITARY BOARD.

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer a resolution, which I ask to have read and request that it be referred to the Committee on Agriculture for immediate investigation and hearing, if necessary.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the resolution.

The Clerk then read the resolution as follows:

RESOLUTION.

Whereas Since the Foot and Mouth Disease seems not under control, and our State Live Stock Sanitary Board is not able in eradicating foot and mouth disease, It depreciates the value of the farms and is also detrimental to the cattle and dairy interests of our great State, and

Whereas The State Live Stock Sanitary Board has filed no report of the conduct of the department since the last session of the General Assembly, and

Whereas Foot and Mouth Disease has been a great loss to our State. Large sums of public moneys have been appropriated to and extended by the department since the outbreak in October 1914, and

Whereas It is essential that this House of Representatives and the farmers and cattle dealers of this great Keystone State should have full knowledge of the operation of this department, in order that it may consider intelligently Legislative matters affecting said department, therefore be it

Resolved That the State Veterinarians are hereby requested to furnish forthwith to the House a full, complete, detailed statement of information on foot and mouth disease, as follows, to wit, etc.

First An itemized statement of the expenditures of the appropriations to the State Live Stock Sanitary Board for foot and mouth disease, made by the act of Assembly 1915.

Second The names and addresses of the farmers that were quarantined for foot and mouth disease and had no foot and mouth disease in their herds.

Third The number of grade cattle and hogs killed on account of foot and mouth disease and paid for to date and what amount paid.

Fourth The number of grade cattle and hogs killed on account of foot and mouth disease and not paid for and state what appropriation needed.

Fifth The number of registered cattle and hogs killed on account of foot and mouth disease and paid to date and what amount paid.

Sixth The number of registered cattle and hogs killed on account of foot and mouth disease and not paid for. State what appropriation needed.

Seventh The names and addresses of all the inspectors, or veterinarians, their monthly salaries and expenses on foot and mouth disease since October first, 1914, office rent, etc.

Eighth Why did Dr. Marshall issue a circular November 1914 known as circular number 15 paying value for all the cattle killed for foot and mouth disease and now only paying $40 for grade cattle and $70 for registered as the State's half?

Ninth Why did Dr. Marshall order the farmer's barns torn out and contents burned up and saved the cattle pens in the stock yards and the cattle cars, and not allowing the farmers their full loss?

Tenth Why did Dr. Marshall not order all the cattle killed in the Union Stock Yards in Pittsburgh, Pa., where the first case was found October 24th, 1914?

Eleventh Why did Dr. Marshall not order all the cattle killed at the Union Stock Yards, Lancaster, Pa. after foot and mouth disease had been discovered?

Twelfth Why did Dr. Marshall not give the farmers the same rights on their healthy cattle as you do the Stock Yard Companies on foot and mouth disease?

On the question,

Will the House agree to the resolution?

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that this resolution be referred to the Committee on Agriculture.

Mr. HACKETT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Speaker.

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

BILL ON THIRD READING (SPECIAL ORDER).

The SPEAKER. The hour of eleven o'clock has arrived, the time fixed for the consideration by special order of House Bill No. 662, File Folio 3185.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 662, entitled:

An Act to protect all persons in their equal rights regardless of race color or creed in places of public accommodation entertainment or amusement and providing penalty for violation of the same

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be postponed indefinitely.

Mr. WALTERS. Mr Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, without entering upon a discussion of a motion, I would like to ask the gentleman from Clearfield, I may say, a personal favor to me, to withdraw that motion at least for the present. Will the gentleman please withdraw that motion?

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my motion for the present.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I would like to claim the attention of this House for probably ten minutes or more and in that time I would like to ask of you gentlemen, perhaps as a personal favor, perhaps as something that the bill under consideration merits, that you give it your whole and undivided attention and that you gentlemen consider it not in a spirit of jest or hilarity and not in a spirit of prejudice or opposition.

I want to say to you, my colleagues, that I rise to add my humble effort for the passage of House Bill 662 guaranteeing to all persons, regardless of race, creed or color, the equal protection of the law, and I trust my colleagues will consider this great question without any feelings of prejudice. The bill simply prohibits the usual forms of race discrimination as practiced daily against our colored citizens, and provides that any person so insulted may be recompensed in damages, and the offender criminally punished. It is merely an amplification of the Act of 1887 which was intended to accomplish the same purpose, but is unenforcable.

I am deeply conscious of my inability to do justice to this great question and am completely overawed by the great struggle for human rights for which I plead. If I had the eloquence of a Webster, a Lincoln or a Douglass, I might adequately present this matter to you. The rights of over a quarter million of our citizens are involved and they appeal to you far better than any word of mine.

You will not consider me impertinent or sacrilegious in saying that we should approach this great question with a clean mind and pure heart and with a prayer to our Father in Heaven to give us wisdom to see the right and courage to enforce it.

I plead simply for the justice granted by the fourteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution guaranteeing every person the equal protection of the law. This right was recognized and followed by the framers of our Constitution in 1874, for the very first article thereof declares these inherent rights of man:

"That all men are born equally free and independent and have certain inherent and indefeasible rights among which are those of enjoying and defending life and liberty, of acquiring, possessing and protecting property and reputation and of pursuing their own happiness."

The Republican Platform adopted at Pittsburgh in August 1914 upon which our party secured its magnificent victory, contained this declaration for justice to the negro citizen:

"We condemn the so-called Jim Crow bills introduced in Congress by Southern Democrats, and other measures antagonistic to the negro citizen, together with the rulings for segregation in the Executive Department of the government of negro employees. We declare these race discriminations are contrary to the spirit of American institutions."

Upon this solemn promise the Republican party secured the negro vote of this Commonwealth. Can we now as honorable men refuse to carry out our pledge? They have done their full duty by the party and by us and now ask for justice. Dare we deny it?

And why not grant our colored brother the same right to the pursuit of happiness as we enjoy? Has he not brought his full sacrifice upon every occasion of national peril? Whose blood helped to render the testament of liberty valid? Ask Port Hudson and Milligans Bend, and Fort Wagner, and Fort Pillow, and Pittsburgh Landing, how the negro soldier behaved under the fire of the enemy on those memorable battlefields rendered sacred by their patriotic blood.

Who saved the Rough Riders at San Juan, whose blood marked the pathway to safety in the Philippines?

At the close of the Civil War, they were without homes, lands or money. To-day, they own over 600,000 homes, 20,000,000 acres of farm land, covering an area equal to Belguim and Holland. They have under cultivation 40,000,000 acres of farm lands, own 10,000 business houses, 300 drug stores and 60 banks.

At the close of the Civil War, they were without schools, without men of letters, and without men in any of the professional or higher walks of life. To-day in almost every city in the land, you may find schools and churches, their hospitals and charitable institutions, their newspapers and magazines- their social and fraternal organizations. They have adorned all the professons and are represented on the Bench and in the highest political offices.

A race that can produce in 50 years, beginning with nothing such a record, may well be entitled to simple justice. They only ask for an equal opportunity in the race for life; they ask for no special legislation, but simply for a just application of the law.

The history of the world has no such chapter as the negro's 50 years of freedom. The duty of this House is to Unshackle him completely and make him wholly free, as this bill contemplates. When the negro is free from the vexatious annoyance of color—the mark of the Creator—and is given the same opportunity as other men, his contribution to society will continue even greater.

Whatever be his present disadvantages and inequalities, one thing is certain, that probably in no State of the Union is he more respected than here. Thank God, there are not many persons who must be forced and controlled by this Act, but just enough to keep the best element of the colored race continually smarting under the lash of unfairness and insult.

I am indeed glad to state that the great majority of the right-minded people of our County and State are for this bill. New York has such a law, respected by everybody, why not Pennsylvania follow her noble example. I predict that within the next 50 years, every State in the Union will have a bill like this, for antipathy to creed or color is not natural, but is rather one of the unfortunate and undesirable consequences of our social life.

We have founded our Commonwealth not upon the rock of selfishness or the sands of materialism, for these would not resist the torrents of human passion or the whirlwinds of adversity. We have founded our Commonwealth upon the great corner-stones of humanity, upon virtue, upon liberty and upon independence. Upon our altar we have placed the Bible of the great Jehovah revered by all good men, and from the gilded dome of our Capitol we have unfurled the Flag of Freedom, that it may flutter in the breezes and proclaim our loyality to its principles.

I ask you, my colleagues, can any structure reared by the hand of man be more lasting or inspiring? If we were but true to its principles, then indeed would every problem in society be solved and the word of the prophecy be fulfilled "They shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks. Nation shall not lift up the sword against nation; nor shall they teach the art of war any longer."

Go back with me, my friends, along the corridors of time, and see what struggles man has made that virtue and liberty might not perish from the earth.

From the thundering mountains of Sinai, Moses first proclaimed these principles as the word of God, yet centuries passed and the Teacher of Nazareth gave His life that the Golden Rule might continue as the rule of human conduct. Since the Cross of Calvary, the fires of hope and independence have been glowing continuously that man might have equal opportunity.

Let us lift our eyes to Heaven and see the vision of this great nation of the future. America, the crucible of time, the melting pot of the nations, extending from the rock-ribbed coast of Maine to the fertile shores of California, and from the frozen hills of Alaska to the sun-kissed plains of Florida. America, the promised land, flowing with milk and honey, the land of freedom and opportunity, the favorite child among the nations, may well be just and even generous to its colored citizens. As we stand to-day before the throne of God enjoying peace on Earth, let us show our spirit of gratitude by extending justice and full equality to our colored brother.

Mr. LIPSCHUTZ. Mr. Speaker, I rise with reluctance after hearing the classic oration of my friend from Pittsburgh. His constituents have shown their wisdom by sending him here, and I say that we should be here and stand here manly, leaving our prejudices behind, if we have any. Here is a law making body. We are not here for the purpose of giving forth any prejudices we may have, but we are here for the purpose of passing laws regardless of any prejudice. The gentleman from Allegheny has said, and well said, that our colored brethren are not asking for any favors. They are asking that which the Constitution of the United States said they shall have. In the State of New York they have a law of this character on the Statute books.

I say to the gentlemen of this House, be courageous, be manly. Let this matter go to a vote. Let each of us record either aye or nay, according to our consciences and not postpone this matter because, to my mind, that is not the courageous thing to do.

Mr. GEARY. Mr. Speaker, I want to say just a word in favor of the passage of this bill which is of greatest importance to over 250,000 colored people throughout the State and who are anxiously awaiting the verdict of this House. In talking to some members, they argue the bill is not necessary. The opponents to the measure however, argue that if this bill should become a law, the colored people in Pennsylvania would be quick to take advantage and abuse the privileges it allows. Now this is not correct because it only assures the colored man in this Commonwealth that he will be treated the same as any other man or citizen. In the first place, the colored man is not going to that public place where he is not welcome as any other citizen. In the second place he is not going to spend his money or do business with that public or private concern that don't want to do business with him. What he objects to however, is being insulted, abused, and kicked about by a few people who if they had their say or way, would have one law for the colored citizen and one for the white, not to speak of one for the rich and one for the poor. Now we don't want any distinction in our citizenship in Pennsylvania and by voting in favor of this bill you will be wiping out what little there is.

The colored citizen who owns property is assessed in the same way as is the white man. If he desires to vote, he is compelled to pay his poll tax and be registered in the same way. His ballot is put in the box and counted in the same way, and at that, the privileges accorded him stop. He is not given the same privileges in the way of amusements, nor is he given the same amount of latitude or respect as alloted to the ordinary tax-payer. In other words he is compelled to pay for all things which tend to make him a citizen of the State, but derives none of the benefits outside of the ordinary protection to life and property.

The colored man is capable of enjoying healthy amusements, and can and does conduct himself properly. If he is compelled to pay for these privileges, then he should be allowed to enjoy them, but if they are denied him, then he should not be put to that expense. Being put on an equal plane with the white man in the matter of paying for them, he should be given equal suffrage when it comes to enjoying those privileges.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I am going to call on every man who believes in justice and fair play, on every member elected on the Republican ticket, on every member elected as a Democrat, as well as those elected on any party ticket, and on every member who is a friend of mine in the House to stand up and vote in favor of the passage of this bill when his name is called and receive the everlasting thanks of the colored people in the Keystone State.

Mr. GEISER. I thoroughly agree with what the gentlemen from Allegheny have just said and in rising in behalf of this measure. I simply wish to recall the words of the great Emancipator, and I believe if he were here today he would repeat what he said at Gettysburg, "It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this."

Mr. BUNGARD. Mr. Speaker, I would not attempt to add anything to what has already been said, but I just want to say one little word at this time. Our great Republican Party of this great Commonwealth rests upon that fundamental foundation of protection, protection to industry, protection to commerce and protection to humanity. We are called upon here to render a service in this Legislature, not to benefit the favored few, but to benefit the masses, to benefit the people of Pennsylvania.

I am glad to be a member of this law-making body at this time when vital questions are the great issues of the time, and among these questions I deem the most vital is that question which deals with humanity. And, gentlemen, after we have run our course, and we trace our footsteps from the cradle to the grave, after we have assembled home to God, we can look back over this world and we can rejoice over one of the greatest things that we can crown the light of humanity, and that is service to all mankind. I want to be of service to mankind, regardless of race. Now, gentlemen, let us look upon the human side of this question and vote accordingly.

Mr. NISSLEY. Mr. Speaker, I am glad that the gentlemen from Allegheny referred to the last Republican Platform, so that we owe it to our party that we vote on this question. I am glad to say that even though it were not in the party platform, as a man I would vote on this question. I represent a number of people who are referred to, and who were referred to by Mr. Stein, and I have had them tell me of some of the most outrageous discriminations against them, simply because they are colored people. I am glad to say that the outrageous discriminations against them invariably are not made by American-born citizens, but by those who have come from other countries to live here. If this shall do nothing else, it will teach those people who come from other countries and propose to carry with them the race prejudices that they cannot do that in this State of Pennsylvania. I am, therefore, in favor of voting on this bill and I shall certainly vote in favor of it.

Mr. PALMER. Mr. Speaker, coming from the ironclad hills of Schuylkill County, a county which gave more men to the Union Army in the days of the Rebellion, proportionately, more than any other county north of the Mason and Dixon line, who first answered the call of Lincoln, through their First Defenders in April, 1861; in the name of all the men who died upon the field of battle, I would not be true to the traditions of my families in Schuylkill County if I did not go on record on this bill and say that this Assembly has no other thing to do in the name of our fore-fathers than to pass this act.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, I want to say just one word. There is not a greater friend of the colored man in this House than I am. I believe that we ought to take care of him. If you will look at that bill you will find that if we postpone that bill indefinitely we are taking care of him the best we can. I, therefore, move that this bill be postponed indefinitely.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, I most seriously object to any such proposed course for the simple reason that I don't think the gentleman from Clearfield, who is so desirous of protecting our colored citizens, is at all fair, to say the least, in his course Let us have a vote upon this measure. I have no doubt that the desire of my friend from Clearfield, and perhaps other gentlemen of the House, is to avoid going upon record on this question. I want now to serve notice that if this motion prevails I shall demand a roll call which will accomplish the same purpose as a vote upon this bill. I ask you to do the manly honorable thing. If you want to vote against this bill you can do so, but if you want to vote in accordance with the dictates of your conscience then vote for the bill, but in Heaven's name let us not be cowards and dodge behind this motion.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I am somewhat surprised at my friend from Clearfield making a motion of this kind at this time. If you gentlemen will recall for the past few months back he has been giving most of his time protecting wild game of this State. He has been here working in the interest of the raccoon and the bear and the deer, but when a bill comes up to protect this class of the human race he wants to vote it down. I want to say to you, gentlemen, that there is no more proper time to pass this bill than at the present time. Fifty years ago today the great Emancipator of this race gave up his life for their freedom. Fifty years ago the race was emancipated and there is not a man here who thinks of that, but has a happy heart and we can afford to sanction and second his action by voting for this bill. I appeal to the members of this House to vote down the game protector's motion.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, as my friend from Allegheny has served notice that he will put the members of this House on record, I think it is only proper that I should explain to the House how I view this bill and why I shall vote against it. I realize that you may cloud this subject as you will, but that it is not a question of civil rights that is involved. There is no color distinction in the laws of the State of Pennsylvania and I will stand for no difference in the civil rights of any citizenship in our State.

I might say to my colored friends who are in the hall of this House that my lineage is traced down the lines from the Quakers since 1664; ever since them, my sires have been citizens of America where my people have stood and always stood and have been for equal civil rights of all the people irrespective of color and creed. My people and my relatives were those who helped to run what was known as the "Underground Railroad" carrying the black man from slavery in the South to the land indicated by the Great Northern Star, the land of Canada. My people were Abolitionists; we were Whigs; we stood for equal civil rights and I now stand for equal civil rights irrespective of creed or color. However, I know and you know that the whole trouble is that there are social stratas. We know that even today we have in Asia a condition where you have your castes and man cannot rise out of that particular caste into which he was born. Such laws as these are a disgrace to civilization. They are not on the statute books of Pennsylvania and they should not be discussed here nor should this question be clouded by leading the public to believe that the man who votes against this bill stands against equal rights for all creeds and colors. In my position I am not standing against equal civil rights because I know that there are social stratas and I also know that there are social stratas that I cannot enter; I cannot enter the social strata of Kings with its tinsel and gold and brass, nor I don't want to enter there. I am perfectly satisfied to stay in the social strata of my birth. I think most sensible people are satisfied to remain in the strata to which they are born. I want to say that I know that the black man of today has not an equal chance in his opportunities in the present time in the great State of Pennsylvania, but it is not due to any laws that are upon the statute books. Nor do I believe that it will ever be due to any laws on the statute books that may be passed by the representatives of this great State. But to attempt to change social stratas and to say I can enter a certain social strata because of legislation would be useless; it would be folly. It cannot be done with laws of this character. Whenever you try to invade that field by statutes you aggravate the condition and it always reverts against the poorer man in the race. It is for that reason that I shall vote against this bill. Because of my experience in years of public life, and my examination into the history of these conditions I have never found any good come from statutes that run counter to public sentiment or social conditions.

I don't want to be misunderstood, having been notified that we must respond to the call of the roll. I hope I will never be afraid to vote as my conscience dictates upon any question in this House. I have, in my earlier days here, dreaded a roll call, but I believe I have now the courage and I hope I have, at least, to express my views at any time as I see them, being guided by the lamp of experience.

I don't think this bill ought to go on the statute books. I think it defeats the very purpose for which the friends of the bill are working. There should be no caste, nor there should be no social strata, but Utopia is not here. I don't know when it will come; I will not live to see it. When we think that we can change the social relations of the people, we will find that to be an impossibility and all attempts to do so only defeats the effect in an effort to force a place in society. They say a black man's dollar is as good as a white man's dollar, and a black man's tax is as good as a white man's tax but according to law a man "is a man for a' that."

Mr. WILDMAN. Mr. Speaker, I take exception to a remark made by my friend from Delaware, Mr. Baldwin. He has told you that he would make no attempt to enter into the society of kings and queens. Thank God, my friends, we have no kings and queens in this country. During several campaigns which I have passed through it was my pleasure to co-mingle with my colored friends in my district. I mingled with them and was among them and I shook them by the hand and I asked them for their votes and I received them. I sat at table with them and I ate with them and I want to say to you that I am proud of it. Among the men with whom I associated I found many far superior intellectually and in cleanliness to some that may be found among my own race.

Gentlemen, fifty years ago the great Emancipator sacrificed his life to save these people and to liberate them from bondage. Charles Sumner, one of our greatest statesmen, made every effort to bring about just such a measure as we have before us to-day. I can see no reason why any gentleman should refuse to be placed on record in favor of this measure.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the motion to postpone indefinitely?

The motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?
Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

BILL ON THIRD READING (SPECIAL ORDER).

The SPEAKER. The hour of 11.30 has arrived, the time fixed for the consideration by special order of House Bill No. 27, File Folio 4399.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 27, entitled:

An Act relating to county officers in counties having less than one hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants and providing for their salaries and the compensation of deputies and clerks in the respective county offices requiring the payment into the respective county treasury of the fees of county offices and providing penalties for violation of this act

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House. The bill before you provides that in all counties under one hundred and fifty thousand population the county officers, enumerated in this bill, shall be placed upon a salary basis instead of upon a fee system as they are at present. This bill has been drawn after months of serious study of the question. It provides that the sheriffs, prothonotary, clerks of the several courts the register of wills, recorder of deeds, the county teasurer, county auditors, county controller and the jury commissioner, the keeper of the county prison shall all be placed upon a salary basis. In order that the gentlemen of the House may more fully understand this measure I shall, in a brief way, describe its provisions and the effect of the provisions in this bill.

In section two, the officers included under this act are required to keep separate accounts and pay the moneys received to the county treasurer on the first Monday of each month. And in the event of their failing to do this, they are subject to a penalty. The county officers receive their pay under the provisions of this act monthly, all salaries to be paid from the moneys paid into the treasury by the respective offices after deducting the amount due the deputies and clerks. If the officer does not earn enough during the month to pay the salary in full after deducting the amount due the deputies and clerks he shall receive only such proportion of his salary as shall be equal to the aggregate of the net fees received and earned during his term of office during such month, but the deficit can be made up of any excess during his term. In other words, a public officer under the provisions of this act cannot receive a larger salary than the fees amount to from month to month that he earns, but if there is any deficit in any month he shall receive the excess in another month to make up that particular deficit. Each county officer shall appoint and may dismiss his own clerks and deputies. The county commissioners and the county controller where such officer exists shall constitute a salary board. It shall be their duty to determine the number of deputies and clerks required in the office and their salaries are subject to the approval of the Court. In other words, the county commissioners and county controller, where these offices exist, are a salary board who do nothing but fix the number of deputies and clerks to which each office is entitled, subject to the approval of the court; and if the officer is not satisfied he has an opportunity to appeal to the court for any change that he may deem necessary.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I feel that it is unnecessary for me to describe further the provisions of this act. I believe that of all the bills before this House there has been none that has been more closely and more carefully scrutinized than has this act. I also desire to say at this time that I have not put into this act arbitrary salaries for county officers. It has been my purpose during all the two months and more that this bill was before the House and in the Committee of the Judiciary General to give to every member of this House who was interested in this bill an opportunity to be heard in order that his views might be obtained in arriving at a proper salary for the officers of his particular county and the particular class. I am perfectly willing to say here and now that, if this bill passes this House this morning and goes over into the Senate, if there are any other changes that may be desired by the members of the various classifications that I shall not stand in the way of giving the representatives exactly what they want and observing their views in respect to the size of the salaries that their county officers are to receive.

Now, Mr. Speaker, there has been a question as to the constitutionality of this measure. In fact when the effort was made to have this bill reported out, the question had been raised that the bill was contrary to the provisions of the Constitution, particularly to Article 3, section seven of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, and in order to clear the mind of any person who may doubt the constitutionality of this act I take the liberty of citing to you authorities in support of this measure and in support of its absolute constitutionality. Article 14, Section 5 of the Constitution says: "In counties containing over 150,000 inhabitants, all county officers shall be paid by salary and the salary of such officer and his clerks heretofore paid by fees shall not exceed the aggregate amount of the fees earned during his term and collected by or for him."

In pursuance of said constitutional provision, the Act of 1876, P. L. 13, and amendments, provides for the salarying of all county officers in counties of over 150,000 inhabitants.

The legal question involved in the enactment of a law placing county officers on a salary basis in counties containing a population of less than 150,000 is, whether such an enactment would be in conflict with Article 3, Section 7 of the Constitution which states that "The General Assembly shall not pass any local or special laws regulating the affairs of counties, cities, townships, wards, boroughs, or school distircts."

In order to determine this question it is necessary to have recourse to the decisions of the courts upon the subject, which are numerous and, in many instances, conflicting.

In the case of Perkins et al vs Philadelphia, 156 Pa. 554 which case construed the Act of May 24, 1893, "An Act to abolish commissioners of public buildings and to place all public buildings under the control of the Department of Public Works in cities of the first class," declared by Mr. Justice Dean unconstitutional as offending against Article 3, Section 7 which forbids the General Assembly from enacting any local law regulating the affairs of cities.

In a dissenting opinion, referring to Article 3, Section 7, Mr. Justice Mitchell, page 569, says: "It is a barbed wire fence around all legislative action, bristling with points of danger even to the most honest and desirable and essential laws. A literal adherence to all its provisions would have stopped the wheels of government and so this Court was forced to yield when the first great question of the needs of municipal legislation came before it. Some elasticity was absolutely indispensable and it was found in the principle of classifications. If a statute does not offend against the spirit, does not really do the thing which the Constitution means to prohibit, then it should be sustained, although its form may be liable to objection under the strict words of the prohibition."

Mr. Speaker, I have here a very extensive brief relating to the constitutionality of this measure. I do not believe that it is necessary for me at this time to read my entire brief in support of this measure. I believe that it would, in all probability tire the House. I shall, therefore, conclude my brief on this subject by referring to 245 Pa. in the case of Stratton vs. Allegheny County decided in 1914, which is really all the law and the prophets on the constitutionality of this question; and this section says as follows:

"That legislation for a class distinguished from a general subject is not special but general, and classification is a legislative question, subject to judicial revision only so far as to see that it is founded on real distinctions in the subjects classified, and not on artificial or irrelevant ones used for the purpose of evading the constitutional prohibition. If the distictions are genuine, the courts cannot declare the classification void, though they may not consider it to be on a sound basis. The test is not wisdom, but good faith in the classification."

Mr. Speaker, we have in support of these views passed laws placing upon a salary basis the district attorneys in counties under one hundred and fifty thousand. We have placed upon a salary basis county commissioners in counties under one hundred and fifty thousand; and as late as 1913 we appointed, under the provisions of an act for counties of from one hundred and fifty to one hundred thousand, county controllers who are also placed upon a salary basis. In other words, in so far as the constitutionality of this act is concerned, the decision of the court are practically unanimous in declaring that an act of this kind is constitutional where it is made in good faith and where there is a necessity for such classification. Mr. Speaker, there is probably no worse incongruity in our State than that relating to the salarying of county officers. As I have already stated, under the constitution of 1873 it was seen fit to place county officers in counties of over one hundred and fifty thousand on a salary basis. At that time counties under one hundred and fifty thousand were not considered. In 1873 we did not have the grave questions coming before the counties that we have at the present time, and county government in 1873, at the time of the adoption of this constitution, was a comparatively simple proposition. We were not bothered by the scientific construction of good roads that make for the economy of transportation for the farmer; we were not much bothered about the housing of our dependents, either in jails or in poor houses; we were not much bothered concerning widows' pensions; in other words, the obligations of the county were so few that it made little difference whether the affairs of the county were administered economically or whether they were administered extravagantly. The purpose of this act is to bring order out of chaos; the purpose of this act is to place county officers upon a salary basis in order that the affairs of the county may be more systematically regulated; and the purpose of this act is also to provide economy in the administration of county offices.

Mr. Speaker, as I say, all these great movements on the part of county government call for additional expense. I say to you that unless we begin to economize in our county governments we have but one alternative and that is to raise the taxes of the farmer and of the taxpayer generally. And why should we pay to county officers, as we are doing in many instances in this Commonwealth, salaries that are in excess of the salaries of the judges of the courts, and salaries that have almost, in some instances, reach the salary of the Vice President of the United States. I say I believe that we should give our county officers adequate salaries based upon scientific investigation and upon fairness; but I do not believe that we should be extravagant with the people's money and give to county officers salaries that are grossly in excess of adequacy and that are nothing more or less than handouts on the part of the county. If this bill passes it will not reduce the salaries, but it will place the salaries upon a fair, upon a definite, upon an honest basis in all counties of a population of one hundred and fifty thousand in this Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I rise at this time in opposition to this bill. There comes a time in the life of every man when he conceives the idea that he should do something great, or something noble or something along the line of reform; and it seems to me that my friend from York was struck with that chord sometime during the last year or two and he has brought into this House at this time a bill which, if we were to have looked into it then and take it now and look at it, you could not recognize that it was the same bill. I want just to say from the outstart, gentlemen, that the Constitution of Pennsylvania, Article 14, Section 5, says that in all counties having a population of over one hundred and fifty thousand, the officers shall be paid by salary; and while it does not specify how officers shall be paid in counties under one hundred and fifty thousand, the Supreme Court of this State has assumed that is what is meant by that article and that section of the Constitution.

We passed here the other evening a bill providing for the classification of counties into eight classes. Now this bill comes along just after that bill and asks to classify the counties into twelve classes. Now, if the bill that we passed here in the House the other evening receives the support in the Senate and is signed by the Governor, the operation of this bill will be impossible. It cannot be practical. It cannot work under the provisions of the other bill, because we cannot classify in one bill, or one act, or one law, all the counties in this State into eight classes and in another law classify them into twelve classes.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Armstrong.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Armstrong permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman what affect, in his opinion, the act that was just passed, classifying counties into eight classifications, will have upon the District Attorney Act of 1905, the County Commissioner Act of 1905 and the County Controller Act of 1913.

Mr. MILLIRON. I would like to answer the gentleman, Mr. Speaker, that I tried to convince this House within the last two weeks that that bill was also unconstitutional; and while that may be unconstitutional and no doubt is, this one also will be, and therefore it will have no effect upon it because the Supreme Court will declare that one and this one unconstitutional if it shall pass.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman further.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Armstrong permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. MILLIRON. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I want to ask the gentleman whether he has any authorities in support of his contention.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, yes sir.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman have any legal authorities?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, yes sir.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, what are they?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, we have here in the case of the Sheriff of Armstrong County, against the County of Armstrong, which was sustained—if you will allow me to read, the Act of Assembly of Pennsylvania under consideration being the act of June 20, 1911, P. L. 1072, which is entitled as follows: "An Act to regulate and establish the fees to be charged by sheriffs in counties having a population of less than one hundred and thirty thousand, in this Commonwealth and to provide for the taxation and collection of the same."

We then cited to you the fact that "the General Assembly shall not pass any local or special law, regulating the affairs of counties, cities, townships, wards, boroughs or school districts.' And also with regard to what I have already quoted, stated in Article 14, Section 5 of the Constitution of Pennsylvania; and we have as our decision Morrison vs Bachert, 112 Pa., 323. We have also here the decision of Judge Ruppel, of Somerset County in the case of Hochard vs Somerset County, 22 District Ct., 751; Glass vs Northumberland County, 22 District, Ct., 753; Myers, Sheriff vs. Northampton County, 22 District, Ct., 757; also the opinion filed by Judge Criswell, of Venango County, at No. 3 August term, 1913; and I could read dozens of others which I have here which is not necessary.

We will eliminate for the sake of argument, the constitutionality of the act. The Supreme Court is amply able to take care of that phase of it, and we will dwell with the bill. When this bill was first introduced practically every member of this House living in counties that were affected by the passage of this act opposed it. The sponsor of this bill, as I understand, went to the members of each of these counties and said, "what do you want the salaries of the officers in your county fixed at?"

Did any of you ever see the old crazy quilt that your mothers used to make. This bill will remind you of them. We will take for instance the sheriff's salary in this act. Let me read that to you. In counties of ten thousand or less, it is twelve hundred dollars. That is what the members from those counties asked for and that is what the sponsor of this bill placed in there. Counties of twenty thousand or under, eighteen hundred dollars; counties of thirty thousand, two thousand dollars. The first classification of ten thousand people, the sponsor of this bill has asked for an increase of six hundred dollars. Why wouldn't it be right to put six hundred dollars for the next ten thousand people. No, the patched up bill gives them two hundred dollars for the next ten thousand people. In counties of forty thousand or under or between thirty thousand and forty thousand, a two hundred dollar increase; between fifty thousand and forty thousand a four hundred dollar increase; between sixty thousand and fifty thousand, a four hundred dollar increase; between seventy thousand and sixty thousand a two hundred dollars increase,—back to the two hundred dollars, because some one from counties of that classification wanted salaries fixed at a lower figure.

That is the kind of an original bill, that is the kind of a dream, of a reform measure, that has been given to you by the sponsor of this bill. He listened to the members from those counties and changed his bill in accordance with their wishes, so that he could get their support.

Now, between seventy and eighty thousand, three hundred dollars; between ninety and eighty thousand, three hundred dollars. He comes back again with the next ten thousand, between ninety thousand and one hundred thousand, and gives a difference of two hundred dollars. Now, what did he do when he goes over one hundred thousand. What does he allow the man to have,—the sheriff—for the next fifty thousand dollar. The salary in counties of one hundred thousand shall be thirty-eight hundred dollars, jumping fifty thousand people. He allows twenty-four hundred dollars to take care of fifty thousand people, then he raises the salary only two hundred dollars for taking care of fifty thousand additional people above one hundred thousand.

Now, if there is a man in this House who will agree with me that this is not a fair proposition I want him to vote against this bill. I just want to take this bill and show you a few of its defects, and I want you to listen to this again, if you please. Section Six: now the sponsor of this bill says he fixed definite salaries. Let me read this:

Section 6 All salaries fixed by this act (except in the case of such officers as may be otherwise provided for herein) shall be paid from the amounts paid into the proper county treasury from the respective offices after ascertaining and deducting the amount due the deputies and clerks in each office and if there has not been a sum sufficient from fees received and paid in or for fees earned and due by the county for services rendered to pay the full amount of the salary of any officer holding any of said offices after deducting the amount due the deputies and clerks such officer shall receive only such proportion of his salary as shall be equal to the aggregate of the net fees received and earned by him as aforesaid during his term of office during such month If the fees in any month or months during his term of office shall exceed the amount of the expense and salary aforesaid for such month the deficit of salary for any month shall be made up from such excess

Now, after deducting the amounts that the clerks of the office earned, and for telephone, heat and a thousand other things too numerous to mention that the Board of Salaries can pay for, then you are to pay him his salary if there is enough left. Now, isn't that a nice proposition. Elect a man with a salary of four thousand dollars, or two thousand dollars a year, and then say to him after he has made his campaign and been elected to the office: 'now, we are not going to pay you that unless there is enough left after clerk hire and the expenses of the office have been paid.'

I appeal to you, gentlemen, it is not a fair proposition. I want to call your attention to one or two other things. I will take my own county for example, in which we have between sixty and seventy thousand people. Now, the provisions of this act calls for the county auditors to meet once a month, in addition to auditing the accounts, they meet once a month and go over the accounts of the different officers, and this bill allows them one hundred and seventy-five dollars a year,—in our county, with a population of sixty-eight thousand, one hundred and seventy-five dollars a year for auditing, and adding on to that ten times as much work as they did previously, where they made previously two hundred or two hundred and fifty dollars a year.

Here is another unfair proposition. You know, gentlemen who come from counties where the fee system is in operation that a certain amount of the money from the registers and recorders and prothonotaries offices, and the office of the clerk of courts, is paid into the State Treasury. There isn't any provision in this act where the State gets one cent of it. The only provision is, and my friend here says it will save money,—the only provision is you can eat up all the fees with clerkships, office furniture and telephones and then give the recorder, or prothonotary or sheriff, the remainder. There is not one provision in this act that says that one cent goes to the State, or repeals the law that does say that a certain amount of that money shall go to the State. It is not necessary to cite the Constitution of Pennsylvania as to whether this is a good bill, or whether it is constitutional or not. I want to appeal to the men of the small counties, counties of ten or twenty thousand, and read to them section thirteen: "The sheriff, county jailor, or prison keeper, county auditors, county controller, county commissioners"—now listen to that word, "County Commissioners." Get that. "And the county commissioners and the county treasurer shall severally be paid quarterly."

Now, did you know that was in the act? The county commissioners in our State in these smaller counties get their salary monthly. He says it does not deal with the county commissioners, yet he has here a snake which says they shall be paid quarterly. Why should the officers of this State, in the different counties, be compelled to wait three months for their pay.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I think if the gentleman had carefully read this bill, that he would find that a whole lot of the objections he has made here are erroneous.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from York will confine himself to interrogation.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I want to say that I have given this study,—and why? Because it affects my county and those are the people I am conserving. I know that the things I have spoken of are there and the reason that the sponsor of this bill does not know they are there is because it is not the original bill he prepared, but it is the things that were suggested to him by the different members from the different counties, things that they wanted and things that he said he would do in order to get their support for the bill. But I want to appeal to the members from Philadelphia county, and Allegheny county and other counties of over two hundred and fifty thousand population, you have not asked for a bill here where it did not affect us, but what we gave you our support, and we were glad to do it. Now we, of the smaller counties, under one hundred and fifty thousand appeal to you to help us out on this and don't wish something on us that we do not want. You are too good fellows for that. Boys, if you ever stood by us, stand by us this time. I will leave it in your hands.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, after listening to the very eloquent remarks of the gentleman from Armstrong, I desire to say a word in reply. The gentleman has compared this act to a crazy quilt. If the gentleman had read that act and read it thoroughly, I believe that the gentleman certainly would have come to a different understanding. It is true that I did consult with the various members of the House who were to be affected by this measure, and it was only right and fitting that I should do that in order that I might find out what their wishes and what the wishes of their counties were, in view of of the fact that they were to be affected, but as I have stated before, these salaries are not hap-hazardly reached, but reached after the most careful consideration. They have been graded most carefully and this bill has been gone into most thoroughly, and has been most carefully prepared. The bill was even submitted to the Auditor-General, by whom an amendment was put in, giving the Auditor-General the power, as he has now, of inspecting the books of the county officers.

There is nothing in this bill that is contrary to the law, as it exists now, preserving the rights of the Commonwealth and the rights of the county. It is a bill, as I have already stated, that is aimed to place upon a systematic basis the salaries of the various counties, and as I have already said, unless we soon, in our smaller counties, try to systematize our affairs, and try to economize, we have but one alternative, either greatly increased taxation or a bonded indebtedness. Mr. Speaker, far be it from me to declare that the salaries of the county officers shall be pauperized. Far be it from me to try to take the honest earnings away from the pockets of any man, and I have not attempted to do that in this bill. Under the provisions of this bill I have merely attempted to save the taxpayers the money that is unjustly filched from their pockets, and not a dollar of honest money would I take from any man or any office holder.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman.

Mr. WALTER in the Chair.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York, Mr. Spangler, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, at the conclusion of my remarks. As I have remarked before, we are duty bound to give to our people what is their due. Are these officers,—some of the sheriffs in the counties of Pennsylvania,—entitled to ten or fifteen thousand dollars a year for services rendered. What special knowledge do they bring to that office that entitled them to a salary in excess of that of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States, may I ask, and these are the salaries that are the loopholes that we want to close up.

Under the Act of 1874, under which we are operating at the present time, the salaries of the county officers in all counties of less than one hundred and fifty thousand, are fixed at two thousand dollars a year. That is what they are, and yet these county officers say that when we place the salaries of the various officers at three thousand, twenty-five hundred and four thousand dollars a year, that we are cutting off their salaries. I cannot see it, Mr.

Speaker. Further than that, if this bill is enacted into a law, it will compel the county officer himself to do the work and not deputize the work to the deputies and clerks in his office, as is done in many instances in every county in this Commonwealth. Mr. Speaker, this bill, I believe will stand the test of constitutionality, and its provisions will stand the test of reason. It provides only that which will place system, order and economy in the body politic of our counties throughout Pennsylvania.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, owing to the fact that the gentleman from York refuses to be interrogated, I shall ask myself the question and answer it myself. I am asking myself the question now, whether it is a fact that the fees which this bill attempts to regulate for recording deeds and mortgages and legal papers of different kinds, come out of the pockets of the taxpayers. I am answering it now in saying no, it comes from the fellow who is so fortunate as to have this kind of legal paper and record and when he states that this bill protects the taxpayers it is made for the purpose of throwing dust in your eyes. Don't let him do it.

Mr. J. O. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, I consider that the gentleman from York is deserving of the thanks of the smaller counties of this State in the work that he has done in the preparation of this bill. The question as to it constitutionality was raised and there was some doubt thrown upon it when the gentleman from Armstrong decided to let it rest. The citations which he has made are not clear enough or distinctive enough for any man to apply in the consideration of the constitutionality of this bill, because the constitutionality of a question of this kind is a question of perhaps the necessity of the classification made and he has not referred in his remarks to the reason for the classification attempted of these cases. Outside of the constitutionality he speaks of it as "a crazy quilt." It is true that the gentleman from York consulted with the representatives from the other counties of the State in an attempt to get the salaries which he was fixing at a proper and a reasonable amount. I have been surprised in a comparison of the salaries fixed in this bill to find the uniformity of it. I made a tabulation of the salaries provided in each classification of counties starting with forty thousand and running up to one hundred and fifty thousand. I found, with a very few exceptions, the increase is proportionate in every office. I consider that the fixing of these salaries has been the work of genius. The purpose of this bill is to correct some practices that are reprehensible, to say the least. I made an effort to determine the salaries, or fees, which the men in my county were receiving. I went into the Sheriff's office and I was absolutely unable to get any record of the fees that the sheriff had been receiving and I presume the same thing is true in other counties. I have had the same experience with the treasurer's office. In my county the treasurer and the sheriff are supposed to have the best paying offices and while it is possible to find the fees that the treasurer receives as coming from the county but he also receives fees from the State which it was not possible for me to ascertain.

The Sheriff seems to have no record of the fees he received. He has no obligation to return these fees. It has been the practice in my county and in a number of counties, as I understand it, for the county officers to make up the list of their assistants, selecting persons, fixing salaries so that the balance of the money received in fees, after paying the official his salary, shall be divided among the employes.

Let me explain that a little further: We will take the case of the prothonotary. He is entitled to two thousand dollars in my county, and I believe that is the amount in the other counties provided the fees makes two thousand dollars; if half over two thousand dollars it goes into the county, not the State. The statement is incorrect as made. All over two thousand goes into the county; the other half goes to the officials. If he appoints members of his own immediate family in his office he fixes the salary as he desires it should be fixed and he may take the expenses of his office which otherwise would go into the county. I know of this being done. An appeal has been made here to the members of the larger counties uneffected by this act to come to our assistance. I don't want them to come to the assistance of the gentleman from Armstrong. We represent counties of about the same size but I would like to have him come to my assistance. This is wrong in principle. The counties of Philadelphia and of Allegheny are not on a fee basis; they are on a salary basis. I presume when it was done it was thought to be a wise thing to do. I don't know what the experience has been, but is it right? Is it right to enable the officials of a county to so pad the pay-roll that the money coming into the office in fees which should go to the county shall go to their immediate families. I hestitate to go into it any further or specify instances because it may go home. I made a pretty thorough investigation of this thing in some counties and I know that there are abuses of the fee system. This is a business proposition in the opinion of Butler County and it is a proper proposition.

Mr. HABGOOD. Mr. Speaker, this bill was not brought into this House on account of any demand on the part of the people living in the counties which it has very carefully seemed to effect; not on account of any demand on the part of the members in this House from those counties in the majority as they are represented. The people of these counties who represent a large portion of this State are not asking for this bill neither are their representatives in this House. There is some power or some inspiration that is endeavoring to put this bill upon the statute books, but what it is we do not know. The simple fact that after men are elected to the various county offices in these various counties many of them the smallest counties in the State, their income, what they shall receive for their services should be in the slightest way, after their election, under the jurisdiction or arbitrary decision of the county commissioner, is absolutely a wrong foundation. The county commissioners in some counties wish to get the county officers under their thumbs. There is no demand for this legislation on the part of the people in these different counties or on the part of their representatives. We ask you from the other counties who are not effected, to vote against this bill with the majority, from the counties who are effected.

Mr. BARNETT. Mr. Speaker, this is a bill that might well attract the attention of this Honorable Body as well as the people of the several counties of Pennsylvania. It has direct reference to the interests of the people as well as the interests of the officeholders. I shall not enter upon any dissertation of the constitutionality of the law neither shall I attempt to pose as a substitute for the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, like my learned friend from Armstrong County, but coming to hard facts now, I wish to say that is a matter of importance that is well worthy of consideration. The present method is to pay these officers by fees from the fees. The consequence is every year that there is an election there is a wild scramble for office. Why, the woods are full of candidates. I just heard from my friend on the left here, from Westmoreland County, where they had twenty-six candidates for sheriff, and some other counties, I guess, can come up to Westmoreland. There was a worthy Irishman out there who was willing to bet that not one-half of those candidates for sheriff would be nominated. What is the use of so many running for office If there is so many there is ammunition expended for all those offices and there is a great deal of ammunition and large amounts of money expended. Why? Not for charity; not for the good of the public; not that they may have the opportunity to serve their fellowmen in office as public servants in the positions they seek; what is it for? Why, for the spoils of office and when he gets into position, gets his office, he begins to work it. He gets a farmer's position. Some of the offices cannot be farmed, and others can be farmed. The office of the district attorney can be farmed. You can farm this office very extensively. The Clerk of the Courts and the Sheriff may farm the office. They proceed to do it. They have spent their money in the canvas for the position and he wants to get it back and a big salary beside. It is not an unheard of thing in the county of York for the office of Sheriff to pay as much almost as the President of the United State receives, and four times as much as the office of Governor of Pennsylvania; that is a bagatelle, the office of Governor of Pennsylvania and the salary attached to it. Go to York County in a good season, why, the sheriff, according to reports has an income of from forty to fifty thousand dollars a year. That is in good season; that is when the people are struck by a cyclone and lots of people are ready to be sold out and the sheriff helps them in that job. He gets a committee to put a job on the man and puts him a corner; he puts him in the corner of condemnation and sends him to the condemnation bow-wows, or some other seaport, and he gets a big fee out of it. This bill of putting it on a salary will avoid that. Let the office be filled in the interest of the people and men will not be seeking cases with work to do. He will take the work that comes under the law and serve the people and not make the people serve him. He will know what to expect as his compensation; whether it is two thousand dollars or ten thousand dollars that he is to get. But when his salary is in the woods he takes his gun and goes ahunting squirrels, rabbits, partridges and pheasants and the more he can bring down the better for him, be they as big as they please. I could wish he had made a simpler classification of the counties in regard to the bill and perhaps a more equitable parcelling out of the amounts, but I say aside from that it is a strike in the right direction, and the matter that is now before us is well worthy of consideration, and I believe also well worthy of support.

Mr WOBENSMITH. Mr. Speaker, I think that this question has been discussed sufficiently so that every member present understands it as it is presented to us. We have a long calendar ahead of us, and we have other work to do and I, therefore, Mr. Speaker, move the previous question.

The SPEAKER (Charles A. Ambler) in the Chair.

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the Clerk will call the roll.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1224 (Senate Bill No. 503), as follows:

An Act making mortgages given by benevolent charitable philanthropic educational and eleemosynary institutions corporations or unincorporated associations for permanent improvements and refunding purposes prior liens to the liens of the Commonwealth for the appropriation of moneys providing a method for the giving of such mortgages and fixing the duties of the Auditor General and Board of Public Charities in connection therewith

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That whenever hereafter any benevolent charitable philanthropic educational or eleemosynary institution corporation or unincorporated association in the manner hereinafter provided shall give its mortgage to secure any bond or other obligation the proceeds whereof are to be used in making permanent improvements or to refund any bonds or other obligations secured by mortgage or both covering any real estate against which the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania holds any non-interest bearing lien for moneys appropriated the said mortgage and the lien thereof shall have prior standing and in all respects be preferred to any and all such non-interest bearing liens

Section 2 Every institution corporation or unincorporated association desiring to give a mortgage for any purpose as aforesaid shall present to the Auditor General of the Commonwealth an application duly verified by the affidavit of its president or other executive officer setting forth the amount and purpose of the mortgage desired to be given a description of the real estate to be covered thereby a list of liens and when the mortgage is for the purpose of making improvements a copy of the plans and specifications that have been adopted The application thereupon shall be referred by the Auditor General to the Board of Public Charities whose duty it shall be to investigate any and all matters touching the same and report back its findings together with any recommendation deemed pertinent

Section 3 Upon the receipt of said report the Auditor General shall either approve or disapprove the giving of such mortgage provided he shall not approve the giving of any mortgage for the purpose of making improvements unless the Board of Public Charities has found the improvements to be necessary and proper nor shall he approve the giving of any mortgage the amount whereof is in excess of fifty per centum of the fair market value of the property to be covered thereby and provided further in approving the giving of any mortgage for the purpose of making improvements he may require a bond for the erection and completion of said improvements If the giving of such mortgage be approved the Auditor General shall issue to the applicant his certificate of approval and thereafter such mortgage with all the rights and privileges hereof may be executed and delivered Every mortgage so delivered shall contain a recital of the approval as aforesaid and the purchaser of any bond or other obligation secured thereby shall not be responsible for the faithful application of the proceeds

Section 4 It shall further be the duty of the Auditor General upon notice after the recording of any mortgage given in pursuance of the provisions hereof to transmit to the prothonotary of the county in which the real estate covered by said mortgage is located a proper certificate of priority to be by that officer filed of record and noted in the appropriation lien docket

Section 5 All acts or parts of acts whether general or special inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. JAMES O. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, it has been the policy of this Commonwealth for over fifty years to reserve to itself a non-interest bearing first lien upon the property of charitable institutions toward the buildings of which and the purchase of ground where an appropriation has been made. This bill proposess that that first lien shall be subrogated to the lien of any mortgage executed by such charitable institution for the purpose of paying bonds or other obligations issued to raise money to build additional buildings to such charitable institution; or any mortgage issued to secure any bond or other obligation, the proceeds whereof are to be issued to refund any bonds or other obligations secured by mortgage. The purposes of reserving the lien to the Commonwealth have been threefold: First, to insure the proper application of the appropriation. Second, to insure the continued use of the charitable buildings and land for the purpose for which the appropriation is made. Third, with the view of providing that the people in the locality in which the charitable building is erected shall furnish a portion of the money to purchase the land and erect such buildings. This bill has the further proviso in as a cautionary measure that application for such mortgage to be issued by the charitable association shall be made to the Auditor General who shall certify the same to the Charities Board. The Charities Board shall investigate and report to the Auditor General who shall authorize the issue of such mortgage. It is further limited to fifty per cent. of the value of the property or buildings. I believe that the same reasons which were applicable in the past are applicable today, namely: That there should be an insurance to the Commonwealth that the appropriation would be used for the purposes for which it is made and to insure the Commonwealth in the continuation of the property for the purposes for which the appropriation has been made. I believe that it is just as important today that the people of the locality should furnish and not borrow a portion of the money to be used in the purchase of land or the completion of buildings or the operation of the charitable institution. I will read in 237 Pennsylvania State Report, Booth & Flinn, Ltd., v. Miller given in 1909 in an appropriation made by the State to the Western Pennsylvania Hospital. The usual provision for a non-interest bearing first lien on the property bonds were issued for the raising of a sum of $325,000 to $350,000 to be used in the construction of these buildings. A stated case was presented to the Common Pleas Court of Allegheny County to test if the mortgage was on first or second lien. The opinion holds that the lien of the State was a first lien and in an opinion by Justice Mestrezat he quotes an opinion of Mr. Justice Clark delivered in the case of McLeod v. Central Normal School Association, 152 Pa. 575, in which Mr. Justice Clark states, delivering the opinion after saying that the act established the relation of debtor and creditor proceeds (p. 583): "The object and aim of all the legislation since 1857 has been to give the State standing as a creditor against them (Normal Schools) in order that, in the event of any such attempted diversion, the State might lay its hand upon the property for its own indemnification." Justice Mestrezat proceeding, "The same purpose is manifest in the act under consideration. It appropriates the money for the specific charitable use and establishes the relation of debtor and creditor between the hospital and the State so that the purpose of the appropriation may be made effective and the fund cannot be diverted to any other purpose. It was not an absolute and unconditional gift, but one condition that the hospital should continue to use the money for the designated purpose or it should be repaid to the State." Justice Mestrezat proceeding, "It cannot be doubted that the Legislature would not have made the appropriation had it not been for the protection against the diversion of the fund to other than charitable purposes. The object of the legislation as disclosed by its terms was to appropriate the fund, not to private uses or purposes, but to the charity represented by the hospital.' Justice Mestrezat proceeding further: "The compensation for or the inducement to make the appropriation was the provision that it should be applied to no other purpose than the charity represented by the hospital which was secured by the obligation and the lien."

Mr. Speaker, I believe that this is an unwise provision and I believe that the bill should be voted down.

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 587, as follows:

An Act to amend an act approved the second day of May one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine entitled "An Act to provide revenue by imposing a mercantile license tax on venders of or dealers in goods wares and merchandise and providing for the collection of said tax"

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by authority of the same That the third section of an act approved the second day of May one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine entitled "An act to provide revenue by imposing a mercantile license tax on venders of or dealers in goods wares and merchandise and providing for the collection of said tax" which reads as follows:

"Section 3 For the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this act the appointment of mercantile appraisers shall be made annually on or before the thirtieth day of December of each year by the county commissioners except in cities of the first class when the Auditor General and the treasurer of the city are authorized and required to appoint five suitable qualified citizens all of whom shall not be of the same political party and the term of office of said appraisers shall be for three years" is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 3 For the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this act the appointment of mercantile appraisers shall be made annually on or before the thirtieth day of December of each year by the county commissioners except in cities of the first class In cities of the first class the city treasurer is required to appoint five suitable qualified citizens all of whom shall not be of the same political party whose term of office shall be for four years In such cities the city treasurer shall appoint for the board of mercantile appraisers all necessary clerical help In such cities the appraisers and the clerical help and the necessary expenses incurred in performing the duties of the office shall be paid by the city treasurer out of funds coming into his hands from the mercantile license taxes collected in such cities

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. J. W. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, this bill simply affects the City of Philadelphia. It relates to the appointment of the mercantile appraiser in Philadelphia, and it amends the Act of 1889 by giving to the City Treasurer absolutely the appointment. It is now divided with the Attorney General. This simply puts it where it belongs, as it is a local matter, and I hope it passes.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Section 6 All other acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed Unconstitutionality of one section or part of section of this act shall not invalidate the entire act

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, I was a member of the sub-committee to which this bill was assigned. I do not like to go on record as voting against the measure that has as much merit as this measure has, but I will be compelled to do so, unless the sponsor of the bill will amend the bill in section two by striking out four "thousand dollars" and inserting "three.". I went to the author of the bill and requested that he do this, but he thinks that the bill will pass as it stands and that the salary is all right.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, this bill was prepared by the Department of Public Instruction, together with the Governor of this State. The gentleman from Allegheny informed me this morning that he had been in to see the Governor and the Governor had requested or suggested that this be amended. I immediately sent a messenger to the Governor to find out whether he wanted his bill amended and whether he had told the gentleman from Allegheny those words; and he said that the suggestion came from the gentleman from Allegheny and for me to stand on the bill as it was. That is the only statement I have to make.

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, I did not see the Governor neither did I say I saw the Governor. I saw the Governor's Secretary, or Acting Secretary, and he spoke to me about this and I said that I would support the bill if it was amended. The Governor said nothing to me. I did not see His Excellency at all. If the gentleman does not want to tell the truth about me I wish he would remain silent.

Mr. MILLIRON. I do not want to get my name in the paper, but I just want to guarantee my friend that this has nothing to do with local option.

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, I accept the gentleman's apology.

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 630, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to pay for the collection revising indexing and proof-reading of the material contained in the pamphlet known as "The Game, Fish and Forestry Laws" of this Commonwealth

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WALTON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend section 1, line 4 by striking out the word "dolars" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "dollars"

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendment as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 868, entitled:

An Act to regulate the operation of motor vehicles for public use in the transportation of persons and the issuance of licenses therefor to prescribe the qualifications of the owners and drivers or operators thereof to define certain rights and duties and fixing penalties for the violation of this act and to provide revenue from the operation of such vehicles for the maintenance of streets and highways

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Sinclair, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SINCLAIR. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman how this bill is affected by the bill passed yesterday, or the day before, which practically abolished trading stamps?

Mr. SINCLAIR. Mr. Speaker, it will not affect it at all.

Mr. WALTER. Why not?

Mr. SINCLAIR. This bill is a bill that the merchants of my county are very much in favor of. The only thing to it is that it makes it optional with the holders of the coupons whether they take the premium put up or the value in cash, and that is the only thing there is to the bill.

Mr. WALTER. It makes it cash or premium?

Mr. SINCLAIR. Yes, and that is optional with the holder of the coupons.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—1

McKay,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 135, entitled:

An Act defining drugs and defining and regulating the peddling thereof

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. THEODORE CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, just a word to explain this bill. It is termed the Vendors' Bill for persons peddling drugs throughout the country. This bill has been presented at the suggestion partly of the Vendors Association and the State Pharmaceutical Examining Board. It puts on the vendor a tax of five dollars per year. It requires their preparations to be put up under the supervision of a registered pharmacist. The cause of this bill being brought about is that there is a great deal of fictitious stuff peddled throughout the country, in the farming districts, that has no virtue whatever. In a great many cases there have been deaths which have been traced back to preparations that have been sold that have no standing whatever. I call your attention to a preparation that was put on the market about a year ago, known as the "Elixir of Life." The label called for a great many cures made only in New York State and Canada. Complaint was made to Doctor Dixon in regard to this preparation. He referred it back to the State Pharmaceutical Examining Board and they began to make trace of this preparation and they found it was manufactured in Altoona in a livery stable, in a horse's stall, manufactured, labeled, bottled and put up there for sale on investigating the preparation it was found to be nothing more than a fusion of quassa with a little aniline coloring. This was put out on the market and advertised on the label as a cure for rheumatism and all manner of bodily ailments. Mr. Speaker, a bill of this character is something that every country district needs. They have no way of knowing what the preparations are at the present time. Under this bill a preparation that is put out has to come up to the requirements of the pharmacopoeia. This does not effect any flavoring extracts or anything of that kind, because they come under the Pure Food Act. There has been some mention made here as to whether it would affect soaps and things of that character. This only pertains to the preparations such as liniments and ingredients used internally.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I am sorry to disagree with my friend from Philadelphia, but when the parcels post of the United States was contemplated it was said that there was only three reasons against it: The Adams Express Company, the American Express Company and the Wells Fargo Express Company, and it seems that the only objection for the innocent peddling of medicines is the drug stores, the druggists, and the drug clerks. It strikes me through receiving letters from some of my constituents and some of my friends in the country around and about Erie that it would be wrong to enact this bill into a law. The drug peddlers who go about the country don't object to the payment of a small license fee but they do object to being put under an examination under the State Pharmaceutical Board. If this become a law it would be almost impossible for anybody to buy any of the innocent home remedies that most of the peddlers handle throughout the country. It may be a matter of fact that some men abuse this right but I take the position that it is not any more abused by these men who go through the country than it is by those who sell the drugs in the drug stores. I have no personal interest in this bill at all, but I call the attention of the House to these matters and will ask them to look them over carefully before their vote is cast.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that if the medicines are labeled as required and that the packages be marked according to the requirements it will do no harm whatever if the medicines are sold all over the country by dealers and others, if they are so marked, so that the farmers know what they buy. That is our position on this bill that no person can bottle anything that is not so marked and by paying this insignificant license fee. It seems to me that this bill ought to be considered favorably.

Mr. BARNETT. Mr. Speaker, we have too much regulation already. We have a law for this and a law for that and a law for the other thing. Suppose some woman wants to sell a little bunch of herb tea? Look at the trouble she would get into. Or suppose she would want to sell a bottle of magic liniment? Look at the amount of trouble she would get into. Trouble for nothing. I cannot see any good that can come out of this bill.

Mr. THEODORE CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, when it comes to regulating that which goes into the human body I tell you you cannot regulate it too much. You cannot regulate too much anything pertaining to the health of the people of this country. In reference to the passing of an eamination they do not have to pass any examination whatever.

On the qestion, recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 563, as follows:

An Act to amend second section of an act approved the thirteenth day of June one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three entitled "An Act for the promotion of medical science by the distribution and use of unclaimed human bodies for scientific purposes through a board created for that purpose and to prevent unauthorized uses and traffic in human bodies" by providing that bodies of honorably discharged soldiers sailors or marines of the United States and the militia of the State of Pennsylvania shall not be delivered to said anatomical board and further providing that there shall not be delivered to the said board any body claimed by relatives friends or representatives of a fraternal society of charitable organization within a reasonable time after deatn.

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the second section of an act approved June thirteenth one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three entitled "An Act for the promotion of medical science by the distribution and use of unclaimed human bodies for scientific purposes through a board created for that purpose and to prevent unauthorized uses and traffic in human bodies" which reads as follows

"Section 2 All public officers agents and servants and all officers agents and servants of any and every county city township borough district and other municipality and of any and every almshouse prison morgue hospital or other public institution having charge or control over dead human bodies required to be buried at the public expense are hereby required to notify the said board of distribution or such person or persons as may from time to time be designated by said board or its duly authorized officer or agent whenever any such body or bodies come to his or their possession charge or control and shall without fee or reward deliver such body or bodies and permit and suffer the said board and its agents and the physicians and surgeons from time to time designated by them who may comply with the provisions of this act to take and remove all such bodies to be used within this State for the advancement of medical science but no such notice need be given nor shall any such body be delivered if any person claiming to be and satisfying the authorities in charge of said body that he or she is of kindred or is related by marriage to the deceased shall claim the said body for burial but it shall be surrendered for interment nor shall the notice be given or body delivered if such deceased person was a traveler who died suddenly in which case the said body shall be buried" be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 2 All public officers agents and servants and all officers agents and servants of any and every county city township borough district and other municipality and of any and every almshouse prison morgue hospital or other municipality or other public institution having charge or control over dead human bodies required to be buried at the public expense and hereby required to notify the said board of distribution or such person or persons as may from time to time be designated by said board or its duly authorized officer or agent when ever any such body or bodies come to his or their possession charge or control and shall without fee or reward deliver such body or bodies and permit and suffer the said board and its agents and the physicians and surgeons from time to time designated by them who may comply with the provisions of this act to take and remove all such bodies to be used within the State for the advancement of medical science but no such notice need be given nor shall any such body be delivered if any relative by blood or marriage shall claim the said body for burial within a reasonable time which shall not be less than forty-eight hours after death but the body shall be surrendered to said claimant for interment nor shall the notice be given or body delivered if said person was a traveler who died suddenly or was an honorably discharged soldier sailor or marine of the United States or of the militia of the State of Pennsylvania in which case said body shall be buried in accordance with the provisions of existing laws

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to insert amendments to this bill at this time.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The amendments were then read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Section 2, line 39, by striking out the word "and" and insert instead the word "are"

Further amend Section 2, line 56, by placing a closing bracket after the word "Commonwealth"

Further amend Section 2, line 61, by removing the closing bracket after the word "organization"

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendments will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 173, entitled:

An Act requiring all locomotives operated by common carriers to be equipped with bell ringers and providing a penalty for violation thereof

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the author of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Sinclair, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SINCLAIR. Mr. Speaker, yes sir.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr Speaker, I desire to ask the sponsor of this bill what the purpose of this bill is?

Mr. SINCLAIR. Mr. Speaker, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers asked me to present this bill which I did. The purpose of the bill is to compel the railroads to install an automatic bell ringer on all locomtives not so equipped at the present time. At the present time I believe the Lake Erie, the B. and O. and the D. and W. have all installed these automatic bell-ringers. It is a very simple device and if I am correctly informed, costs about two dollars and fifty cents to install on each locomtive. Further than that I know very little of it, but I think it is a very good and meritorious bill.

An Act to prohibit in cities of the second class the construction or erection of public or community vaults crypts or mausoleums (that is to say vaults crypts or mausoleums or parts of mausoleums intended for sale to the public) for the interment of human bodies where the building containing such vaults crypts or mausoleums is wholly or partially above the surface of the ground

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. NISSLEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Stein, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STEIN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. NISSLEY. Mr Speaker, I desire to know whether this bill affects Bill No. 590, known as the Mausoleum Bill, of which I happen to be the sponsor.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, in reply to my friend from Dauphin I am pleased to state that this bill will not in any way interfere with Bill No. 590, of which he is the sponsor in this House. The bill now under consideration is intended for second class cities only. It is intended for the benefit of Pittburgh and Scranton. It is requested by our municipal authorities and is introduced for the purpose of prohibiting the erection of what is practically a cold storage for the dead, in the very best section of Pittsburgh. There does not seem to be any demand whatever for the erection of the mausoleum which is strictly a scheme for profit and practically every person within a radius of a mile of the proposed building is very seriously opposed to the bill. The municipal authorities are opposed to it and the best element of the people everywhere are opposed to it and I do not find any one in its favor except the promoters of the scheme. I would say that it does not interfere with the gentleman's bill and I, therefore, ask the gentlemen of the House to give me an unanimous vote for it.

NAYS—0

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1182, entitled:

An Act to prevent municipalities from locating or opening streets roads or highways on over or through land belonging to any educational institution conducted by the Commonwealth or by a board appointed in whole or in part by the Governor without first obtaining the approval of the Governor and the board in charge thereof

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?
